FRANK SAVED FROM DEATH

JOLIET WARDEN'S WIFE SLAIN

SLATON SHIFTS HIS SENTENCE TO LIFE TERM

BULLETIN.

Macon, Ga., June 21, 3 a. m.—Leo M. Frank arrived in this city at 2:44 a. m. under heavy guard on his way to the state farm at Milledgeville.

Sheriff Mangum of Fulton county, who had Frank in charge, said that Frank's sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Slaton.

The sheriff and his prisoner were transferred to an automobile and immediately left for the state farm. Frank was not handcuffed.

STARTS FROM ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., June 21, 1 a. m.—Leo M. Frank was placed on the rear coach of a Georgia Central train early this morning and sent to the state farm at Milledgeville under heavy guard.

Gov. Slaton declined to discuss the report and all efforts to confirm it in official quarters were unavailing.

Frank's departure has led to the belief that the chief executive has decided to commute his sentence to life imprisonment. Attorney Harry Alexander of Frank's counsel says:

"I infer sentence has been commuted."

Mrs. Leo M. Frank, when told of the rumor of the removal of her husband from jail, said:

"I am not surprised."

Solicitor Dorsey said he had no information that Frank had been moved from the jail, and "would be surprised" if it were true.

HISTORY OF THE CASE.

On Saturday, April 26, 1913, a holiday, Mary Phagan went from her home in Atlanta to the National Pencil factory, at which she worked, to get some pay still owing her. She did not return to her home. A search was instituted without success.

At 3:30 o'clock the following morning her dead body was accidentally discovered in the basement of the pencil factory by the night watchman.

Leo M. Frank, the superintendent of the factory, who admitted having paid the girl her wages in his office at noon on Saturday, and Newt Lee, the night watchman, who had discovered the body, were arrested at once.

Notes Found Beside Body.

Alongside Mary Phagan's body were found two illiterate notes in pencil, purporting to have been written by the victim, and stating that the deed had been done by "a long, tall, slim, black negro." The notes were manifestly a clumsy invention of the murderer to divert suspicion.

It soon became apparent that the night watchman was not the guilty person. Suspicion fastened on Frank and rapidly intensified.

Then a third man, a negro named Jim Conley, who also worked in the factory, and who was not known to have been in

Joseph E. Davies, chairman of the federal trade commission, yesterday opened the eleventh annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at the Auditorium theater with an official message of optimism and reassurance to the American man of business from the national administration.

Mr. Davies said he had been distinctly requested by the president of the United States to assure the advertising men that he was prevented from personally addressing them only on account of the extraordinary pressure of matters of grave importance in Washington.

Wilson's Name Cheered.

His mention of President Wilson elicited an extraordinary burst of patriotic fervor which was intensified when President William Woodhead of the Associated Advertising clubs transmitted the thanks of the organization to President Wilson and Mr. Davies for the message and declared that "the business men of America are behind the president to the last man."

The audience rose three times and joined in the singing of patriotic airs to the accompaniment of the grand opera orchestra. The meeting typified the presence of patriotism and morality in world commerce. President Woodhead designated Mr. Davies' speech as a historical address which every business man in America will be keen to read today.

Talk of Conditions After War.

In his speech Mr. Davies presaged conditions which will obtain in trade at home and abroad following the European war.

Applause greeted the speaker when he stated that the entrance of the federal commission into American business does not mean a raid on the part of the government to put business men in jail, but rather to work hand in hand with them when the government thinks they are violating the law, and arrive at a reasonable agreement when possible without recourse to the courts. Mr. Davies' speech is printed elsewhere in this edition of THE TRIBUNE.

Admen Talk from Pulpits.

The mass meeting followed a busy day on the part of the advertising men, around fifty of whom preached on advertising and morality in modern business in fifty Chicago churches in the forenoon. President Woodhead reserved his own sermon for the mass meeting in the theater. He pounded home that truthful advertising is the only kind that can pay

MARVELS OF FLOATS IN PARADE TONIGHT.

TONIGHT'S the night of the big advertising pageant—described by J. C. Hauser, one of its chief organizers, as the biggest illuminated parade of advertising that the world has ever seen. The parade will include 150 floats, representing an aggregate cost of $100,000, and 4,000 organized advertising men drawn from the ranks of the 10,000 visiting delegates are to be in line behind Chief of Police Healey, who will lead the parade. It begins at 8 o'clock.

The marchers will mobilize on Michigan boulevard, south of Twelfth street, march north to Washington street, west to State street, south to Jackson boulevard, west to Market street, and there disband.

BURGLAR SHOOTS BRIDE OF MONTH

A motor car bearing Ralph G. Brooks, superintendent of the International Harvester company, and his wife and son, Ralph Jr., drew up before the Brooks mansion, on Maplewood avenue in Riverside, about 10 o'clock last night.

"That's queer," commented Mr. Brooks as he glanced up at the house. "I wonder who turned on that light upstairs." He jumped from the machine. "It's burglars," he cried; "the second time in a month. Come on, Ralph."

The two men ran up the steps and threw open the front door. Inside they heard footsteps storming down a rear stairway. The young man ran around the house in an effort to intercept the intruders, while his father ran through the house to the back door. They were both a second too late.

Mrs. Brooks, her husband's second wife, and married only a month ago, stood in front, breathless. Suddenly two men leaped from the shadows a few feet from where she stood. One of them raised a revolver. A spurt of flame, and she sank to the grass with a bullet in her left leg. The men disappeared up the road.

Detectives Haffner and Van Dusen, half a block away, heard the shot and came running. One of the burglars ran into their arms. The other escaped. The man who was arrested gave the name of Connors, and said he was a clerk.

Mrs. Brooks' wound was attended to by a physician, while police investigated the burglary. Three suitcases were found packed with clothes and jewels, ready to be taken away.

THE VICTIM.

MRS EDMUND M ALLEN

BODY FOUND IN BURNING ROOM AT PRISON YARD

Negro 'Trusty,' Who Just Had Been in House, Held for Crime.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Joliet, Ill., June 20.—Two years ago Warden Edmund M. Allen inaugurated the "honor system" among the convicts at the Joliet penitentiary.

It was the ambition of Warden Allen's life to establish the entire function of the prison on an "honor" basis. The success of the plan was praised and copied by institutions in all parts of the United States.

This morning the "angel of Joliet" was found dead in the warden's suite. Her skull was fractured and her body was fearfully burned. She was murdered, it is believed, by a product of the "honor system" she had done so much to build up.

PRISON FIREMEN FIND HER.

In the absence of Warden Allen, the volunteer convicts' fire department, summoned to the warden's suite, discovered the body on the burning bed.

The only persons who had access to the warden's apartments were trusted convicts who acted as household servants by virtue of the honor system.

On one of these honor convicts the investigators concentrated their attention. This man is "Chicken Joe" Campbell, a negro, convictel of slaying his employer, who discharged him, in Chicago five years ago and sent to the penitentiary to serve an indeterminate sentence of from one year to life.

So far as is known, Campbell, chosen as Mrs. Allen's personal servant by the warden several months ago, is the last person to have seen Mrs. Allen alive.

ALCOHOL JUG FOUND.

In the wreck of the charred bed were found bits of a jug which had contained wood alcohol—a jug which should have been in another part of the house.

Seeking to learn how the alcohol jug got from the linen closet to the bedroom, a hastily formed investigating committee, composed of prison and police officials and personal friends of the warden, sat in session all morning, questioning the dozen house servants of the Allens.

The evidence pointed to Campbell as the last man in the room.

Although the negro successfully evaded attempts to lead him into contradictions, his story is much less satisfactory than those told by the other house servants, only five of whom are white men.

The fire, which was practically confined to the twin beds in the spacious living room on the second floor of the warden's house, had burned for several minutes before it was discovered.

FAILED TO GO WITH HUSBAND.

Mrs. Allen, disappointed by her dressmaker at the last minute, had been unable to accompany the warden when he started on a ten day trip to West Baden, Ind., last night, and had been the only occupant of the bedroom.

At 6:10, nearly an hour before her usual rising time, the gong rung by a push button at her bedside, set up a clamor. Usually such a summons is answerel at once by Campbell, whose station is in a den opening off the bedroom.

James Larkin, a keeper, was at breakfast in the butler's pantry, around a bend in the corridor. He ran into the hall and met George Simpson, another negro house servant, who had been across the corridor in another suite.

"The lady's ringing," snapped Larkin. "Why don't you answer?"

"It ain't my bell," protested the negro. "Where's Campbell?"

The keeper raised his voice and called Campbell. There was no reply from the negro, but Larkin's call and the continued unbroken ringing of the gong brought Harry Rogers, a night turnkey, from his post on the lower floor.

"I smell smoke!" Rogers announced as he reached the head of the staircase, panting. "Get to the fire whistle!"

Neither of the others moved to obey, so Rogers himself raced downstairs and into the prison yard. In the boiler room, fifty yards away, he jerked the whistle cord.

FIRE SQU'D OUT.

Warden Allen's 1,800 convict charges were at breakfast when the screaming of the fire siren wailed through the yard. Used to practice drills anl minor blazes all but those assigned to the prison fire squad continued eating.

The convict firemen raced to their rendezvous, the boiler room. A half dozen of them followed Michael Kane, day captain of the department, into the warden's house. With them ran Christy O'Leary, the warden's chauffeur.

Kane, O'Leary, and the rest found Larkin beating with his fists against the locked door connecting the bedroom with the governor's suite. Smoke was curling through the cracks between door and frame and Kane's arrival was greeted by a crashing of glass as the bedroom windows fell out.

SMASHES PANEL OF DOOR.

O'Leary smashed a panel of the door with a wrench and reached through and turned the key. Smoke billowed forth in a cloud that drove back the fire fighters.

"Mrs. Allen's in there!" cried some one in the crowd.

Later it developel that the woman figure seen on the stairs was that of Katherine Allen, Mrs. Allen's 17 year old stepdaughter. But temporarily fears for the safety of the warden's wife were allayed and no attempt was made to fight the fire from the other two bedroom doors.

STUMBLE OVER RUINS.

O'Leary lay in the west door, directing the stream from a lead of hose. Back of the smoke barrier he could see flame. By the time the flame had been drenched out it was 6:40 o'clock. O'Leary and Kane groped their way into the room, stumbling over the ruins of a lounge.

They came at last to the twin beds. The charred posts were still standing. The rest had gone up in the fire.

"My God!" he cried. "There's Mrs. Allen!"

Through all this time the bell had been ringing. O'Leary saw why. The alarm had been sounded automatically when the wooden covering had been burned off and the wires short circuited. Had it not been for this freak of the flames the whole building might have been burned out and all evidence of a crime destroyed.

The body was examined by Dr. John P. Benson, who found a rectangular fracture on the right side of the skull. From this wound the blood had come. Dr. Benson said a blow from the jug or from the thermos carafe, which stood on a table at the head of the bed, might have caused the fracture. No other weapon was found. Several rings, valued at $2,000, were still on Mrs. Allen's fingers, the physician reported.

NEGRO LOITERING OUTSIDE.

The excitement apparently had not disturbed Campbell, who was loitering behind the greenhouse, outside the prison walls and about a hundred yards up the drive, while Mrs. Allen's pet bull terrier pup romped on the lawn.

Closer to the house and outside the walls Capt. A. J. Clarkson, chief parole agent, was strolling at the same time. He heard the crash of glass and saw smoke coming from the windows of the warden's bedroom.

Clarkson started into the house, then spied Campbell walking slowly toward him in the driveway, the terrier worrying his heels.

"Quick!" yelled Clarkson. "Warden house is afire!"

"Don't think so, boss," replied the negro, who seemed neither surprised nor excited by the news. "See any smoke? I don't."

Clarkson was amazed at the negro's apathy. Smoke clouds were rushing from the windows only a few yards overhead.

"Are you blind?" he demanded. "Come on!"

He ran into the house. Campbell, quickening his pace, followed. As he walked he mumbled the story he afterward stuck to under the cross fire questions of the investigating committee.

HERE'S NEGRO'S STORY.

"I ain't been in the house since a few minutes after 6," he said.

"It was just 6 when Mrs. Allen called me. I was sittin' in the den since half-past 5.

"'You get me the papers, Joe,' she said. I got 'em for her and filled her thermos bottle with ice water. Then she says to me to be sure to tell the barber she wanted him to wake her up at 9 o'clock because she wanted a shampoo.

"Mrs. Allen got back into bed after she let me in and she didn't lock the door when I went out.

"Whenever I ain't got anything else to do I'm supposed to take the dog out. So, seeing Mrs. Allen was goin' to sleep till 9 I went on out."

While other officials and friends were getting the investigation under way Deputy Warden Lawrence Ryan reached Warlen Allen by long distance telephone at West Baden. A reporter stood listening at his side.

"This you, warden?" asked Ryan when the connection had been made.

"Yep—what's the matter?"

Ryan stumbled over his words. Allen caught the break.

"Will she die? Is it that bad?" he demanded.

"I'm afraid she will?"

"Can you keep her alive until I get there?"

"We'll try."

"Don't spare anything!" cried the warden. "I'll be there as quick as motors and trains'll carry me."

Allen snapped the receiver on the hook. Less than half an hour later there was another call from Ryan. This time the deputy spoke to John Bray, a Joliet druggist, who had accompanied Allen on the trip to West Baden. To Bray he told the truth.

"The warden's pretty well broken up," said Bray. "I don't think I'd better tell him yet."

OVERLAND RUSH HOME.

It was some time before Allen and Bray could catch a Chicago train. They had to make a flying connection in Englewood. A party of Joliet and Chicago friends, including William D. Heise, former state's attorney of Will county and head of the investigating committee, met them at the Monon station and carried them in a fast motor to the Englewood union station. A Rock Island train which passes through Joliet—the 5:44—was just pulling out as they boarded it.

Warden Allen was met some distance outside of Chicago by William H. Clare, collector of the port stationed at Chicago, and told of the crime. All that Mr. Allen could say was:

Warden Allen, accompanied by Mr. Clare and several friends, arrived in Joliet at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Allen was taken in an automobile to the home of Mr. Heise. He was then told most of the details of the tragedy and later driven to the prison. When he alighted from the automobile at the entrance he was supported by Mr. Heise and W. L. Colvin, one of the prison commissioners.

MAY AFFECT HONOR SYSTEM.

A coroner's jury was waiting to begin the inquest when Allen arrived here. After a consultation, however, Coroner William C. Wunderlich announced an indefinite continuance.

On his way upstairs later to the room in which his son and daughter were waiting, the warden halted at the open door of the bedroom. He stepped inside. An instant later he reappeared, weeping.

Allen was not in condition then to make a public statement. Later he spoke through one of the prison commissioners.

"The warden says it's too horrible to talk about," said the commissioner. "He doesn't know now what effect this is going to have on the honor system. That will be worked out later, he says."

Members of the commission, who meet tomorrow, were already here. They would not discuss their plans, but it was inferred from what little they would say that some features of the honor system are likely to be eliminated.

Campbell, they were informed, had been an honor man for three months. Warden Allen, noting with approval his good nature, had picked him then for a house servant.

HEISE LEADS INQUIRY.

Heise, a close personal and political friend of Warden Allen, was the leading spirit of the unofficial investigation. A telephone message brought him to the penitentiary less than an hour after the discovery of Mrs. Allen's body in the fire swept bedroom. In the absence of Coroner Wunderlich, who did not arrive in town until late afternoon, Deputy Coroner Eugene Harris also had been summoned.

With other officials and friends, some of whom had been called from Chicago, Heise and Harris held court in the warden's office from 8:30 o'clock until noon.

It was not until the investigation had been under way a half hour that the discovery of a broken alcohol jug gave point to the suspicion that the fire was not an accidental one. Capt. Clarkson, exploring the ruins of Mrs. Allen's bed, made the find.

THE ALCOHOL JUG.

Clarkson summoned Miss Anna J. Emery, the housekeeper, who, except for O'Leary, the chauffeur, is the only member of the warden's household staff not a prisoner.

"Where do you think these came from?" he asked, pointing out the bits of earthenware.

"Maybe it was the alcohol jug," suggested Miss Emery.

She ran to the linen closet, the door of which was unlocked, and verified her suspicion.

"The jug is gone," she told Capt. Clarkson when she returned. "Simpson has charge of the linen closet and he says it was there when he saw it last."

Miss Allen's Story.

Clarkson reported to the committee, members of which had just learned how the rumor started, that Mrs. Allen was safe in another part of the house.

Miss Allen said it was undoubtedly she who had been seen on the stairs. Awakened by the continuous ringing of the bell from her step-mother's room and the stamping of feet as the fire fighters raced through the lower corridors, she had left her own bedroom on the third floor to investigate.

"I got down to the second floor," she said, "and one of the men met me at the foot of the stairs.

"I ran back to my room and started to dress. Then when I came downstairs again they told me what had happened."

Miss Allen was the only person sleeping on the third floor, it developed. The rest of the floor is given over to seldom-occupied guest rooms.

Prison Guards Rush Down.

In rear rooms on the top floor—the fourth—twenty prison guards were quartered. Some of them rushed downstairs to join the fire fighters. The others, following the prison routine, when they saw their services were not needed, went to their posts in the yard.

The big front bedroom on the fourth floor was occupied by Jack Allen, the warden's 19 year old son, and a school chum. Young Allen said the ringing of the bell awoke him for a moment, but he slept through most of the excitement below.

Mrs. Allen Defends Honor System in Last Interview.

Henry M. Hyde of "The Tribune" was the last reporter to interview Mrs. Allen. He went to Joliet several days ago and prepared a series of articles on the "honor system," which appeared in this paper.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

Meeting Mrs. Allen but a single time, one could not fail to be impressed with her personal charm and with the keen and intelligent interest she took in her husband's plans to give the men under his charge a chance to make good.

Still a young and pretty woman, she had the normal woman's love for dainty clothes and feminine adornments. Within the forbidding stone walls of the prison buildings she had made a comfortable and handsome home for her husband and his children.

In the big reception room there were plenty of books and pictures and the piano at one end spoke of her love for music.

At luncheon she was a gracious and charming hostess. When a guest called attention to her lack of appetite—she was served only with a small dish of cereal—she smiled and twinkled at her husband across the table as he declared, half jokingly, that she was determined to keep her youthful figure.

The luncheon was beautifully served and Mrs. Allen explained that the butler had long been a waiter in one of the big hotels in Chicago and that though he was a prisoner on a serious charge, she was sure no man could be more trustworthy or more appreciative of good treatment than he.

She went on to talk of her efforts to help some of the women who had been released after serving a term in prison. It was told not at all in a boastful way but rather to illustrate how very hard it is for such women to get a fresh start in life. There was one girl, for instance, whom Mrs. Allen had befriended in the penitentiary and in whose interest she made several trips to Chicago after her release. The girl told her that as long as she was able to live an honest life she would write once a month.

"She said," Mrs. Allen went on, "that when I failed to hear from her I might know that she had lost the fight. It's been more than three months now since I've had a letter."

There were something very like tears in her eyes and her husband hastened to bring back a smile by a teasing reference to his wife's devotion to physical culture and gymnastic exercises.

Presently there was a reference to the warden's honor system experiment and Mrs. Allen was quick again to declare that the prisoners were human like the rest of us and that many of them were more unfortunate than willfully criminal. It was plain that her husband in his ambitious plans for improving prison conditions had no more ardent sympathizer.

One feels almost certain even now, that if she could speak she would urge that the awful crime of one man should not be charged up against the great body of his fellows, who are doing their best to "make good."

DRESSMAKER'S DELAY FATAL TO MRS. ALLEN.

Warden Allen went in to Chicago yesterday morning on a train that reached the city at 10 o'clock. Save for a delay on the part of her dressmaker, Mrs. Allen would be alive today, his companion at the West Baden baths.

Through the late morning and early afternoon hours the warden was occupied with business. He had planned a surprise for his wife and one visit took him to the jewelry shop of S. Wechter & Co. in the Masonic temple. There he got three rings left by Mrs. Allen for repairs and another one of which she knew nothing. That was the surprise—a mate for her $3,000 dinner ring, set with two four carat diamonds.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Allen was called to the telephone by the warden.

"Ready to Start."

"I'm afraid you won't," said Mrs. Allen. "I was counting on one particular dress for the trip and it's not ready. I'll have to wait until tomorrow. You go on, and I'll follow."

Allen was unable to persuade her to leave Joliet without the gown. Finally he agreed to leave her ticket, already purchased, at the Monon station. The warden left Chicago for the Indiana health resort at 9:15 in the evening.

While he was speeding toward the Springs, which physicians had prescribed for a stomach ailment, Mrs. Allen remained in warden house with Jack and Katherin, the warden's children by his first wife, now dead.

Invited Upstairs by Daughter.

After dinner she went to a moving picture show with Jack, Katherin and Jack's guest, Tom Larkin, a son of the millionaire soap manufacturer. The party returned to warden house at 10:30. For an hour the young people danced to the music of a talking machine.

"Don't you think you'd better come up and share my room tonight, mother?" asked Katherin as the family party was retiring. "Won't you be lonesome?"

MRS. ALLEN BEAUTY OF OLD MERRY WIDOW COMPANY.

Mrs. Allen was 34 years old. She married Warden Allen five years ago. Mrs. Allen formerly was Miss Odette Mazie Bordeaux of the original "Merry Widow" company of New York. She was a native of New Orleans. At 21 she joined a musical comedy company in New Orleans. She possessed talent and beauty, and when "The Merry Widow" company was organized she was made an understudy to Ethel Jackson, who played the title rôle. Shortly afterward she was given the title rôle in a road company.

She met Edmund M. Allen in New York about six years ago. They were quietly married in Crown Point on April 26, 1909, and then Mrs. Allen left the stage.

When her husband was appointed warden of Joliet penitentiary by Gov. Dunne in 1913, Mrs. Allen's influence did much toward establishing the "honor system," which made the Illinois state prison take its place in the front rank of modern prisons. She took an active part in the affairs of the institution and was beloved by all of the convicts with whom she came in contact.

It was due to Mrs. Allen's influence that the Joliet prison band was allowed to leave the penitentiary walls on various occasions unaccompanied by a guard.

Funeral services for Mrs. Allen will be held in Christ church here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Burial, it is announced, will be private.

ALLEN FATHER OF MANY REFORMS IN STATE PRISON

Let Good Men Talk and Smoke Freely and Applied the Golden Rule.

Warden Edmund M. Allen is not only a man successful through his own efforts, but is possessed of a comfortable fortune inherited from his father.

After serving two four year terms as police magistrate in Joliet he was elected mayor in 1912. In April, 1914, a month before his mayoral term expired, Gov. Dunne appointed him warden of the penitentiary to succeed E. J. Murphy, a Republican.

Allen had not been warden long before there were great changes inside the walls of the prison. He argued that confinement was a sufficient punishment, and, there being none of superior authority to oppose him, he began one by one to abolish the conventional prison horrors.

The silence rule, producer of lip readers and the prison soundless "grapevine," was lifted. Convicts were permitted to talk freely at the mess table and in the shops. A prison band was organized—the Honor band. Its men had special privileges, but they were not the only ones to profit. At every meal there was a band concert.

All Good Convicts Smoke.

Allen also decided to use tobacco as a different sort of disciplinary weapon. Instead of permitting certain men to smoke once in a while as a reward for good behavior he gave permission to every convict to smoke in his cell at night.

But those, considering others at which the new warden aimed, were minor reforms. The prison "Honor Farm" was established, a model for other penologists who were students and theorists rather than doers.

"The golden rule is the biggest asset of all in handling criminals," said Warden Allen. "They're human, these prisoners of mine, and I never forget it."

And forthwith 160 men whose good conduct had singled them out for especial consideration went out to work on the 2,000 acre honor farm. But after July 1 another farm will have to be found. On that day ground will be broken for the new penitentiary of Allen's dreams—a prison with light, clean, sanitary cell houses and without walls. The present farm is to be the site of that "honor prison."

Last week the legislature put its stamp of approval on two of the big reforms.

Both houses passed a bill inspired by the warden which gives life termers a chance to be paroled after spending twenty years in prison. At another time a bill was passed giving Allen the right to enlist in his road camps men to whom that privilege is now barred by law.

Law Lets Down Bars.

The law, as it stands, always has been regarded by the warden as a hindrance to his road camp scheme, which he devised to get as many as possible of his prisoners into the open.

The convict road builders could not leave the camp, nor could they have liquor. Otherwise they were unhampered. They went to work at 7:30 in the morning, and after 4:30 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon their time was theirs. There were baseball games in the camps while daylight lasted, and card games and the like in the evening.

But Warden Allen was worried because he was prevented by law from according the privilege of the road camps to men with more than five years of their terms left to serve. The second bill passed by the legislature remedies that.

CAMPBELL SLEW MAN IN CHICAGO

CONFESSED TO MURDER.

Joe Campbell was sentenced to the penitentiary for killing another negro, Henry Stephens, who was employed as a janitor at 3930 Twelfth street. The shooting took place in the basement of a building at the Twelfth street address on Nov. 10, 1913.

Policeman John O'Brien of Chicago, who arrested Campbell, said the murder of Stephens was the most inexcusable he had ever heard of during his twenty-three years' experience on the police force.

"I always believed that Campbell was a very 'bad egg,'" said O'Brien. "From the way he acted after we arrested him I knew he was an old hand at the game. I think he had a record in New York.

"On Nov. 10, 1913, my partner, Kerbey, who is now dead, and I were sent over to a basement in West Twelfth street. A man was murdered there. We found it was Henry Stephens, a contracting janitor employed in the neighborhood.

Go After Campbell.

"Immediately I suspected Campbell, who was employed by the murdered man. I found Stephens was going to discharge Campbell the night of the murder. With my partner we waited for him near Cohen's saloon on Twelfth street, near Crawford avenue.

"Campbell also was employed in the saloon as a porter. The barkeeper denied he had seen Campbell that day. A few minutes after we left the saloon we saw Campbell coming up an alley in the rear of Twelfth street.

"We captured him and took him to the station. He denied he murdered Stephens. We took him to the basement, and he confessed. He said Stephens came at him with an ax and threatened to kill him for some reason. Then he shot Stephens with a .44 caliber army pistol.

"We asked him what he did with the pistol, and he said he threw it down a sewer nearby. We opened the sewer, but found no pistol. Finally he admitted he had taken it to his home at 4112 Armour avenue.

Found a Negress.

"We went there and found he was living with a negress. She said he was not married to her. We found he had quite a few women friends in the neighborhood. In fact, he was known around there as 'Chicken Joe.'

"The trial was held before Judge Richard Burke. Campbell told the same story on the witness stand that he had told us. They couldn't get him to admit that he had no reason to murder Stephens.

"Then, a few weeks later, I met one of the jurors on the street car. He told me the majority of the jurors were in favor of acquitting the negro. Later they returned a verdict of manslaughter, and Judge Burke sentenced him to Joliet for an indefinite period.

"The judge told Campbell he would have him paroled in a few years if he behaved himself in the penitentiary."

Mrs. Allen as Host Praised by Actress.

THE "Peg o' My Heart" company played before the men in the pen'entiary on Dec. 4 at the request of Warden Allen. Miss Peggy O'Neil had a long conversation with Mrs. Allen at that time.

"Mrs. Allen told me she had lots of friends in the theatrical business, but she never mentioned that she had been on the stage," Miss O'Neil said last night. "She was a very charming, attractive woman, very pretty, and a perfect hostess. We asked lots of questions about the prisoners, and she seemed very much interested in their welfare. I think three trusties were acting as servants while we were there. Mrs. Allen said she had entire faith in their good behavior. One of them was a negro, a short, good natured fellow who was soon going to be released. Mrs. Allen especially pointed out another trusty, a white man. 'I don't know how we are going to get along when he is gone,' she said. 'He's so willing and capable to do anything we ask.'

"I was going down to Jolliet next Thursday at Mrs. Allen's special request. They wanted me to go through the woman's department with my Peg costume and my dog. You see, the women weren't admitted to the other performance."

GRACE S. POTTER STILL IN HIDING ON LAKE SHORE?

Woman Says Girl Rode on Milwaukee Electric Car Last Night.

Miss Grace Stewart Potter, the missing pianist, is believed to be still wandering about the woods and cliffs in Winnetka or staying secretly at some house in the north shore suburb.

At 10 o'clock last night a reporter for THE TRIBUNE received an anonymous telephone call from a woman at the Winnetka pumping station.

"I saw Miss Potter tonight on a Milwaukee electric car," said the voice excitedly. "She got on the car at 8:30 at the Central avenue terminal in Evanston. She appeared worried. She talked to the conductor and I think I heard her ask him to let her off at Lake Forest. She was dressed exactly as described in the papers. I was sitting close to her and obtained a plain view of the V shaped scar on her right cheek. There were lines in her face as if she had been crying or had been ill."

Refused to Give Name.

The woman refused to give her name and efforts to trace the phone call were fruitless. Later the conductor of the car which left Evanston at 8:30 was located. He is Fred Palmer of North Chicago. When given a description of the missing musical protogee of Mrs. George M. Pullman he recalled a woman fitting the description getting on the car and in other ways corroborated the story of the anonymous informant.

"I saw her go into a confectionery store near the station in Evanston and buy a box of chocolates while the car was standing at the terminal," said Palmer. "She was eating the candy on the way out. She wore a dark blue skirt and a white waist. I don't recall her asking me about Lake Forest. Anyway, she didn't go to Lake Forest. She got off at Prairie and Oak streets in Winnetka. Our car is due there at 8:52. I didn't notice which way she went."

In Highland Park, Too?

Miss Potter also was reported to have been seen in the afternoon on the beach in Highland Park. Frank McDermott, caretaker, believes a young stroller he saw about 3 o'clock was Miss Potter, although at the time he was busy and did not trace her resemblance to published photographs until in afterthought. Then she was gone.

Several other persons were found who had seen Miss Potter since her disappearance a week ago.

Frederick Winter, a policeman in the suburb, recalled having seen a young woman who answered her description sitting in the Northwestern depot last Sunday, the day she left the home of Mrs. Alice Bateman in Roscoe street. She appeared ill, he said, but was able to leave the station without assistance. When he questioned her, he said, she told him she was from Chicago and was visiting her cousin, Mrs. Lorenzo Johnson, at 789 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Mrs. Johnson denies having been visited by Miss Potter for several months, and said she entertained no guest answering her description on June 13.

Saw Her on Monday?

Another witness was found who says she saw Miss Potter in Chicago last Monday. She is Mrs. Edward H. Yunkers of 911 Sheridan road, Wilmette. She asserts she saw Miss Potter in State street at 5:45 o'clock in the evening of the day after the young pianist disappeared.

"I am convinced the woman was Miss Potter," said Mrs. Yunkers. "I had just come out of Field's and was looking for a bus to take me to the Northwestern station. It was the first day of the car strike. There were two busses waiting. One was filled. There was no one in the other and so I climbed into it.

Talks Ramblingly.

"'Does this go to Union park?' she asked. She appeared to be dazed or in trouble of some kind. I told her that it did not. She talked ramblingly, and I didn't pay much attention to what she was saying. I recall distinctly, though, she said she lived out on Ashland avenue. She rode only two blocks and got out when the vehicle reached Clark street. There she turned south, and I lost sight of her."

From the clews obtained thus far the police believe Miss Potter has been sleeping somewhere in Winnetka and coming either to Evanston or to Chicago for her meals. Every grocery, restaurant, and delicatessen north of Evanston has been canvassed. No one could be found who had seen her making purchases of food. John Davis, a clerk in a delicatessen in Winnetka, declares he saw Miss Potter in the interurban ticket office in Evanston on Wednesday. She was inquiring, he said, how to get to Waukegan.

W. M. Peterson, chief of police at Winnetka, spent the day riding a motorcycle between Evanston and Winnetka and questioning every person who might have seen the missing musician. William Bergdorf, a special policeman in Glencoe, who travels beat between Scott avenue in Hubbard Woods and Ravinia Park, says he is positive Miss Porter did not come as far north as Glencoe unless she came by train or electric car.

Mrs. Pullman Believes She's Safe.

Two friends of the missing woman who refused to give their names spent four hours in searching the lake shore during the day. Mrs. Pullman drove out in her car and talked with Mrs. Lorenzo Johnson, a relative of Miss Potter. She expressed the belief the young woman may have been taken in by some illiterate farmer or by some one who does not take the Chicago papers and, therefore, would be ignorant of the search being made for her.

Kenneth M. Bradley, director of the Bush Temple Conservatory of Music, where Miss Potter has a studio, also leaned to this theory.

"These farmers might have found Miss Potter in a semi-exhausted condition, her mind a blank, and taken her in," Mr. Bradley said. "They may wait days before notifying the police.

"Then, too, knowing her to be a friend of Mrs. Pullman, they may be holding her for a ransom. They may think Miss Potter herself possesses wealth. At one time her father was a wealthy man, spending most of his time in New York and Mexico."

Mrs. Pullman and Bradley will offer a reward for information regarding Miss Potter's whereabouts if she is not found in two days, according to an announcement of the latter.

WATCHMAN IN LOOP MUSIC HOUSE SLAIN BY ROBBERS.

Shot and killed by supposed safe robbers, Miles Brooks, a negro watchman for the Wurlitzer Music company, 329 South Wabash avenue, was found late last night in the establishment with revolvers lying at his head and feet.

He was shot in the back of the head. The murder was discovered by Edward H. Uhl, manager of the Wurlitzer company. Mr. Uhl intended going to Cincinnati and went to the store shortly before 11 o'clock to get some papers. He was driven from his residence, 7619 Sheridan road, by his chauffeur, Christ Post.

On Mr. Uhl's arrival at the store he rapped on the door and shouted the name of the watchman. Receiving no answer, Mr. Uhl and the chauffeur began to search. Five feet from the entrance of a corridor on the main floor the chauffeur stumbled against the watchman's body.

Police search showed that the murderers entered the building by climbing a fire escaped. The safe had not been harmed.

DENTIST SEAL MISSING; WIFE ASKS POLICE HUNT.

Dr. Henry R. Seal, a dentist who lives at 1065 Foster avenue and has offices at 5204 Broadway, is being hunted by the police at the request of his wife.

Mrs. Seal went to the theater with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Fitch of 828 Junior terrace, last Thursday evening. As they were leaving Seal remarked he would take a walk but would be home when the family returned.

Since that time they have not seen nor heard from him. Mr. Fitch told the police his son-in-law carried about $50 and believes he may have been the victim of robbers.

The police are working on a theory that the dentist, who was a Canadian, may have gone back to Canada to enlist in one of the territorial regiments, and left without warning to avoid opposition.

KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

One man was fatally injured and three others were shaken up and bruised last night when an automobile was struck by a Kedzie avenue car at Warren avenue. The automobile was owned and driven by B. Weldon of 2707 Best avenue. The dead man was Jesse Irwin, according to Weldon. He was unable to give Irwin's address.

Henry Voegtle of 4847 West Huron street and Frank Sprigen were the other occupants of the automobile. Sprigen disappeared.

The occupants of the automobile were under the influence of liquor, according to the police.

CAR MEN WORK ON SCALE TODAY

Both Sides Hope to Settle Most Points Without Arbiters' Aid.

Traction officials and operators will begin today formally to iron out their differences with regard to working conditions, before submitting the question of wages to arbitration. A cloudless sky is foreseen and both sides predict that every point of disagreement with the exception of wages will be settled within the week.

The arbitration board will organize tomorrow. It is believed that its three members will adjourn to meet later in the week, when as many points of difference as possible shall have been settled without recourse to arbitration.

The employés and officials of the elevated lines will be the first to meet in conference about working conditions.

Building Trades Trouble Ominous.

The strike of building laborers, and especially carpenters, loomed more ominously. Many building material dealers expressed determination to hold up deliveries of material until the carpenters shall have come to terms with the Carpenter Contractors' association. The Building Construction Employers' association will this afternoon send a formal request to the Lumbermen's association, the Mill Owners' association, and the Brick Manufacturers' association and others to join in a boycott of materials.

No formal action on the part of material dealers' associations is foreseen, because it is declared that this would be in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

Sees Complete Tieup.

William Schlake, president of the Brick Manufacturers' association, said that he expected the tieup would be complete, as did E. E. Hooper, secretary of the lumber and mill owners' organizations. Edward Hines, the largest independent lumberman, is known to have signified his intention of joining in the boycott in the hope that a speedier settlement of the carpenters' strike will be effected.

From the carpenters' district council came the protest that a boycott of material would be unfair because of the decision of the council to submit the question of arbitration to a referendum vote.

The Chicago Federation of Labor will request the mayor to sign the ordinance recently passed by the council prohibiting the importation of street car strike breakers into Chicago.

Dixon Newspapers Merged.

Dixon, Ill., June 20.—[Special.]—The Dixon Daily Leader, started a year ago by the Progressives as a morning paper, last night bought the Dixon Daily News, an evening paper. Edward C. Fuller, former editor and publisher of the Dixon Sun, is to be editor of the merged papers.

"GOODS" ON FOUR LOOP BARS

Evidence of violation of the Sunday closing law was obtained against four downtown bars yesterday by investigators for the Chicago Citizens' committee. They are the Brevoort hotel bar, the Masonic Temple buffet, the Boulevard cafe, northeast corner Wabash avenue and Van Buren street, and the Log Cabin, 331 South Clark street. Arthur B. McCold, attorney for the committee, announced he would swear out warrants for the proprietors before Judge Prindiville today. The Auditorium and Saratoga hotels closed their bars for the day. There are now fifteen loop bars which do not operate on Sunday.

IT'S NO PLACE FOR BURGLARS

Harvey Turns Cold Shoulder to Gang Who Try Eight Robberies and Get Only Two Victims.

It hardly pays for burglars to operate in the town of Harvey. Eight robberies were attempted in the village Saturday night. Only two were successful. The gang tried to burglarize the home of the mayor, George H. Gibson, but he was too quick for them and they retreated. They met the same kind of a rebuff at the home of the former mayor, D. A. Adams.

The two victims were C. D. Hobson, a contractor, who lost 86 cents and a gold watch, and A. C. Schultz, from whose home two diamond stickpins and two watches were stolen.

The Harvey police say they have a "clew."

ITALIAN GIRL OF 15 SHOOTS HER GREEK HUSBAND

She Says Difference in Nationalities Made Their Lives Unhappy.

The failure of a 15 year old Italian girl to find the happiness she sought when she married a Greek 20 years her senior, is believed by the police to have supplied the motive for the girl who shot her husband yesterday.

Both blame the occurrence on the fact that they are of different nationalities. The girl said she should never have married a Greek because she says Greeks don't seem to get along well with Italians. The husband seems to agree with her.

The victim is Nick Bizones, newsdealer at Thirty-fifth street and Indiana avenue. He told the police his estranged wife shot him in the back because he refused her offer of reconciliation. The shooting occurred in front of the newsstand.

Bizones was taken to the Provident hospital, where his condition is regarded as serious. His wife, Frances, was taken to the South Clark street annex. She is the daughter of Attorney S. Insalata of 3349 Prairie avenue.

She married Bizones a year ago. According to the police, they have been separated for the last two months. The girl went to live with her father. Bizones rented a flat at 236 East Thirty-fifth street.

GENUINE DIAMONDS

$55 Per Carat Guaranteed

For a great many years we have had the reputation of selling the largest Diamonds in Chicago for the price. Not only that, our Diamonds look larger than any other Diamonds, weight for weight, on account of the "Spread Cutting," which produces a greater amount of brilliancy. This lot has all been graded and priced according to quality. $55 for a carat is a fair average; while some figure out at a trifle more, others come out much less. There are really some wonderful Diamonds in this lot that look like $100 gems. Nobody could tell the difference without the strongest kind of a magnifier. Every one will be sold under our regular guarantee, which provides for the return of the money and protects you against loss. It is one of the strongest guarantees ever issued by any reputable Diamond house in the United States. Ask to see it before making your purchase. Every one of these Diamonds will be sold with the distinct understanding that the money will be refunded according to our guarantee if any one can be duplicated elsewhere for less than double these prices. We know absolutely what other dealers are doing and can prove our position.

President Sends Message to the Business World by J. E. Davies of Federal Trade Commission.

JOSEPH E. DAVIES, chairman of the federal trade commission, spoke for President Wilson at the first session of the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at the Auditorium theater yesterday. The speech was taken by the convention as the president's message of hope and promise to the business world. Mr. Davies said:

"The president of the United States has requested me to say that it was a matter of particular regret to him that he was unable to be present upon this occasion. But for the pressure of affairs of the greatest moment, and the burden which he is bearing in these trying times, he would have been glad, I am sure, to have accepted your invitation to address this great association. His regret, I am requested by him to say, was particularly accentuated by reason of the splendid and altruistic character of the purposes of your organization.

Advertising and Truth.

"Advertising is that agency in commerce which creates public opinion in business. It is fertile with blessings to the public. It is also fraught with possobilities of fraud, deception and great wrong. It is one of the most important factors in the cost of distribution, and it is of the keenest interest to the public, for it is in the processes of distribution that there is incurred the greatest loss in the social economy.

"Advertising affords a field wherein keenness, initiative and enterprise command great rewards. In no avenue of business does dishonesty afford speedier and more substantial financial gain. It is under such conditions and in such a field that you have organized these associations, with the word 'Truth' as the index of your purpose and the guide of your course.

Praises Moral Stand.

"It is to the credit of your profession, and to those connected with the enterprises of this organization, that you have found, within your own spirit, the initiative and moral purpose to base your business activities upon the principle of righteousness, as well as upon the rule of profit by exacting and demanding truth as the basis of advertising enterprise and by exacting and demanding honesty in circulation statements, rectitude in merchandising, and truth in the advertising itself.

"Last year two great congresses—one at Budapest and one at Paris—devoted their deliberations to the securing of uniform international legislation for the suppression of fraudulent advertising. Since that time the peaceful processes of Europe have been disorganized or destroyed by this terrible holocaust called 'war.' Your association here alone remains in a world almost gone mad to further those ideas and to hold aloft the torch of 'truth in advertising' in world commerce.

Business Needs Government.

"The relation of business to government and government to business is a matter of great concern to us all. The properties of industrial, transportation, and commercial business constitute a large proportion of the total wealth of the nation. Business as such constitutes a great part of the social body for which government exists. The well being of business is and properly should be a matter of government concern. The welfare of a great part of the people of the nation depends directly upon its well being. Great benefits accrue from it to the whole country.

"While business is a substantial part of society for which government exists, business on the other hand could not exist without government. A government watchful of the interests of the whole of society must be superior to it and independent of it, even as the interest of all is superior to the welfare of the few. Nor can any part of society exist but for the protection afforded by the whole thereof. An injury to any part is injury to all. The relation of government toward business has always been, therefore, of paramount interest to all classes of society bound together in social contract.

Purpose of Trade Commission.

"One of the recent agencies devised by government in connection with its relationship to business and industry is the federal trade commission. It was designed to furnish a nonpartisan body of men, expert upon matters connected with business and industry, to aid in the enforcement of the law for the benefit of the whole country, and to aid in the accommodation of business to the demands of society as expressed through statute.

"Congress created it as an agency to destroy what has been termed the 'seeds of monopoly.' It is clothed with the power to prevent unfair practices of competition in commerce. Unfair methods of competition have been in the past the principal weapons of and agencies in the producing of monopoly. It is also clothed in certain cases with power to serve as an adviser upon the facts to the courts in their enforcement of the antitrust laws.

"There is no doubt that one of the essential purposes underlying the creation of the federal trade commission was also to provide an administrative agency to make more easy the accommodation of business to the requirements which government imposes for the benefit of society.

View Voiced by President.

"This idea was voiced with characteristic lucidity and power by the president of the United States in his message to congress. It was received with enthusiasm by the business public and by the whole country. It resulted in the passage of the federal trade commission bill by a practically unanimous vote of both the house and the senate of the United States.

"It will be the purpose of the federal trade comission to translate this idea, which was so largely responsible for its creation, into its policy and attitude toward business and the public interest. The interest of the public, of complainants, and those complained against, all require that in the accommodation of business processes to government requirements, readjustments shall be brought about as easily and with as much speed as is consistent with law and due regard for the rights of all concerned.

"Business men today do not desire intentionally to disobey the law. A common understanding of the facts arrived at through full and frank conference of persons complained of with the federal trade commission may frequently result in the stopping of the alleged unfair practices more expeditiously than would lengthy legalistic procedure.

Policy to Avoid Lawsuits.

"It is in the interest of the public that processes of suitable and amicable accommodation should be first exhausted by the federal trade commission before it should institute formal complaints embarking upon a long and technical course of legal procedure.

"The purpose of the federal trade commission is not to harass, but to help—not to make a legalistic record, but to bring relief and aid, and efficiently to serve the public interest and to bring 'first aid' to the competitor injured before the patient is exhausted by long drawn out technicalities of legal action. The essential thing is the accomplishment of the effective protection of the public and of business itself against unfair methods of competition, with due regard to the rights of all, as speedily and as easily as possible.

"The protection of the complainants, fairness to those complained against, and the interests of the whole community are best served by adjustments which are founded upon justice and fairness, but which are as immediate in their application and relief as the public interest and the law will permit.

War's Effect on Trade.

"We are living in a remarkable period of the world's history. Never before have the courses of trade of the world been so altered with such promise to the fair advantage of the American people. The European war has brought to our attention the intimate relationship which this nation bears to the markets of the world.

"The recent cutting off of the European supply in certain lines heretofore supplied from foreign markets has demonstrated the necessity of the creation of independent, self-sustained, permanent industries indigenous to our conditions, for the production of such supplies. Such enterprise here is confronted with the possibility of unfair methods of competition being employed by foreign monopolies subsequent to the war.

"Local price discrimination, whereby prices are lowered in one community for the sake of driving out competition, when at the same time prices are raised in another locality to recoup such loss where there is no competition, is prohibited as between residents of the United States.

Foreign Anti-Trust Law Needed.

"It is urged that the same degree of protection afforded American industry from such unfair competition from a local competitor should be equally afforded if the competition might come from a foreign source. Such practices engaged upon by foreign monopoly in this country heretofore renders probable their repetition with greater severity at the conclusion of the war. Customs tariffs in such situations have been absorbed. Tariffs have been found to be unsatisfactory to afford protection against such practices.

"'Dumping' by foreign monopolies into this country, either of their surplus products or of their competitive products, and the selling of such products at a cost in this country below the prevailing market cost in the country of their production, is vicious in practice and holds potentialities of great harm to American industry and to the American people. Such practices are prohibited by law in Australia, not through the customs tariff, but through legislation looking to the repression of monopoly and to the protection of local industry from foreign monopoly. In Australia such practices are declared to be unfair competition and placed under the ban of the law.

"American enterprise and industry indigenous to our soil and native to our conditions are entitled to have such competition of foreign monopoly declared to be unfair and to have such practices prevented if sought to be employed.

Co-Operation System Urged.

"One of the most significant facts in the evolution of modern world industry has been the development of international cartels in Europe. These organizations have existed in over a hundred different lines of industry for the purpose, among others, of promoting foreign trade and of effecting economies in distribution in world competition. It has been urged that combinations of American manufacturers for the purpose of engaging in export trade be permitted for similar economies in export trade.

"Opportunity to participate in such economies might afford to the smaller manufacturer an opportunity to extend his market if participation in such an organization would be a matter of right rather than of largess on the part of others in such organization. The design and object of the Sherman law was to preserve competition for the protection of the general public and in the interest of smaller units as a matter of domestic policy within this country. The law was in the interest of the small manufacturer.

Benefit to the Little Fellow.

"In fields of international commerce conditions now so obtain as to be prohibitive of enterprise upon the part of the smaller manufacturer in the extension of his markets abroad. The cost may be too great. The trust can afford and does establish branch agencies in the various countries of the earth. The smaller men can reach the market only through cooperation with others. The very rule designed for the protection and aid of medium sized business units within, if applied, prevents growth and development without.

"Competition in the foreign field is assured by reason of the international character of the market and the contest therefor by European manufacturers. Preservation of regulated competition at home is a matter of capacity for administration. Entirely apart from any question of the desirability of departing upon a policy of extending or permitting coöperation in foreign trade, these distinctions should be observed. These are matters connected with the Sherman law in connection with foreign trade to which the American people must address their attention.

Failure Blow at Democracy.

"The admission of our incapacity to meet situations of this kind and still retain those principles fundamental to our form of government would constitute a profession that democracy must fail.

"If we can not consciously shape our own evolution to that end that we may grow and prosper and still preserve equality of opportunity in industry, then we are unfit. Our whole history is a denial of such an attitude. By reason of our traditions, our hopes and our duties, we can not accept such an attitude of negation. The character of our people, the great expanse of our territory, with its great undeveloped resources, spreads out the lexicon of youth before us, and on it there is written no such word as 'fail.'

"You here represent and typify the energy, the vigor,, the initiative and the enterprise of the American spirit. Your very association here for the purpose of establishing a moral principle as a rule of practical conduct for business proclaims the capacity of men consciously to shape the evolution of their business by placing a restriction upon natural cupidity, and by shaping your development so that it shall be confined and coördinated by a rule of conduct in the common interest, to serve the common good.

"The spirit of the republic admits of no such incapacity to shape its destiny. On this new continent, under new conditions, with the virtues of many peoples of the earth amalgamated into one spirit of devotion to representative government, we proclaim faith, with humble supplication for Divine aid, in the capacity of the nation to shape its largest development in such a way that democracy instituted for the service of the common man shall endure."

Honesty Not 'Best,' But 'Only' Policy!

BY WILLIAM WOODHEAD.

[President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.]

Honesty is not simply the best policy—it is the only policy—and the man who does not recognize this is either a knave or a fool.

The awakened business conscience is a constructive conscience, not like the definition of the boy who said that conscience is the thing that makes you sorry when you are found out.

The greatest evil in the business world is the grafter, the faker, and the quack.

PRESIDENT SENDS CHEERING VIEWS TO 'AD' CONCLAVE

hereafter by declaring that "Truth in advertising is more than a mere preachment; it stands for a great business principle not merely because it is right but because it is the only basis for successful business; because the only way to make advertising effective is to make it believable."

Recalls Toronto Meeting.

"I delight to look back," he said, "at that splendid departmental meeting of newspaper men at our Toronto convention which resulted in the adoption of 'standards of practice,' among which was this one:

> It is the duty of the newspaper to protect the honest advertiser and the general newspaper reader as far as possible from deceptive and offensive advertising; and to accept no advertising which is antagonistic to the public welfare.

"It was a tremendous step forward when these men carried this resolution unanimously; one of the oldest newspaper publishers in the country said:

"'This is the greatest step forward that the press has taken in my recollection. At the beginning of the newspaper business it was thought to be legitimate to publish anything that anybody offered that would go through the mails and the public conceived the notion that you were obligated to publish everything that was not against the law. Now it has grown up to be a belief that a publisher is going to see what is to go in his advertising columns even though pay is offered. What does this mean? It means a fuller confidence on the part of the public in all kinds of newspapers; and public confidence to a great newspaper is worth more than all buildings, type, presses, franchises, and stock on hand.'

Honesty Only Policy Now.

"The times have changed; they used to say 'Business is business' to cover and explain questionable practices or transactions. They don't say so now. Business is business today when it enables a man to build up a success through honest methods; when it enables him to deliver goods or services that will help and serve and make happier his fellowmen.

"Coöperation, not coercion, is bringing about 'Truth in Advertising.'

Laws Compel Honesty.

"We now have laws against dishonest and misleading advertising in twenty-nine states and special ordinances in many cities of this country, and all because we have won the confidence and coöperation of business men and of most of the newspapers and perodicals, and, in fact, of all who believe and want more effective advertising.

"They are beginning to see that the greatest evil in the business world is the grafter, the faker, and the quack, and to realize that the more money this class of advertisers contribute, or are allowed to contribute, the greater the loss; that every time a man or woman or child is cheated by a bogus advertisement the pulling power of all advertising is just that much weakened, because the faker and the publisher accepting the advertisement have taught just so many people to distrust all advertising."

TAKE THE "TRIP of SHADOWS" on your WESTERN TOUR

Forty Mile Optional River Trip Through the Romantic St. Joe Country, Idaho, Without Extra Cost—

Absolutely unique in American travel is the trip down the "Shadowy" St. Joe River of Idaho, declared by some writers to be "a trip through fairyland." It affords forty miles of incomparable mirror reflections—mountains, forests, clouds, headlands and blossoming shores appear as clear and seemingly as real as the originals. This trip is an exclusive feature of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and is optional with the traveler; that is, if he wishes he may leave the train at St. Maries, Idaho, and without extra cost, take a steamer down the St. Joe River and across beautiful Lake Coeur d'Alene to Coeur d'Alene, thence by rail to Spokane, where the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. is again resumed. This trip provides a welcome break in the transcontinental journey.

BRAVES PERILS OF SUBMARINES FOR CONVENTION

OSCAR ROZIER, president of the Ad club of Sydney, Australia, arrived for the Chicago convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the world without having encountered any German submarines that have been making sea traffic so unhealthy in British waters. He is a guest of Vernon D. Beatty.

"My one regret," Mr. Rozier said, "is that the organization left Australia off the map when it designed one of its symbols. However, the quality of Australian advertising puts it on the map commercially in capital letters."

Late comers to the convention arrived yesterday resplendent in regalia and colored hat bands bearing the names of their home cities. The delegation from Shreveport, La., where an oil boom has brought unprecedented prosperity, came decked out with electric lights on the tops of their fancy caps and performed evolutions in ront of the Congress hotel. Delegates bearing big letters on their backs formed in line to spell the name S-H-R-E-V-E-P-O-R-T. The Pilgrim club from Boston was no less active in making itself known. It arrived by boat, bringing a choice assortment of yells and a war dance.

More than twenty advertising representatives of publications in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, London, England; St. Louis, and other cities will be initiated into the Order of Red Roosters at a special dinner at the Hotel La Salle tonight.

Tuesday noon the Red Roosters will entertain officials of the National Affiliated Advertising Agents' association at a luncheon at the Hotel La Salle.

"Who are you and what are you?" was the question an impudent reporter addressed to a tall slim man in the lobby of the Congress hotel. The man wore hat bands, arm bands, neck bands, and badges.

"My name is C. W. Patman," the slim individual said. "I am from New York. That is enough to keep my name out of any Chicago paper. I am the secretary of the Association of National Advertisers of New York. I am secretary of the general advertising department of the Association of Ad Clubs of the World. I am a committee member and delegate of the Advertising Men's league of New York, a member of the Poor Richard club of Philadelphia, and some fourteen or fifteen other organizations. I haven't a word to say."

"A pig is a pig, all right," said the hotel detective at the Congress, "and a dog is a dog, but how is a guy going to make the rules of the house apply on an alligator?"

The soliloquy was addressed to the problem of a small, lazy, complacent, and satisfied alligator, in the white enamel bath tub in room I-49 of the hotel. A. T. Walraven and Fred McJenkin, ad men and delegates from Dallas, Tex., were the accredited occupants of the room.

"It is this way," said Walraven. "McJenkin is a sympathetic sort of a cuss, and he has raised that 'gator from a pup. He just couldn't stand parting with him, so he brought him along. He has hopes that the hotel management will let the alligator frolic in the Pompeiian room pool and feed on the gold fish."

The exact location of Shreveport, La., is a matter now well known to all the ad men. The Congress and Auditorium hotels are covered with signs stating that the Louisiana town is "4,802 miles from Petrograd."

"Everybody knows where Petrograd is," said J. E. Cowles, president of the Shreveport Add club, "so we thought we would explain the relation of Shreveport to the world by the Russian city with the changed name."

Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust company of Chicago, has invited the twenty-six members of the Shreveport delegation to a theater and dinner party Tuesday night. Mr. Dawes is financially interested in the oil and gas wells in Shreveport.

There are few delegates who are not carrying canes. The reason is Thomas A. Barrett of New York, who represents the Orange Judd company, the publishers of farm weeklies, has distributed several hundred dozen canes of English ash among the delegates. Every cane bears the name of the publishing firm.

"It isn't generosity," said Mr. Barrett. "It's just advertising. Send up a friend and get another one."

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gorrie of Toronto are missing. Nobody blames them for disappearing. They were married three days in Chicago and thoughtlessly decided to attend the admen's convention on their honeymoon.

"They left Toronto with the forty delegates of the convention," said F. G. McKay, vice president of the Toronto Ad club, "and I am sorry to say that their lot was not an easy one. There was a twenty-four hour a day reception committee to see that they didn't have a minute to themselves. Both of them quite suddenly dropped out of sight in Detroit."

"We are the newest club in the association," said a man wearing a blue badge, who gave his name as Edwin L. Quarles. "We are only ten days old and we have ten delegates here."

"Where are you from?"

"Lexington, Ky.," replied Mr. Quarles. "We are quite well known for our beautiful women, our fast horses and our—no, I'll have to change that, because most of our towns are dry now."

Notice, Auto Owner: Your Car Is Needed.

MR. MOTORIST, where are you going to send James this morning, after he brings you downtown to the office? What is he going to do with the machine until it is time to take you to lunch or the wife and the daughter down for a shopping tour?

If there's nothing on the program for James, the chauffeur, and your automobile, here's a hunch. There are several thousand convention visitors, advertising men, in the city today. The Chicago committee in charge of their entertainment is in need of automobiles to show the visitors about the city. You can help. Just turn to the chauffeur and say:

"James, report at 10 o'clock at the Michigan avenue entrance of the Auditorium Annex and ask for Charles H. Porter. Tell him the automobile is at the disposal of the visiting delegates for the morning."

CHICAGO ASSOCIATION GIVES BANQUET TO ADMEN CHIEFS.

World Organization's Officers and Executive Committee Guests of Club.

The Chicago Advertising association last night banqueted the members of the executive committee, the national officers, and the national commission of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World at the Hotel La Salle.

Charles H. Porter, president of the Chicago Advertising association, described Chicago's share in the upbuilding of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, and Herbert S. Houston, vice president of Doubleday, Page & Co., of New York, paid a tribute to President William Woodhead of the world organization for unselfishness in subordinating the ambitions of San Francisco to entertain the convention to the common good of the organization.

Former Congressman from Missouri Succumbs to Pernicious Anemia in California Sanitarium.

Pasadena, Cal., June 20.—[Special.]—William S. Cowherd of Missouri, former congressman, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and candidate for governor, died at 6 p. m. today in the Las Encinas sanitarium in Lamanda Park, a suburb, of pernicious anemia. Mr. Cowherd came to Pasadena about three months ago for his health. The body of Mr. Cowherd will be sent to Kansas City tomorrow.

CAPTURE MEN DEFACING NONUNION PAINTED WALLS.

Police Arrest Three in South Side Residence Squirting Liquid on New Decorations.

Detective Sergts. Lyons, Connell, and Kane of the Fiftieth street station saw a ladder standing against the side of a two story residence at 4500 Washington Park place late Saturday night. A window on the first floor was open. They found that the rear door had been broken open. On the upper floor they say they found three men squirting a liquid chemical from hand pumps on the ceiling and walls.

The men admitted to the police they are union men. They were booked on charges of malicious mischief.

Strange as it may seem there are still men who look upon advertising as an experiment.

"Honesty Is Only Policy," Pith of Lay Sermons to Chicagoans.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

P. T. Barnum's adage that the American people like to be humbugged was refuted yesterday by the visiting advertising men who spoke in fifty of the pulpits of Chicago.

A substitute for another motto likewise was found. Instead of advocating that "Honesty is the best policy" more than one of the speakers advocated the motto "Honesty is the only policy."

Achievements in reform on the part of advertisers already accomplished which were pointed out were the publishing of the colored pictures of Christ's nativity and others of like elevating character; the exclusion of liquor advertisements from posters; the passing of laws making fake and indecent advertising illegal; the diffusion of a spirit of optimism and neighborliness, and the constant emphasis on truth. Advertising as a help in bringing about world peace also was advocated.

Three of the speakers referred to "Billy" Sunday as a man who is "delivering the goods in the spiritual world," and one said Sunday could no more accomplish the results he does if he were a fake than an advertiser could sell shoddy goods without being detected.

The value of church advertising in the newspapers was urged by several speakers. Here is what they had to say:

Gayle Aiken Jr., advertising manager Maison Blanche company, New Orleans; Tabernacle Baptist church, 3300 West Monroe street.—Advertising is an educational force morally. It is not only teaching the public to value intrinsic worth, but it is constantly preaching fair dealing, truthfulness, righteous treatment of consumers, competitors and employes, until the public, by this very preaching, has learned to demand such standards. Advertising is the protagonist of the church.

Stewart Anderson, president Publicity club, Springfield, Mass.; All Souls church, Lincoln center, Oakwood boulevard and Langley avenue.—Advertising is the pathbreaker and wayshower. The ancient legal maxim, "Caveat emptor." "Let the buyer beware." is criminal. Today's motto is "Let the buyer trust." The public ought to know what the advertising men have done towards driving out the foul, treacherous and dangerous medical advertising.

Joseph H. Appel, advertising manager John Wanamaker, New York; Woodlawn Presbyterian church, Kimbark avenue and Sixty-fourth street.—Advertising is the language of business, it word, its expression. May God so sanctify business that the human forces expressed by it may carry out their sacred mission and redeem the world which is at war—a business war.

C. A. Brownell, advertising manager of the Ford Motor company, Detroit; Second Presbyterian church, Michigan avenue and Twentieth street.—Advertising is too potent a power in human endeavor to be left in the hands of dishonest and immoral forces. The victory for clean advertising is nearly won.

Robert L. Burch, publisher Southern Woman's magazine, Nashville, Tenn.; LaSalle Avenue Baptist.—No other business organization, as such, except the advertising class, has taken for its emblem "Truth."

Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor National Magazine, Boston; South Park Methodist church.—No other vocation has dealt so intimately with the "things which are not" as the advertising companies. The awakening of high ideals and conscience in business has already brought to naught the things which are. It is to deal with these things that the body of advertising men have met, recognizing that the genius of the age is business and the genius of business is exploitation, but that all the genius of enduring commercial triumph is naught without the spirit of truth.

Truman A. De Weese, director of publicity for the Shredded Wheat company, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; First Presbyterian church, Grand boulevard and Forty-first street—Why should a church which cost $50,000 have empty pews on Sunday morning? Why not use the newspaper to make the public familiar with all of the agencies that are maintained in the name of Christ and in the interest of decency and religious conduct? A church that really wants to be on the firing line, and not a receptacle for fossils, should take space in the daily papers, and should pay for it.

Alfred Hanchett, advertising manager F. A. Patrick & Co., Duluth, Minn.; First Presbyterian church of Lake View, Broadway and Addison street—It is advertising that is cheering up the nation. Advertising guarantees to all men equal rights.

C. B. Hamilton, advertising manager Berkey & Gay Furniture company, Grand Rapids, Mich.: Garfield Park Methodist church, Walnut street and Kedzie avenue—The campaign against the drink evil has received its greatest support from business men who are opposed to it from a strictly business standpoint.

George W. Hopkins, vice president and general sales manager Loose-Wiles Biscuit company, Brooklyn; North Shore Congregation church, Sheridan road and Wilson avenue—Successful business is built on a foundation as strong as the stone quarried for the temple, on policies as straight as the cedars of Lebanon, and on action as just as the decision of Solomon concerning the ownership of the child. Many say that "Billy" Sunday is a grafter and all that. No grafter could hold a crowd day in and day out as "Billy" Sunday holds a crowd. No successful business can be built up and fake the people of this country.

Dr. J. L. Kesler, dean Baylor university, Waco, Tex.; Austin Baptist church—There will be no true religion anywhere till business is redeemed and used in the service of religion. The publicity man is the great mediator in life's market.

William R. Malone, president Postal Life Insurance company, New York; New First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington boulevards—Advertising organizations founded on truth are aids to the church. The press not only conveys ideas, it generates them. The printing press conquers where the sword has failed.

Mac Martin, president of the Mac Martin Advertising company, Minneapolis; Second Congregational church, Oak Park—Twentieth century business is constructed on the principle that no exchange is a profitable exchange unless it benefits both parties.

Charles W. Mears, advertising manager Winton Motor Car company, Cleveland; Third Presbyterian church, Ashland boulevard and Ogden avenue—For 1900 years and perhaps longer men have known mentally that it was morally wrong to defraud another and yet in practice for most of that time they have considered it wise and clever to take advantage of the other fellow in a business deal. Today it is becoming possible to believe what the advertiser says.

Ren Mulford Jr., vice president of the Blaine-Thompson company, Cincinnati; Western Avenue Methodist church—Advertising has been the Aladdin's lamp which brought to the farmer delights that a decade ago were dreams which seemed impossible of fulfillment.

E. S. Ralph, advertising manager American Seeding Machine company, Springfield, O.; Woolley Memorial Methodist church, Fifty-sixth street and Indiana avenue—The advertiser who misrepresents, who lies about his goods, is a rank idiot. He may succeed for a time, and he does, but he cannot hope for permanent success.

C. C. Rosewater, general manager Omaha Bee; Belden Avenue Baptist church—Advertising has forced the manufacturer of food products to clean up. Advertising hastens the downfall of the liar.

Frank H. Rowe, general manager E. L. Ruddy company, Ltd., Toronto; Berry Memorial Methodist church, North Leavitt and Giddings streets—Last year the Poster Advertiser association printed a series of posters, displaying the first one at the Christmas season, describing the nativity of Christ and having inscribed in one corner the words, "Ask your Sunday school teacher to tell you the story." It has now decided to bar from the poster boards of the North American continent all advertising of spirituous liquors.

R. E. Sherman, president El Paso, Tex., Advertising club; Grace Lutheran church, Belden avenue and Larrabee street—Dishonesty in advertising is the canker in the fairest rose that eve bloomed upon the business world. Truth in advertising will succeed.

Edwin L. Shuey, advertising manager Lowe Bros. company, Dayton, O.; Englewood Baptist church, Stewart avenue, near Sixty-third street— Christian Life in Business and the Change It Accomplishes."

Merle Sidener, Sidener-Van Riper Advertising company, Indianapolis; Rogers Park Congregational church, Ashland boulevard and Morse avenue—Selfishness, which is the antipodes of neighborliness, is the curse of the age. The selfish man is an expense to the community. The man or the institution that succeeds best must serve best.

Roy B. Simpson, vice president Fisher-Steinbrugge agency, St. Louis; Jackson Boulevard Christian church—Honest advertising laws are now effective in twenty states. This legislation will soon be operative in all states and it is believed congress will soon give us a national law against fraud in advertising. The business man who sincerely tries to live in harmony with God's plan of life cannot be a failure.

Francis H. Sisson, vice president H. E. Lesan advertising agency, New York; Normal Park Presbyterian church, Yale avenue and Seventy-first street—By truth the advertising men do not simply mean the statement of facts. There is often a wide difference between the truth and the facts. Facts may be used to pervert truth and to lead to false conclusions.

Tim Thrift, advertising manager American Multigraph Sales company, Cleveland, O.; Waveland Avenue Congregational church—The public is fundamentally sound in its thinking. It never stays fooled on anything long, P. T. Barnum to the contrary.

E. C. Tibbitts, advertising manager B. F. Goodrich company, Akron, O.; Diversey Boulevard Methodist church—If we are a commercial nation in the eyes of the world, let us, through a better understanding of our own people and closer coöperation, show to the world the high plane of morality upon which this commercialism is based.

Edgar T. Welch, secretary and treasurer Welch Grape Juice company, Westfield, N. Y.; Austin Methodist church—A recent advertisement has this quotation: "Giving all we can for what we get, instead of getting all we can for what we give." That is the fundamental idea back of all business. Successful business has a heart and soul.

ANOTHER MURDER ADDS A LINK TO "MAFIA" CHAIN

Girls See Milwaukee Italian Slain; Three Gunmen Dash Away and Escape.

The murders of Pete Catalanetta, the "Silver King," and Mrs. Antonio Locascio, whose son Michael is sought in connection with the slaying of Catalanetto, was followed last night by what is believed to have been another "Mafia" murder, when a Milwaukee Italian was shot and mortally wounded at North Halsted and West Huron streets.

As in the case of Catalanetto and Mrs. Locascio, the slayers were Italians.

The latest Black Hand crime occurred a few minutes before 8 o'clock. Veronica and Anna Labus, 12 and 10 years old, the daughters of Frank Labus, keeper of a saloon at Green and Huron streets, were playing in front of their father's place when they heard a shot, and, looking east, saw a revolver flash three times.

Grapples with Italian.

A man staggered north in Halsted street. Two more ran south in the same street, and a third came racing toward the girls.

Labus, attracted by the cries of his daughters, hurried from the saloon, running into the arms of a fleeing Italian. Labus grappled with the man, who after a short struggle, broke away and disappeared down Huron street. His two confederates had already vanished.

The wounded man fell exhausted on the viaduct which crosses the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. He died in a police ambulance and his body was taken to the undertaking rooms at 1039 West Grand avenue.

After several hundred Italians had viewed the body the victim was identified as Carlo Bongiovanni of Huron street, Milwaukee. The police believe he was lured here by his slayers.

Letter Found in His Coat.

A letter in Italian addressed to an Italian in Milwaukee was found in a pocket of the victim's coat. It was turned over to Lieut. Michael Loftus. The police refused to divulge the contents of the letter. It was said, however, that the letter had been sent to Milwaukee and had been returned by the postal authorities to an address on Huron street. The victim's pockets were empty. The police believe he had been robbed.

Two men arrested ten minutes after the murder, while they were standing at Huron and Green streets, are being held as suspects at the West Chicago avenue station. One had $135 on him.

HONOR FATHER CRIMMINS, 25 YEARS IN PRIESTHOOD.

THE REV D.J. CRIMMINS

The Rev. D. J. Crimmins, pastor of St. Leo's Catholic church, at Seventy-eighth street and Emerald avenue, will celebrate today the silver anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Father Crimmins was ordained by Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore, Md., on June 21, 1890.

There will be a pontifical solemn high mass at 10 o'clock. Bishop Paul Rhode, the Very Rev. M. J. Fitzsimmons, the Rev Dennis Hayes, the Rev. John Manly, the the Rev. M. McShane, the Rev. E. F. Hoban, chancellor, and the Rev. Stephen McMahon will have part in the ceremony.

The Rev. William J. Bergin of St. Viator's college will preach. Father Crimmins will be celebrant of the mass.

DROWNS OFF LINCOLN PARK.

FOREIGN UPSET TAKES INTEREST OF WALL STREET

Demoralized Exchange Market Center of Attention; Orders of Allies Factor.

New York, June 20.—With the allies having placed orders in this country alone for $1,000,000,000 worth of guns, rifles, and cartridges, shrapnel and other war supplies, and with last week's announcement that Great Britain's individual daily war expenditures henceforth will be placed on a weekly basis of $105,000,000, Wall street's attention last week was riveted on the demoralized foreign exchange market.

While foreign exchange is a highly technical subject it is not difficult to understand that because of our past exports of war materials Europe's indebtedness to the United States has grown to such proportions as to dislocate the ordinary methods of payment. Under normal conditions a dollar of American debt to Europe is offset by a dollar of Europe's debt here, the parity of the English pound sterling, 4.86⅔ acting as the base of all transactions.

Everything Going Out.

Under existing conditions everything is going out of this country and virtually nothing coming in. We are shipping enormous quantities of war materials and supplies; bills are being drawn against these shipments by our manufacturers in such quantity that bankers at New York have been deluged.

There are not enough bills drawn by Europe against New York to offset the bills which are being drawn by our manufacturers and England is not sending gold here in sufficient quantity to balance the account; hence the glut of sterling bills among the Wall street banks and the decline to their value of 4.76⅝, the lowest record of forty years.

Par for sterling is 4.86⅔. Ordinarily a fluctuation of two points, say to 4.84⅔ would inaugurate a gold flow from England to New York. This week's low level showed a decline of ten points in exchange and yet only a few from Canada.

Change Must Come.

With Europe's purchases running at the present unprecedented rate and with foreign exchange at its present low level, one of three things must happen: First, England must send us gold, for it is financing the allies; second, if gold is not sent here, England must establish credits through a formal loan or through private banking operations; third, if gold is not shipped, or if credits are not arranged, England, France, and Russia must sell back to us some of the $4,000,000,000 of our industrial and railway bonds and stocks which for generations have been accumulated by foreign countries.

Shrewd bankers in this country have believed from the very outbreak of the war that sooner or later Europe will balance its accounts with us by heavy sale of our securities. As a matter of fact, that selling began months before the outbreak of the war on Aug. 1 last, and has been going on steadily. It is evident, however, from last week's demoralized condition of the foreign exchange market that the foreign liquidation of our securities has not been a drop in the bucket in balancing accounts.

SEVEN BATHERS DROWN IN SURF

Huge Wave and Treacherous Undertow Fatal at Atlantic City.

FISHERMAN ALSO DIES.

DROWNINGS OF A DAY.

Atlantic City	7	Philadelphia	4
New York	6	Chicago	1
Evansville, Ind	1	Holland, Mich	1
Baritan, Ill	1	Boonville, Ind	1

Atlantic City, N. J., June 20.—Buffeted by a huge wave and carried into deep water by a treacherous undertow, seven bathers, including prominent men of the Philadelphia summer colony, were drowned in the surf here today.

Scores of others were dragged to the beach in an insensible condition after life guards and other bathers had battled desperately to save their lives.

One other man was drowned when six fishing smacks were capsized simultaneously as they were about to come ashore at Mississippi avenue and a score of fishermen thrown into the water.

Four Other Bathers Drown.

Six Drown Near New York.

New York, June 20.—Six persons were drowned in nearby waters today, four being victims of boating accidents.

SIEGEL LIKELY TO SERVE 10 MONTHS IN COUNTY JAIL.

His Counsel Admits That Offer of Payment of $150,000 to Creditors Will Be Withdrawn.

Geneseo, N. Y., June 20.—[Special]—Counsel for Henry Siegel admitted tonight that the offer of $150,000 as the "substantial payment" to his creditors would be withdrawn before Supreme Court Justice Clark tomorrow, and there was little doubt that the former private banker and merchant would serve ten months in the Monroe county jail at Rochester. It was admitted this change of plan was the result of the grand jury investigation by Assistant District Attorney Arthur C. Train two weeks ago.

A "Country Banker" Demonstrates "Power of Press" in Reaching and Driving Demon of Drink or Drugs From the Home by Modern "Neal Way."

THE "BEAUTIFUL STORY" of the origin and phenomenal growth of the now "World Famous NEAL WAY" for Drink or Drug users is both interesting and instructive. It not only proves that "merit always wins," but also demonstrates the "Power of the (daily) Press" in REACHING the demon of drink or drugs in the HOME—from the mansions of the rich to the hovels of the poor.

BY A DEMONSTRATION in the remarkable results following the THREE DAY treatment of several alcoholic patients at the public hospital in Atlantic, Iowa, in January, 1910, Doctor B. E. Neal CONVINCED Former Senator J. E. Bruce of Iowa—a banker—that he had found the CAUSE and a REMEDY for continued indulgence that would PREVENT high class men and women from becoming "WRECKS," and RESCUE those considered "almost beyond all earthly help."

ONLY FOUR YEARS AGO last fall this "Country Banker" INVADED the "restful quiet" of the most beautiful and exclusive residential district of Chicago by purchasing and establishing the head NEAL INSTITUTE in the fine, large, modern Chicago Hospital building, located on Forty-ninth Street, between Cottage Grove Ave. and famous Drexel Boulevard.

THE FIRST MESSAGE of "Neal Way" in Chicago was published in the daily papers on Sunday, Sept. 25, 1910. Soon following this, John D. Rockefeller's old homestead on Euclid Ave., at Cleveland, was dedicated to the saving of good men and women by the modern "Neal Way." Senator Bruce is devoting his entire time to the work. Through the co-operation of local bankers, physicians and other business and professional men he has already caused 60 of these splendid institutions to be established and others opening in America and foreign cities.

THIS INTERNATIONAL SUCCESS is due to the fact that by harmless vegetable medicines taken by MOUTH ONLY in a private room with accommodations and service equal to best hotels and with medical attention and nursing equal to that of the best hospitals the "Neal Way" DOES MORE for the drink or drug user in a FEW DAYS than can be done by the "old hypo-needle way" in several WEEKS OR MONTHS.

OUR FOREIGN GUESTS in the city this week are cordially invited to call upon Senator Bruce at the head Neal Institute, No. 811-T East 49th Street, Chicago. If, perchance, they don't have a Neal Institute in their city he will be glad to co-operate with them in arranging for one for the mutual pleasure and profit of all concerned. Those who cannot call and all who desire full information about the "Neal Way" are invited to address as above or phone Oakland 429. Ask for address of one nearest you of our high class

EDITORS AND NAVAL AUTHORITIES.

An Iowa reader incloses a clipping from THE TRIBUNE giving Admiral Fiske's criticism of our naval preparation and a long editorial from the Des Moines Register and Leader quoting copiously from Secretary Daniels. He asks, "How is the uninitiated to know what to believe when authorities differ so widely?"

Authorities do not differ so widely. Secretary Daniels is not an authority on the navy. He is the editor of a southern newspaper who holds a political job for political reasons, and his judgment on naval affairs, in the little degree that a man of his training and mental caliber can be said to have judgment on naval problems, is perverted by the ostrich optimism which he shares with his admired former associate, Mr. Bryan.

Admiral Fiske, on the other hand, is an authority in every sense of the word and one of the ablest officers in the service. More than that, he is an exceptionally courageous and high minded citizen who is courting official disfavor by refusing to hold his peace when department regulation is muzzling the men who know, while the editor and politician who is secretary of the navy is free to sow his glittering generalities and showy irrelevancies without check.

The letter quoted in the Register and Leader's editorial and the editorial itself are political documents. Neither meets nor apparently is based on an attempt to understand the specific criticisms brought by the Navy league and other critics of our conditions of naval defense. To these critics and to the country it is immaterial whether the Wilson administration has done more for preparedness than its predecessors. These critics know no politics in their propaganda; they realize better than most politicians that there has been no partisan distinction in the neglect and mishandling of our navy and army affairs. The Republican party, in fact, has more to answer for on this score than the Democratic because it has had more years of power and opportunity.

But there is no excuse at this stage of the public discussion on national defense for an utterance in a responsible newspaper as loose in its allegation of fact and in its reasoning as is the Register and Leader editorial. The first misstatement is gross, and it is in the opening paragraph, which asserts that "in view of the fact that more than half of the total revenues of the country are used for the army and navy and things incidental to the maintenance of a military establishment, it should go without saying that there must be something to show for more than $600,000,000 a year American money."

The total appropriation for the navy in 1914-'15 was less than $145,000,000; that for the army, including fortifications, was less than $108,000,000, a total of less than $253,000,000 instead of the $600,000,000 charged. If the Register and Leader proposes to add the pension appropriation of $172,000,000, the sum even then would fall $175,000,000 short, but charging the pension burden to the army and navy is a sardonic joke, for if we had had a regular army of respectable size in 1861 we would not have had the pension mountain.

The editorial is a masterpiece of miscomprehension of the defense problem, knocking down straw men and setting up non sequiturs to take their place. The fact that we are spending "an enormous amount of money on the navy and on military equipment" is no answer to the charge by authoritative critics that our defenses are inadequate. On the contrary, these critics constantly emphasize this fact, and the relevant argument based on the fact is that we ought to get more than we do for the money we spend. We can get this more by taking a course exactly opposite to that of the Register and Leader—by listening to experts and not to political editors in or out of office. Bragging about our dreadnaughts which no one criticizes does not supply deficiencies existing in the navy any more than muzzling Commander Yates Sterling prevented the loss of a submarine in Honolulu harbor or the mishaps suffered by others in the recent naval maneuvers which frightened our ebullient Mr. Daniels into appointing Capt. Grant to reorganize that branch of the service.

Our navy is too small for our responsibilities in two oceans. Its makeup is defective, lacking destroyers, submarines, aeroplanes, and battle cruisers. Its personnel is weak. The higher officers do not reach high command until they are ready for retirement and there are fewer trained officers in proportion to men than in any navy, and we have virtually no reserve, a fatal lack after war losses begin.

The basic defect in our defense policy is congressional meddling with expert matters. The greatest navy in the world could not hold its place five years under such a plan. Parliament appropriates. It is the British naval expert that spends. We need a council of national defense to develop and sustain a comprehensive and harmonious program of land and sea defense, this council to combine representatives of the legislature, or appropriating power, and of the executive, or spending power.

An editorial which shows in every statement its ignorance of facts and of principles and its want of common sense thought on the subject of national defense naturally does not hesitate to throw off the claim that "the nation is better prepared for war than ever in the nearly 150 years of its existence." If this were conceded it would mean next to nothing, since our history shows that we always have been wastefully and pitifully unprepared for war before our wars began. But those who give thought to conditions know that relatively we are far less prepared than ever because the war equipment of great powers has far outstripped our very slight recent advance in efficiency. Our responsibilities and our chances of dangerous entanglements are many times greater than they have been in the past. That ought to be obvious.

Finally, we advise our inquiring Iowa reader to get in touch with the patriotic and well informed men who in the Navy league and the Army league are trying to combat the traditional ignorance and unsafe and unbalanced optimism which express themselves in the "we kin lick all creation" brag and in such criminal twaddle as the declaration of our late secretary of state that at the president's call a million men in arms would rally to the country's defense before set of sun!

THE LEGISLATURE.

The fact most readily forgotten in connection with the legislature is that it is a representative body. It is representative of about the general average of contentiousness, obstinacy, self seeking, amiability, serviceability, and general usefulness of the community represented. In its high spots it will be a little better, and in its low spots a little worse, and it will behave itself as a thoroughly human organization, sometimes very bad and sometimes astonishingly good.

Much goes bravely into the legislature and much less comes limping out. A general assembly is not a body of initiative and creation. It is a body of resistance and destruction. Its sessions are general assizes, at which criminals known as reform bills are brought in for condemnation and sent down for two years. The few that escape represent the biennial contribution to the slow progress of government away from its imperfections.

The legislature that has now done its work was about the same as its predecessors, a little better than some and a little worse than others, but keeping fairly close to the general average. It gave the state the tax reform resolution for a needed amendment to the constitution; it denied the state the more important resolution for a constitutional convention. It gave Chicago park consolidation, and, not to enumerate its good acts or emphasize its bad ones, a number of measures which will measurably increase the ability of the state to do its work.

Incidentally it voted to raise the pay of members hereafter elected to the assembly. We have looked tolerantly upon the appetite of the legislators for more pay, knowing that a good one is worth a great deal and that the salary is not in proportion to the demands made upon a man's time. If a good assembly could be obtained it would be worth almost any price.

The session drew to its end with a pathetic scene which might have been food for the movies. Speaker Shanahan made known his regret that circumstances which controlled him had caused a break in the fourteen year old friendship enjoyed by him and Mr. Lee O'Neil Browne. This may have touched Mr. Browne, but it did not melt him. Suffering from a sense of injustice, he turned his face from the contrite speaker. Politics has its sadness.

HELPING IN EUROPE.

A suggestive glimpse of the possibilities of our international future is offered by the news of the inauguration of a nation-wide movement for the amelioration of the condition of Jews throughout the world.

"It is the belief," explains the report, "that the question of permanently establishing the civil and political rights of Jews throughout the world can be settled for all time through the influence of the United States at the negotiation of peace terms at the conclusion of the European war."

A more significant hint that the day of our isolation is past has not been given us. If the United States is to be represented at the council table of the powers which rearrange the world after the war, and if there seated it is to undertake to shape the internal affairs of European states for the relief of alien Jews, why will it not be bound to speak for the Irish in Great Britain, the Finns in Russia, the Poles in Germany and Russia, the Bohemians, Lithuanians, Roumanians, Croats, etc., etc., in Austria-Hungary, and whatever people have representatives in America?

And if the United States speaks for all these, how will it be received and what shall be our commitments in exchange for the concessions we hope to win?

Unquestionably we cannot involve ourselves in the most delicate problems of Europe without paying a price for the privilege of ameliorating the conditions of all oppressed. It might be well for America to consider in the meantime what it is willing to pay for this rôle of universal monitorship and whether we have not problems enough to solve within our own borders.

Perhaps foreign opinion will be reversed as to our virtues before peace arrives, but at the present moment we believe we should not be unanimously accepted as guide, philosopher, and friend.

Editorial of the Day.

[From the Journal of the American Medical Association.]

Since the passage of the Harrison narcotic law numerous statements have appeared in newspapers and medical journals regarding the number of drug addicts in the United States. Most of these statements are mere guesses, no accurate data existing on which to base any careful estimates. Certainly the maximum figures given by some writers are greatly exaggerated.

In a recent issue of the Scientific American Lucius P. Brown, food and drug commissioner of the state of Tennessee, furnishes data on which to base a more or less accurate estimate. From figures derived from the operation of the food and drug laws of Tennessee Commissioner Brown estimates that there are approximately 5,000 drug addicts in that state. As Tennessee comprises about 2 1-3 per cent of the entire population of the country, this would indicate that there are about 225,000 drug addicts in the United States.

"But," says Mr. Brown, "Tennessee, being an agricultural state and therefore decidedly more free from such addicts than those states where the pressure of modern life is harder, we should add 10 per cent at least to this number on the assumption that the drug addicts throughout the country will average 10 per cent higher than in Tennessee, giving in round numbers 247,000 drug victims for the entire country." On these figures he concludes that 250,000 is a maximum estimate and that the addicts annually use about $6,500,000 worth of drugs unnecessarily. These figures, as Mr. Brown says, are bad enough, but they are different from the 2,000,000 or 2,500,000 drug addicts which have been claimed by some sensational writers.

THE JIG SAW BARDS.

IN the years of my youth,
When I used to read
Golden Days,
And other magazines that hung up premiums
For subscriptions,
The height of my ambition was to own
A scroll saw.
I am reminded of this youthful longing
When I observe the work
Of the poets of these Days.
Down in the etching room
There is
A jig saw, and I will have Louis
Show me how to operate it.
Then
Perhaps I can cut out

'TOTHER night we put our feet in one chair and the rest of us in another, lighted a seegar, and took up, with anticipatory pleasure, Harold Höffding's "Modern Philosophers"; and, my dear, it was as dull as a concordance to a seed catalogue. Mr. Höffding may be a 42-centimeter thinker, but as a writer (assisted by his translator) he is nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep.

WHAT is the use of expositions of other men's philosophic systems unless the exposition is made lucid and interesting? Philosophers are much like certain musical critics: they write for one another, in a jargon which only themselves can understand.

FROM Milwaukee comes a regret, signed "Nineteenth Hole," that we have deserted the r. and a. game for a mere automobile, and we hasten [we received the note only a fortnight ago] to reply that the desertion is but temporary; we found that hauling on a wheel ruined the delicacy of touch which characterized our approaching game.

HOWEVER, Nineteenth Hole has a yarn to tell. His opponent drove a ball under a low-limbed thorn apple tree, and as he crawled into the thicket on his tum, N. H. said, j. l. t., "Keep your head down!"

A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY.

[From the Garnett, Kan., Review.]

While we were in Evanston, Ill., our nephew invited us, in company with his mother, to go down to the city and take dinner with him at a fashionable cafe. After a short walk through the lobby of the Palmer House, we went to the Sherman House, and were taken to the fine dining room in the basement, for our dinner. This is one of the "swellest" places in the city.

In the center of the dining room is a skating rink, about 40x50 feet, of natural ice. Dr. Dyche selected our table near the edge of the rink. About the time our "feed in" commenced, the balance of the show was put on. Many couples were dancing in the pavilion.

And then the skating commenced. The performers were two or three ladies and two gentleman. The ladies were dressed in flesh-colored tights, with a short, gaudy tunic, and the balance of the apparel was purely sunshine.

There were probably two hundred guests in the dining room. While they were waiting for the changing of the different courses, some of them were engaged in smoking cigarettes, drinking cocktails, beer, and other drinks—both ladies and gentlemen. At our table they did not do this, except the host, and he indulged in a cigarette or two.

WHAT THE MOTHER OF A CRIPPLED CHILD OUGHT TO KNOW. I.

DR. ORR of Nebraska estimates that there are 250,000 crippled children in the United States. Reeves in his "Care of Crippled Children" quotes a Birmingham estimate that 25 per cent of the crippled children are crippled as a result of infantile paralysis. As a matter of fact, the percentage varies from year to year and in different portions of the country.

If the estimates are correct, and infantile paralysis has been unusually active during the last fifteen years, the number of children in the country crippled as the result of this disease is 62,000.

It is important that mothers should know that infantile paralysis starts with a fever, and that no signs of paralysis show in the early stages of the disease. It oftens happens that mothers do not suspect infantile paralysis to be the cause of their children's mild symptoms, even when infantile paralysis is in the neighborhood, until the muscles begin to shrink.

It is more important that the mother know that the great wasting of the muscles after infantile paralysis is not necessary. The disease is located in the spinal cord and not in the muscles. The muscles waste after the disease, not during it. By beginning passive motion, manipulation, and electricity just as soon as the fever goes down and while the child is still sick and by keeping it up steadily, wasting of the muscles can be prevented. Good medical care in the height of the disease is of some service. Good care as the disease subsides is of very great service.

To my mind it is important that the mothers know that, after the limbs have wasted, they cannot be restored. The best that can happen is that by braces in most cases and by operation in others some control of the limbs is possible. For this service there are good hospitals, dispensaries, and schools. A list of these is to be found in Reeves' "Care of Crippled Children."

The reason for putting stress upon this phase of the subject is that I hear from so many mothers who, grasping at straws, carry their children long distances and spend much of their money because of soliciting letters in which wild promises of impossible cures are made.

It is important that the mothers of children crippled by infantile paralysis know the importance to their children of play in the open air.

The figures from Birmingham show that 10 per cent of the cripples are such by reason of rickets. The percentage seems higher than in the United States, unless we count the cases of bowlegs and knockknees and very thin chests as crippled from rickets.

It is important that a mother know that mild degrees of deformity from rickets will pass away under good food and good hygiene. A thin chest can be flattened out by exercises begun early and persisted in. Bob Fitzsimmons is an illustration of what a knock-kneed, wabbly legged, probably rickety person can develop into. None other of the cripples responds so well to good food and good hygiene. Some of the worst cases can be straightened out by operation.

Whether or not a crippled child is to suffer from neglect rests very largely with the mother.

LEAVE THE BED.

C. B. A. writes: "Kindly give me your opinion of a case of high blood pressure. Can it be cured, and how? Is there danger to a woman of about 47 years, who has had good health, as a rule, and looks well? The weight is about 150 and the height about 5 feet 7 inches. The patient has been in bed three months on a strict sweet milk diet. Should there be a diet, and of what, after giving up the milk diet? Is the condition critical at this time or later? Is traveling safe?"

REPLY.

High blood pressure indicates long continued wear. The wear may be from overwork, or worry, lead poisoning, venereal diseases, stimulants, or tobacco. Unless there is some special occasion for it, there is no sense in going to bed for high blood pressure. A "one hoss" shay may be somewhat creaky, but why have it if you do not use it? Get out of bed, go about your affairs, change whatever in your habits should be changed, and you will do about all you can do for high blood pressure.

Milk, eggs, and meat should not make up any considerable part of your diet. Eat lightly. You have been a sinner for forty years. You are now trying to escape your sins by being good, and, as usually happens, you are too good.

SCRATCHED BY DOG'S TOOTH.

S. writes: "Do you think there is danger of hydrophobia from the scratch of a dog's tooth? It is quite a deep scratch. Would cauterizing it be a prevention after five days? Can dogs develop rabies if they have never been bitten by a dog so afflicted?"

REPLY.

1. If the dog was mad or was just about to go mad, there is danger that the person scratched will have hydrophobia and grave danger at that. If the dog was not mad or on the verge of it there is no danger.

2. Cauterizing five days after the bite will do no good.

3. No. You should keep track of the dog. Unless you know that it is free from rabies take the Pasteur treatment. If the dog is free from rabies banish fear from your mind.

NOT PROBABLE.

M. E. G. writes: "Is a woman of 45 who has had four children and who has had no indication of change of life likely to conceive again?"

REPLY.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1915: By the Brentwood Co.]

ALTHOUGH, next to the throne, the woolsack is the most conspicuous feature of the house of lords at Westminster and an object of intense interest to all visitors from this side of the Atlantic, yet theoretically it is without the limits of the house.

This enables the office of lord high chancellor to be discharged by a commoner. Indeed, the newly appointed lord chancellor, Sir Stanley Buckmaster, was present at several sessions of the house of lords, occupying the woolsack before receiving the peerage which has just been bestowed upon him by King George.

He is now Lord Buckmaster of Cheddington. Until he received this barony he was barred from taking any part in the debates in the upper chamber. There have been many instances of an occupant of the woolsack being left without a peerage throughout his term of office, like Sir Thomas More, one of the most celebrated of lord high chancellors, who never was a peer, while Sir Robert Henley occupied the woolsack from 1757 to 1760 as a commoner.

Lord Buckmaster's career has been of a wonderfully successful character. He is the son of a schoolmaster, the former teacher of one of the classes of the science and art department at South Kensington.

He managed to pay his way through Oxford by winning a scholarship, subsequently read for the bar, paying his expenses in connection therewith by means of the money derived from his Oxford fellowship, and rapidly made a name for himself as a lawyer by his lucidity of exposition and by his directness of thought and speech. In fact, he seemed to be able to clothe the dry bones of chancery law with such interest and fascination that it became a recreation for a layman to hear him argue in court.

As lord high chancellor he received a salary of $50,000 a year and a pension of $25,000 a year for the remainder of his life on his retirement or on the downfall of the present cabinet, no matter how brief his term of office.

Strictly speaking, the lord high chancellor is not the speaker of the house of lords, but rather its prolocutor. He cannot be said to preside over its deliberations, and has no such authority to guide its discussions as that enjoyed by the speaker of the house of commons.

He has no authority to prevent any peer who is addressing the house from wandering away from the subject under discussion, nor to call him to order, nor to reduce him to silence. He takes part in all the votes and is at liberty to speak upon any question that comes up if a peer, not in his capacity as lord high chancellor, but as one of the peers of his rank in the nobility. On such occasions he delivers his remarks, not from the woolsack but from the bench of barons, viscounts, or earls, according to the grade of his peerage.

The woolsack is a sort of broad, square, flat, blue cloth divan in the house of lords and is supposed to consist of tightly packed wool. There are really several of these woolsacks placed in the center aisle of the house, midway between the throne and the cross benches. The others are reserved for the use of the judges of the high court, who sit in the house of lords for the purpose of giving legal advice, but who do not vote.

The woolsack dates from the reign of Queen Elizabeth, when stringent laws were enacted to prevent the exportation of wool, which was then regarded as the chief source of the wealth of the nation. That the importance of this staple product of the realm might be kept constantly in mind by the legislators woolsacks were placed in the house of peers as seats for the lord high chancellor and for the judges.

All those who have read that well known book entitled "Letters Which Never Reached Him," and who have had occasion to meet the authoress and her husband, Baron Edmund Heyking, during their frequent visits to the United States, will be sorry to hear of his death.

There has been a good deal of the unusual in the lives of both. Thus, Baroness Heyking is by birth a Countess Elizabeth Flemming, as such a member of one of the oldest houses of the Pomeranian nobility, which can trace its line back to long prior to the advent of Christianity in northern Germany.

She inherited the family estates from her father, who was a Prussian minister plenipotentiary and was married, en premières noces, to a Baron von Putlitz, by whom she had a daughter, now married to a young German diplomat of the name of Von Raumer.

Baroness von Putlitz's union did not turn out happily. She left her husband and passed a couple of years with her child in foreign travel until recalled home to Germany by her husband's suicide.

Before killing himself Baron von Putlitz wrote a letter in which he declared that his self-inflicted death was the result of what is known in Germany as an "American duel," that is to say, a duel in which the two adversaries draw lots, the loser taking his own life, according to the manner which he prefers. Von Putlitz in his letter mentioned the name of his alleged adversary.

But subsequent investigation brought to light the strange fact that not only did the man in question have no difference or dispute with Von Putlitz but that he had actually never set eyes on him—was indeed a perfect stranger to him. The causes of Von Putlitz's suicide therefore remain wrapped in mystery.

A year later his widow married Baron Edmund von Heyking, who then was attached to the department of foreign affairs at Berlin, which he had joined in 1880.

Von Heyking was born not as a German but as a Russian, graduating from the Russian university of Dorpat, served in the Russian government service for several years, and as such was one of the imperial Muscovite commissioners to the Centennial exhibition at Philadelphia.

Disapproving of Alexander III.'s efforts to Russianize his German speaking provinces, he resigned his post and started at Riga a newspaper devoted to the defense of the prerogatives of the nobles of Corland, Lithuania, and Livonia, to whom he belonged.

Political differences led to his becoming involved in a duel with the deputy governor of Riga, whom he killed, and finding Russia too hot to hold him, he betook himself to Berlin and requested Prince Bismarck not only to facilitate his naturalization but also to give him government employment.

Bismarck took a great fancy to him, appointed him secretary of legation, and in 1885 sent him to New York as consul general. He was subsequently consul general at Calcutta, minister at Cairo, where he quarreled with the English authorities, and German envoy in Chile, Peking, Mexico, and Serbia.

HUSBAND ENTITLED TO LIFE ESTATE.

Coldwater, Mich., June 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise me what the legal requirements are in Michigan relative to the estate of a married woman who dies intestate with one direct heir (male child, adult), the estate consisting of slightly incumbered realty. 2. Is there any time limit during which the estate must be probated, and can the heir act directly without attorney? What, if any, are the risks of delaying proceedings? 3. Also kindly advise me how old a child must be before his name can be legally changed in the state of Missouri. M. K. W.

The husband gets a life estate as tenant by courtesy. Then the lands go to the heir. [2] There is no time limit within which the estate must be probated. The risks involved are mainly those of losing claims which the estate may have against debtors, or disseizors of the land, through the running of the statute of limitations. The heir may, if he chooses, be his own attorney, but would be foolish to be so if there are any legal complications. [3] There is no Missouri statute requiring that a child be of any certain age before he have the right to change his name.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAY COMPEL TRANSFER OF PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me if the court has a right to transfer property from wife to husband (papers being made out in the name of the wife) to cover charges brought by suit and payment of note. A CONSTANT READER.

If the property has been transferred to the wife for the purpose of defrauding creditors, the court may compel the wife to transfer the property to satisfy the claims.

METHOD OF SETTLING ESTATE.

Champaign, Ill., June 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Where a father and mother die without leaving a will, and where they have been dead for some five or six years, what is the best way to settle up a small estate where there are no debts and three children to share the estate? Where one of the three children has paid the parents' debts, including doctor and funeral expenses, can they hold this amount out of the property when sold if there has been no court record made of it? If one of the heirs should become contrary and refuse to sell the property or let it be sold, what is the best thing to do then? J. M. C.

Letters of administration may be taken out and an administrator appointed at the suit of any of the children. The estate can be held for the payment of the debts mentioned. If necessary the administrator can order the property sold to pay these debts. Another method of settling up the estate is by partition proceedings. These are started either by a bill in chancery or a petition in the Circuit court of the county where the premises are located. In such proceedings all such matters as the debts you mention will be cleared up in the division of the property.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MOTHER MAY DISINHERIT SONS.

Chicago, June 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A widow has made a will dividing her estate equally among three daughters, wholly disregarding two sons. Is this legal, or are the two sons entitled to a small money consideration, say $1 each, in the hope that by so doing no contest of the will can be made? M. M.

The mother may disinherit her sons or any other children whom she pleases, and it is not necessary to leave them any money or other property whatsoever.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

"DESERTION IN FACE OF THE ENEMY."

Chicago, June 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Having his own way has always seemed to be more important to Mr. Bryan than the welfare of his party or of his country. His action in the present situation, stripped of sentimental trimmings, has an amazing appearance on at least two sides.

1. Utilizing his dramatic instinct, his personal notoriety, and his high public office to secure the utmost stage effect, he did this:

He took advantage of confidence reposed in him and of knowledge officially acquired to proclaim his personal interpretation of an official document not yet promulgated, thereby violating every rule that imposes reticence upon public servants in like situations. He gave to his interpretation a sinister twist that encouraged all opponents, domestic and foreign, of a governmental policy delicately balanced to fit a critical period; that directly accused the president of deliberately acting in a way to involve the nation in strife; that wrote "war?" across the face of the official document not yet promulgated.

In time of actual conflict such an act would come near to being called "giving aid and comfort to the enemy," or worse.

2. Mr. Bryan's own reasons for resigning in the midst of a critical governmental situation were based upon a difference of opinion with his chief on method of procedure. He said Mr. Wilson's purpose and his own were identical; that they differed only on the way to achieve the purpose.

When a soldier on the eve of battle, no matter what his rank, throws down his arms and steps aside, his act is called something like "desertion in the face of the enemy." His plea of inability to agree with the commander-in-chief's plan of campaign is not accepted in palliation.

BERNARD J. MULLANEY.

THEY DID THEIR BIT.

Chicago, June 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Upon several occasions I have overheard the remark that Chicago people were a bunch of "set me back and waits." The acme of my surprise lies in my discovery that I and my family are of the "bunch!" I have "set me back and waited" for some one else to thank the private car owners for their assistance during the strike. Each morning and evening thousands were brought to and from their employment by private car owners on the boulevards. They were not jitneys in business but friends to the distressed.

So wishing to extricate myself from "the bunch" I take this opportunity of submitting to our private car owners my apreciative thanks, together with those of thousands of "set me backs" who are waiting.

A CHICAGOAN.

CHARACTER OF ITALIAN OFFICERS.

Chicago, June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Permit me to say that the dispatch published in your issue of today and purporting to come from one E. Alexander Powell is a tissue of lies.

For the information of your readers, every cavalry officer of the Italian army is a nobleman and every officer of the army, whether belonging to foot or mounted corps, is a gentleman. In addition to this, the sentiment of duty and discipline in the army is such that every one who is familiar with the Italian army will not hesitate to brand your "staff correspondent" a professional liar.

Milan rioters may have been ill advised and wrong. The Italian government did all it was possible to do. Damages will be paid to the victims, if any damage was sustained. This is all a civilized country can do. As to officers cheering and helping acts of vandalism, why, this may be a matter of course in other countries very familiar to your "staff correspondent," not in Italy. CAIROLI GIGLIOTTI.

ROUMANIANS A LATIN PEOPLE.

Chicago, June 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—When we speak of the Roumanians we should think of them as a Latin people, and of their language as a true Romance language, like the Italian, the French, the Spanish, and the Portuguese.

We are likely to lose sight of this fact when we see Roumanian books printed in the Cyrillic alphabet, with words often so spelled as to disguise their Roman origin. Roumania is a land "where two seas meet," and eastern influence contends with western. But Roumania is looking westward. She is proud of her Roman blood and speech, and, though like an island in the human sea, severed from her kindred in the west, she still feels the ties of blood and of language which bind her to her western kindred.

The use of the Roman alphabet and a reform of the spelling of Roumanian words, will emphasize this fact to the peoples of the west. Another influence now at work is the patriotic songs of the Roumanian people.

The following stanza (which can be read by any student of other Romance languages, though he may never have seen a word of Roumanian before) illustrates this:

Asta-di rasele latine
Sunt unite intr'un grafu
Si'n campiile romane,
Intarindu-se 'n fratire,
Vin, salut' pre Dees Maiu.

The German Moekesch has rendered this stanza in German thus:

Heule sind der Römer Stämme
Eins durch sprache, under herbel
Kommen sie, um fest zu schliessen
An einander sich und grussen

CHINA WOUNDED IN NEGOTIATIONS WITH JAPANESE

[Copyright: 1915: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PEKING, China, May 16.—The statement read by Mr. Lu, the Chinese minister of foreign affairs at the conference at the foreign office on May 1, when he submitted the formal reply of the Chinese to the Japanese revised list of demands, furnishes an interesting commentary on the Chinese conduct of the whole proceeding.

It was whispered around Peking during the days and nights when the Chinese were preparing their reply to the revised demands that Mr. Lu would embrace the opportunity when presenting the reply to say a few things about this Japanese misrepresentation. Mr. Hioki has been especially indignant over what he has termed the campaign of publicity maintained by the Chinese.

Not Dared to Whisper.

But the Japanese have had them so bluffed all along that they have scarcely dared to whisper to their most intimate friends and have acted pretty much like the villain in a movie, who stops at every step to see that he is not pursued.

Mr. Lu made his statement, all right, but there was nothing in it that would satisfy a fire eater of the young China party. Instead he ran perfectly true to Chinese form. His performance was exactly what might have been expected from the product of fifty centuries of the philosophy of passive resistance.

This is what Mr. Lu said:

"The list of demands which the Japanese government first presented to the Chinese government consists of five groups, the first relating to Shantung, the second relating to South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia, the third relating to the Hanyehping company, the first asking for nonalienation of the coast of the country and the fifth relating to the questions of national advisers, national police, national arms, missionary propoganda, Yangtse valley railways, and Fukien province.

"Ever since the opening of the negotiations China has been doing her best to hasten their progress, holding as many as three conferences a week.

Made Painful Effort.

"As regards the articles in the second group, the Chinese government, being disposed to allow the Japanese government to develop the economic relations of the two countries in South Manchuria, realizing that the Japanese government attaches importance to its interests in that region, and wishing to meet the hopes of Japan, made a painful effort, without hesitation, to agree to the extension of the twenty-five year lease of Port Arthur and Dalny, the thirty-six year period of the South Manchurian railway, and the fifteen year period of the Antung-Mukden railway all to ninety-nine years; and to abandon its own cherished hopes to regain control of these places and properties at the expiration of their respective terms of lease.

"It cannot but be admitted that this is a most genuine proof of China's friendship for Japan. As to the right of opening mines in South Manchuria, the Chinese government has already agreed to permit Japanese to work mines within the mining areas designated by Japan.

"China has further agreed to give Japan a right of preference in the event of borrowing foreign capital for building railways, or of making a loan on the security of local taxes in South Manchuria. The question of revising the arrangement for the Kirin-Changchun railway has been settled in accordance with the proposal made by Japan.

"The Chinese government has further agreed to employ Japanese first in the event of employing foreign advisers on political, military, financial, and police matters.

"Furthermore, the provision about the repurchase period in the South Manchurian railway was not mentioned in Japan's original proposal. Subsequently the Japanese government, alleging that its meaning was not clear, asked China to cancel the provision altogether.

"Again, Japan at first demanded the right of Japanese to carry on farming in South Manchuria, but subsequently she considered the word 'farming' was not broad enough, and asked to replace it with the phrase 'agricultural enterprises.'

"To these requests the Chinese government, though well aware that the proposed changes could only benefit Japan, still acceded without delay. This, too, is a proof of China's frankness and sincerity toward Japan.

"Although the demand in the fourth group, asking for a declaration not to alienate China's coast, is an infringement of her sovereign rights, yet the Chinese government offered to make a voluntary pronouncement so far as it comports with China's sovereign rights.

"As regards the demands in the fifth group, they all infringe China's sovereignty, the treaty rights of other powers, or the principle of equal opportunity.

"Accordingly, China has declared from the beginning that while she entertains the most profound regard for Japan's wishes, she was unable to admit that any of these matters could be made the subject of an understanding with Japan.

"In conclusion, the Chinese government wishes to express its hope that the negotiations now pending between the two countries will soon come to an end, and whatever misgivings foreign countries entertain toward the present situation may be quickly dispelled."

Georgia Jew, Condemned to Die; Whose Sentence Was Commuted.

the factory at the time of the murder, was accidentally discovered washing a stained shirt. He was arrested and held as a suspect, but suspicion was not seriously directed toward him until it was discovered that he could write. He had previously denied that he could write.

Convicted on Negro's Testimony.

Conley, after a series of contradictory stories, swore he wrote the note found by the body at the dictation of Frank. He said he had no idea what use it was to be put to. He said he helped carry the body of the girl from the second story, where he said Frank had murdered her, to the cellar.

On Aug. 26 Frank was convicted on Conley's testimony.

On Feb. 17, 1914, the Supreme court of Georgia denied Frank a new trial, and on March 7 Frank again was sentenced to hang. Meantime Conley had been brought to trial as accessory. He was convicted on Feb. 24 and sentenced to one year in prison, which he has served.

High Courts Sustain Sentence.

On May 5 a second motion for a new trial was denied and the case was taken again to the state Supreme court on constitutional grounds. On May 14 that body again refused a new trial to the condemned Jew.

The case was carried to the United States Supreme court. On Dec. 8 that body denied a writ of error. Justice Lamar granted a hearing, however, on Dec. 28. Frank's case was argued by Louis Marshall on Feb. 26. The high court handed down its decision on Feb. 19. It refused the writ of error.

On May 10 Frank was sentenced to death again—the third time. On June 9 the state prison board refused to interfere in the case, thus leaving it to the Georgia governor.

JEWELRY DISAPPEARS FROM HOME OF EVANSTON MAN.

William J. Crumpton Reports Loss of Gems to Police—Blames Sneak Thieves for His Loss.

Jewelry to the value of $275 has disappeared from the home of William J. Crumpton, a consulting engineer, 2223 Colfax street, Evanston, he reported to the Evanston police yesterday.

Mr. Crumpton, who has offices at 111 West Monroe street, told the police he has implicit faith in every one who has access to his home. He said he can only account for the loss of the jewelry on the theory that it was taken by sneak thieves.

Mr. Crumpton's losses include the following valuables:

Woman's coral brooch, set in pearls, $50.
Turquoise matrix ring, $30.
Gold ring, set with one carat diamond and pigeon blood ruby, $250.

EVADERS OF LAW TAXING OLEO TO PAY $27,000,000

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo announced today that the government expects to recover $27,000,000 from violators of the oleomargarine law during the last few years.

As a result of a thorough investigation since Jan. 1 of alleged frauds, the secretary says that approximately 200,000,000 pounds of oleo have been palmed off on the public for butter since the oleo tax law went into effect. On this enormous amount the government has collected none of the tax of 10 cents a pound for colored oleo.

Already more than $850,000 has been recovered by the commissioner of internal revenue. Forty-two violators of the law have been convicted, twenty-nine of whom are serving prison sentences. Fines amounting to $148,000 have been imposed on these men. Ten other alleged violators are under indictment and awaiting trial. In addition many smaller criminal cases are pending.

Believes "Moonshining" Checked.

Secretary McAdoo said today that he believes the practice of coloring oleo and selling it without paying the tax has largely been discontinued as a result of activity of the internal revenue officials working under his orders. A preliminary statement on the results of the investigation shows that during the present fiscal year the collections will aggregate $1,715,821, whereas the average yearly collections since the law went into effect have been only $974,502.

The investigation shows that while a total of approximately $27,000,000 is due the government from the larger offenders, only $4,650,000 of this can be obtained without suits. Steps will be taken to recover the balance.

Same Heavy Penalties Imposed.

One company, whose president and treasurer pleaded guilty and were sentenced to one year and one day in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $1,000 each, and whose plant was seized, has been assessed $798,696. Another concern, six of whose officials and employés pleaded guilty and were fined an aggregate of $8,000, and whose plant was seized, has been assessed $612,391.

One company, whose president, treasurer and secretary are under indictment, and whose plant was seized, has been assessed $916,523 for evaded taxes. Another concern, five of whose officers or agents are under indictment, and whose plant was seized and sold by the government, has been assessed $2,000,027.

SEES DANGER IN HALF-THINKING

EVIDENCE BEST BASIS.

New Haven, Conn., June 20.—[Special.]—Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university, yesterday delivered the annual baccalaureate sermon of the institution, and he said, in part:

"The duty of applying our intelligence to the conduct of life is not only an essential element of Christian doctrine; it is an element which we are in constant danger of forgetting. We dwell in the town of Stupidity a larger part of the time than it is pleasant for us to admit. For this town harbors two sorts of inhabitants. There is one set which does not think at all. There is another set which does a fraction of the necessary thinking, and mistakes it for the whole. The former class consists of those who take their opinions ready made; who sometimes perhaps have thoughts but never ideas; who get their views on politics from their party, their views on religion from their minister, and their views on business from their associates.

Errors of the Second Class.

"To this class I venture to hope that few Yale graduates belong. But the errors of the members of the second class, who do imperfect and inadequate thinking on these subjects, are just as dangerous as those of the first class—in fact, perhaps more dangerous, because they flatter themselves that they are using judgment when they are using misjudgment.

"In the last few years we have witnessed a great extension of the power of the people. Democracy is a very different thing now from what it was twenty years ago.

"No government which manages its affairs on the basis of prejudice rather than evidence can long endure. Many foreign critics regard our present experience as presaging the downfall of democracy. I believe that these critics are wrong in their predictions. But in their analysis of the dangers they are pretty nearly right; and in order to falsify their predictions we must take heed to the dangers themselves. We must help the community to examine evidence and exercise self-control; and the best way that we can do this for many years to come is by ourselves setting the example of self-control."

Baccalaureate at Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., June 20.—Human growth reaches its physical and mental maximum at about the same period, Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, told the seniors in his baccalaureate address today.

"A man reaches his full growth physically at about 18 or 19, and then begins to lose his keener perceptions at about the age of 23, which may be called the physical maximum," Dr. Lowell said. "The mental maximum is reached a great deal earlier than most people suppose. Coleridge wrote his best poems when 29 years old, and many other famous men have accomplished their best work at about his age."

MOTHER WINS DOC YAK PRIZE FOR FILM IDEA

NOTICE.

A prize of $50 will be given each week until further notice for the best idea for a moving picture film of Old Doc Yak. No manuscript will be returned unless accompanied by a stamped and self-addressed envelope. The rejection of an idea doesn't mean that it lacks merit, nor does it bar the person who suggested it from trying again.

Address all letters to Sidney Smith, care of "The Tribune," Chicago.

Mrs. A. B. Hazard of Berwyn, the pretty mother of three pretty children, won the first $50 prize for an idea for an Old Doc Yak picture for the movies.

Mrs. Hazard is the wife of A. B. Hazard, efficiency engineer at the Western Electric. Mr. and Mrs. Hazard have three small daughters, Shirley, aged 4; Virginia, 5, and Dorothy, 7.

A moving picture of Mrs. Hazard, together with the announcement that she won the first prize, will be shown on the films in next week's TRIBUNE Animated Weekly.

Doc Yak Proves Sensation.

Old Doc Yak is proving the sensation of the moving picture world. Theater audiences in Chicago and throughout the middle west roared with laughter last week as they watched the second series of THE TRIBUNE'S Animated Weekly with Old Doc's adventures under the sea. In edition No. 3, released to leading theaters today, Doc's adventures in the war zone will be depicted for the first time.

Doc has his troubles in the war zone. He is struck by a forty-two centimeter shell, but shells have no terrors for Doc. He hops on and rides it. Through mountains and other huge obstacles the missile crashes, but Doc hangs on—but you'll have to see it to appreciate it.

Where Pictures Can Be Seen.

Colonial theater—Randolph, between Dearborn and State streets.

FOUR HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Four persons were injured last night when the driver of an automobile swerved it too suddenly to one side in order to avoid a collision with another car and it turned turtle at La Salle and Thirty-third streets. Those injured are:

Harry Narensky of 1516 Trumbull avenue.
Miss Anna Cohen of 451 East Forty-seventh street.
Miss Fannie Bitoski of 333 West Thirty-third place.
Leon Cohen of 451 East Forty-seventh street.

The car Narensky tried to avoid was driven by Robert Dortch, an expressman at 3734 South State street.

Upstairs and downstairs

The New Orleans Item does not believe an institution or an individual can be "almost" honest. It does not believe in daylight purity poses that give way to shady deals in the dark. It believes in all around, 100 per cent brimful and overflowin' Faithfulness to its readers—protection of their best interests "upstairs and downstairs"—in editorial, news, and advertising. Does it pay? In the long run we should say, Yes. In immediate dollars and cents, No.

For more than eight years, under its present ownership, The Item has been battling for a cleaner government in Louisiana. At times the fightin's been fierce. Once or twice we were hit in the strong box by corporation and corrupt political scrapple, but we've managed to gain ground steadily. (Note: Governor Hall was the "Good Government" candidate,)

We've tried our durndest to rid Louisiana of Trusts not fit to trust, and spurred our people on to opportunities that sometimes ruffled "feelings" that were blinded by Contentment. "New New Orleans" is the answer.

* * * *

We urged erection of school buildings that are now pointed to with pride, and we saw to it that they were modernly manned and efficiently equipped.

* * * *

We know the part proper sewerage plays in municipal development, so we worked for the sale of the remainder of $24,000,000 worth of bonds—and we're seein' to it that the money is most advisedly spent.

* * * *

Now then—such a newspaper becomes more than merely "something to read." It's the advisor, friend and sign-post to the Right Road to thousands upon thousands.

* * * *

And so, quite naturally, we protect their dollars, their health and their happiness in our advertising columns by excluding everything off-color or shady.

* * * *

It cost just about 50,000 dollars to take this stand during the past 14 months of "war-time" and "stringency"—but it's built an Item family that'll fight till the last trench.

* * * *

And when you want to get "under the skin" of the real people down this way, ask their best friend to introduce you.

B. R. T.

A NEW POLICY has been inaugurated, commencing June 17, 1915, for the benefit of all advertisers as well as consumers using the B.R.T. System. It is a unique plan—we think a clever one, but has the stability of practical usefulness— TO DIGRESS FOR A MINUTE——the reason for advertising commodities and repeating the advertisement is to make enough "Brain Impressions" on the consumer's mind so to affect him consciously and subconsciously that he will ask for the specific article advertised when he wants it—and to make him want it;—but the main idea and one of the fundamental principles of all advertising is not only to have the consumer WANT IT WHEN HE THINKS OF IT—but, more to the point—GET IT WHEN HE WANTS IT— TO REVERT——the B. R. T. has in its control on all elevated and subway stations, where practical, news and vending stands. It will use these for furthering and exploiting all of the wares advertised in its system so that when a sufficient number of "Brain Impressions" are created in the consumer's mind, this silent but active salesman is there to sell it by order slip. YES,——from a package of shoe laces or breakfast food to a ton of coal. Now, the criticism of this plan by large or small advertisers is that while it is unique and good, won't it antagonize all of the large and small storekeepers of Brooklyn? The answer is "NO." This has been allowed for in the plan by a suggested system of credit to the store carrying the goods nearest to the ultimate consumer.

NOTE: The fault of the advertising business is that most of the advertising solicitors are selling, and only have sold, what is called in advertising "Blue Sky"—they have never sold a real bill of goods over the counter, so to speak. The writer has sold in the last five years over One Hundred Million Dollars worth of "goods" and is still selling, and the idea set forth above for the benefit of all consumers as well as advertisers in the B. R. T. System came about in this way: The writer was sitting in a car and right across the aisle was a sign advertising a particular brand of soap—a very clever card. Probably he had seen it before, but this particular time the repeated advertisment had made enough "Brain Impressions" on him to give birth to the idea of action—"I feel I want that kind of soap". He stopped at two drug stores on the way to his home, and while this soap was advertised "at all drug stores", these particular drug stores did not carry it. That was two months ago and evidently the idea of wanting that particular soap must have died at its birth because he has not found time to go back and look for it. Therefore the thought came that in handling the B. R. T. System of advertising, this should never be the case, and the plan set forth above is the result; and RESULTS COUNT!

ENVOY OF VILLA TO WASHINGTON IN PEACE MOVE

Conventionalist Leader to Submit Plan for Pacification of the Country.

El Paso, Tex., June 20.—Civil and military representatives of the Villa government will submit a plan for the pacification of Mexico to the Washington government, probably the latter part of this week, it became known here today.

It was understood the plan has the approval of Gen. Villa; that Gen. Felipe Angeles has gone to Washington to represent the military, and that Miguel Diaz Lombardo, foreign minister, will reach the border in a few days, on the way to Washington to represent the conventionalist civil government.

An unconfirmed report here is that Victoriano Huerta, former president of Mexico, is on the way from New York to El Paso, presumably to confer with former Mexican leaders. It was understood one of Huerta's daughters is in El Paso, but inquiry at the address given elicited a refusal to discuss the question.

U. S. NOT MOVED BY WARNING.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—Maytorena's warning that his forces will resist any landing by Americans in Sonora in an attempt to relieve American colonists menaced by Yaqui Indians has been noted here, but it has not caused any change in the orders to Admiral Howard, who will be in charge of the expeditionary force, if one is landed.

Admiral Howard is expected to reach Tobari bay or vicinity tonight, and his orders to act within his discretion as to landing men will stand without modification.

Officials here also took notice of the fact that Maytorena asserts he is sending 700 soldiers to the Yaqui valley to relieve the situation there and protect the Americans and other foreigners.

Hopes for Adequate Force.

It is hoped this force will prove equal to the task of holding the marauding Indians in check and that it will not be necessary for Admiral Howard to land bluejackets and marines.

The situation at Vera Cruz is being closely observed to see whether developments reported yesterday really warrant the conclusion that forces of disintegration are at work in Carranza's government, as indicated by the withdrawal of four members of his cabinet against the wishes of Gen. Obregon and Gen. Gonzales, Carranza's chief military commanders.

MEXICAN HATE OF GRINGO REAL

NO PLACE FOR YANKEE.

BY FLOYD P. GIBBONS.
[War Correspondent of The Tribune.]

El Paso, Tex., June 17.—They call it "The Gringo Hate." It is a well named, living, breathing thing, sometimes dormant, but never extinct. It is ever smoldering when it is not in flame. It never dies out. It is ever ready to blaze up. It is amitted and recognized and cultivated.

That is the feeling Mexicans have toward Americans. For obvious reasons it does not appear in the diplomatic notes that reach Washington from the various revolutionary parties. On state occasions or in formal negotiations, especially where recognition by the United States is the desired object, it is replaced by suave Latin politeness.

It may be said to the credit of the Mexican that he holds but little of the unreasonable prejudice against the Jew. The negro comes in for perfect equality among the lower classes. The Chinaman is envied for his ability to save money and the Spaniard is disliked because he belongs to a nation that once ruled Mexico.

But the American is hated.

Reason in History.

The reason may be found in history and in the business successes of some Americans who have made fortunes in the republic. The reputed origin of the term "gringo" dates back to the war between the United States and Mexico. The word is supposed to mean "gibberish" in Spanish, but the origin of the application carries a different meaning.

According to the Mexican story, the United States soldiers who invaded the republic in 1845 wore uniforms in which the dominant color was green. In the dispatches sent back by the Mexican soldiers who went to meet the invaders it was declared that the Americans had been put to flight. Consequently it was said of the soldiers in green that they had run. From this came the term "gringos" or "green goes." The fact that the history of the war does not bear out the story detracts none from the belief the Mexicans hold.

It is estimated that there are about 5,000 American citizens located in the interior of Mexico today. They know what the gringo hate is. In their sojourn in the republic they have experienced it every day. Those same men know what it means to them if the United States suddenly decides to invade Mexico. Most of them have gray hairs from their experiences of a year ago last April when United States troops landed in Vera Curz.

Few American Women.

There are but few American women in the republic. Most American citizens living there have sent their families north of the Rio Grande. These Americans have been afraid to subject their women and children to the fury of the gringo hate that will blaze up upon intervention. They themselves remain to give what small protection they can to their property interests.

The state department in Washington has issued numerous warnings to these citizens to leave the republic. The fact that about 5,000 out of more than several hundred thousand still remain in spite of the warning is explained by them on the grounds that the warnings have not been given with a view to protecting the Americans, but rather to prevent the administration from being drawn into a war with Mexico. After the various warnings from Washington the administration took no action that increased the danger, so the warnings have not been taken seriously.

"It is easy for Washington to issue sweeping warnings telling us to leave," one American manager of an interior light and power company told me, "but the things which we have built up with our lives' work are located here. Our homes are here, our work is here, our children have been born here. Everything we have in the world is here. We cannot leave, unless it is absolutely necessary to save our lives."

Feeling Against Department.

He pointed out, with no attempt to hide his feeling against the United States state department, that all warnings which Americans in Mexico had received were based on the declaration that the republic was in a state of war and that Americans who remained could expect the usual lot that befalls the innocent bystander.

I believe that almost all of the Americans in Mexico quite naturally want intervention. I have never met one who did not. They want it, but their manifestly poor opinion of the state department in Washington forces them into a position where they don't expect it. However, if intervention does come, they all realize their chances of living to see it through are slim if they happen to be in the interior when war is declared.

Villa Ill Advised.

Villa in an ill advised moment, after his first unsuccessful effort to drive Obregon back in the battle at Leon, appealed to this Mexican hatred of the "gringoes." The Baptist missionary at Leon, who operates a small printing plant, was ordered to print 2,000 proclamations, in which Villa called upon the people to help him beat Obregon and Carranza, who were trying to deliver Mexico to the "foreigners."

"Gringos" was the only possible interpretation of the word "foreigners," and, in fact, the meaning was so clear that Villa's advisers who had not been consulted were fearful of the effect the proclamation might have on their leader's standing in Washington.

Mrs. George C. Carrotners, wife of the United States state department representative, was talking to a 12 year old Mexican boy in Torreon one day. The boy carried a rifle and cartridge belts and a hat band showing he belonged to the brigade of Gen. Chao. Mrs. Carrothers asked him if he didn't think he was too young to fight. He replied that he expected to be a grown up soldier soon.

"But the revolution will be over then," said Mrs. Carrothers.

"Then I can fight the gringos," said the boy.

"We are your friende," said Mrs. Carrothers. "We have no fight between us. We are all brothers."

"Yes, but you might turn," said the boy.

Years to Overcome.

The incident gives some idea of how deep rooted the feeling is. It may be that good treatment and unselfish examples can overcome this hatred, but there are few American residents of Mexico who believe that anything but years of association and education can eliminate it.

HIGH PRICES KILLED Beware of Cheap Prices

The General says:

When we entered the field the price of good roofing was too high. With our big mills, enormous output and modern selling methods we can sell the best roofing at a reasonable price. This has been done to such a great extent that high prices have been killed. Now you get the highest quality at a reasonable price when you buy

Roofing

But there is another great danger. Unknown goods with unknown brands and unknown qualities are being offered at prices that are too cheap for safety. It's a long, long chance you take when you buy these cheap goods. Avoid extremes of cheap prices as well as high prices. Know that the company whose name appears on the goods has the ability to make a good quality roofing at a reasonable price, and that it is guaranteed by them to be the best roofing possible to make; that the company does not sell anything at a higher price, and that the price at which it is offered to you is a reasonable but not a cheap price.

Certain-teed Roofing is guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, according to whether the thickness is 1, 2 or 3 ply respectively, and remember this guarantee is backed by the largest mills in the roofing and building paper industry.

Ask your dealer for these goods, and be sure they bear our label. The price will be reasonable.

TO THE PUBLIC

Recognizing that the interests of our employes, our patrons and ourselves are in every way mutual, we publish here for the public's information the text of a letter which has been sent to more than 12,000 employes in our service.

CHICAGO SURFACE LINES

TO THE EMPLOYES OF THE CHICAGO SURFACE LINES:

The strike has come and gone. The public, the employes, and the management all are congratulating each other upon the prompt and happy way in which it has been settled. We all are looking forward now, not backward. All our differences are now happily in the hands of others for settlement. If any one has to worry about them, let the arbitrators worry while we settle down to business. The management thinks this is a good time to have a frank word with our men.

TWO THINGS STAND OUT ABOVE EVERYTHING ELSE IN THIS SITUATION

First, the public realizes and appreciates as never before the real value of this service. The magnitude of this work, the handling of 3,000,000 people daily, which has been taken as a matter of course, has been brought home to the people, and right now there is a kindlier feeling towards the company and its employes than ever before. Let us keep this going.

The second thing which stands out clear and strong is the importance and the necessity of having the good-will of the people. This strike has demonstrated that the people have the final word; that no one can win against public opinion, and no one can lose with public opinion back of him.

GOOD-WILL OF THE PEOPLE OUR GREATEST ASSET

The thing we want to say to you now is this: The good-will of the people is the greatest asset which the employes of the company and the company itself can have. It is an asset so great, so valuable, and so extensive that there is plenty for all of us. It is an inexhaustible mine, and only needs proper development in order to yield rich returns.

And the good-will of the people is easily the greatest asset the company can have, because the company during every hour of the day has to meet in some way or other the city officials, acting as the direct representatives of the people. These officials reflect pretty closely in the long run the attitude of the people towards the company.

If the public attitude is favorable, the company will get the benefit. This benefit will come in the form of helping the company to avoid unnecessary and useless expense. It will mean co-operation between these officials, representing the people, and the company. This in turn will mean a heavy saving for the company, and don't forget that whatever helps the company is bound to help you.

COURTESY COSTS NOTHING—PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Let us remember that courtesy and kindness cost nothing, but pay big dividends in public good-will. A simple act or word of courtesy on the part of trainmen frequently will more than make up for unavoidable delays or errors which passengers are inclined to criticize. On the other hand, the slightest discourtesy or lack of interest in the welfare of passengers will make the public criticize an otherwise good service.

We are employed for no other purpose than to give the best possible service which our facilities and conditions permit. Let us work together to this end.

The management asks you to try and remember this when on duty, to work with us and not against us, and to do everything in your power to win the good-will and the favor of the people of this city. Let us exchange congratulations once more that everything has ended as it has—that we are at peace and not at war—and that there exists so cordial and kindly a feeling.

YOU MEN SHOULD SPEAK TO THE PUBLIC ALSO

And now one thing more: We intend from time to time to discuss with the people certain matters pertaining to service improvements and betterments and to ask their help. We want to discuss those matters in our own way. In order to do this we shall buy some space in the newspapers, but we do not want to stop there. We are going to buy some advertising space for you men and to ask you to present your own suggestions to the public for the improvement of the service. We will arrange the details with your representatives.

By doing this possibly we can give the people a little better view of some of the problems with which we have to deal, and perhaps we can get their help—for instance, in clearing our tracks of vehicles during the rush hours—this will help the public and in turn is bound to help us.

THE BEST WAY TO HELP OUR NEW MAYOR

We have a brand new mayor in this city. He is just starting out on a four-year cruise. This last week has given us his measure. We all know now what it means to have his hand at the wheel in stormy weather. He is entitled to our help, and about the best thing we can do for him is to do the best thing we can for the service.

There is no question that the way in which we have settled our differences already is helping this city in getting a number of other differences of a similar nature settled, and if we go ahead along these lines it is going to mark a new era of better feeling in this city.

This letter expresses the real feeling of the management, and we believe will be received by you in the spirit in which it is written. Cordially yours,

L. A. BUSBY,
President.

CHICAGO THE GREAT CENTRAL MARKET

THE GREATEST FAMILY OF BUYERS IN AMERICA

AFTER ALL, isn't the family the basis of American commerce? It's father's suit, mother's hat and the shoes for the kiddies that run up into millions. It is the luxuries for the home—the vacuum cleaners and the pianolas—that have mothered invention. It is the family's love of pleasure that has given birth to new industries—to the camera, to the automobile, to the "movies."

THE family is the ultimate consumer in its largest aspect. It makes the laws of supply and demand. The farmer tilling the soil and the mechanic bending over his lathe, the commission man on South Water Street and the delivery boy, whistling cheerily as he comes to your door—all of these are playing their parts in the great drama of life in which the family is starred.

CAN you imagine a family of 15,000,000 members? If you can, you have a picture of the rich Chicago territory of which Chicago itself is the center. Just think! The Chicago territory contains 700,000 prosperous farmers. It is the largest buying power area in the world—the heart of the rich agricultural country of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

IN the city of Chicago alone there are 794,594 wage earners, and nowhere in the world is labor so well paid. Bricklayers, gas fitters and electrical workers receive $6 a day—in Chicago. Marble cutters and structural iron setters get $5.50 a day—in Chicago. Painters and roofers get $5.20 a day—in Chicago. These are just a few instances of the wages paid—and good wages mean good living.

IMAGINE a market that produces $222,000,000 worth of iron and steel, 90,000,000 barrels of Portland cement and 70% of the country's supply of hides; that raises and distributes 70,000,000 bushels of wheat and 200,000,000 bushels of corn; whose annual receipts of live stock are 17,400,000 head. Imagine a family that eats $28,000,000 worth of bread and bakery products every year—and yet the 2,393,325 population of Chicago itself is only a part of the 15,000,000 people comprised within the Chicago territory—which can be tapped through advertising in the Chicago newspapers.

NOWHERE in these United States can you dip into such a golden stream as you can in the Chicago territory. Nowhere can you dominate the situation, hold established trade or obtain new distribution to better effect and at a smaller expenditure than you can in the Chicago territory—by the use of newspaper advertising.

TO the keen manufacturer interested in merchandising his product efficiently, the Chicago market makes an appeal he simply cannot afford to overlook.

FLICKERINGS from FILM LAND

by KITTY KELLY

Here He Is, Back Again. Need an Introduction? Watch Him "Work"

Mr. Charles Chaplin, absent from our midst for several weeks, will wield a paste brush and calcimine in his refined and polite slapsticking today instead of pies, dough, and other familiar Keystone "props." His new release is "Work," an Essanay two reeler.

THE w. k. theme of "Fine Feathers" provides the motif for "The Spendthrift," which, picturelzed by the Kleine company with Irene Fenwick in the lead, may be seen on the Ziegfeld screen. As most pictures of the sort go, it is a good one, the situations pretty well directed toward the picture's purpose, the casting of a uniform quality of efficiency. Miss Fenwick accomplishes much better than she did in her first cinema essay, "The Commuters," proving herself, even though lacking in piquant features, a mobile faced young lady, pleasant to watch.

The story is of two repressed young women, who when freed from youthful reins by marriage, make up for all they have missed. That is, it starts out to be of the two, then sidesteps the emphasis mainly on to the one. Frances is the erring spendthrift who works in a general lot of woe, while Clarice's romance seems rather a thrust in matter.

A nice feature of the picture is the devotion between the young husband and wife; they don't quarrel over the bills, though there comes a time—else there could be no proper film thrill—when the inevitable "other man" enters and domestic peace is shipwrecked.

As the program says, the lesson is "hammered home," and, by the way, that program is a happy thought. It is the first time I have seen one at the Ziegfeld for a long, long time, and a program certainly makes one feel as if one had been to a real show. Besides, if a picture is worth exhibiting, it is worth having the cast recorded for reference.

A portly lady strove to penetrate the smothering gloom that filled the way from the aisle to some seat. "I can't see," remarked she audibly to the usher, who from behind was trying to steer her to a favorable spot. "Why don't you have lights, like they do in other theaters so people can see where they are going?"

Comfort and service in picture houses seem to appeal to patrons about as much as programs.

Charming Program for the Youngsters.

Mr. Weatherman, who doled out no sunshine, was something of a wet blanket to the kiddies' morning at Orchestra hall on Saturday, for there were not so many young patrons as were present the week before. And that was too bad for the youngsters who were not there, because they missed a truly charming program. There's another Saturday coming, though.

It was rather curious, though, how many grownups were present. Many a single child was escorted by two big people, and I noted one young man there without a youngster to sponsor him. Everybody present had a good time—and that is an easy statement to make, because you could hear them having it.

The Strand management reflects the atmosphere of the refined home in its editing of films intended for the juvenile audience. No mother need fear her youngster will see things there from which she should shield him.

There will be no performance of "The Dictator" this evening.

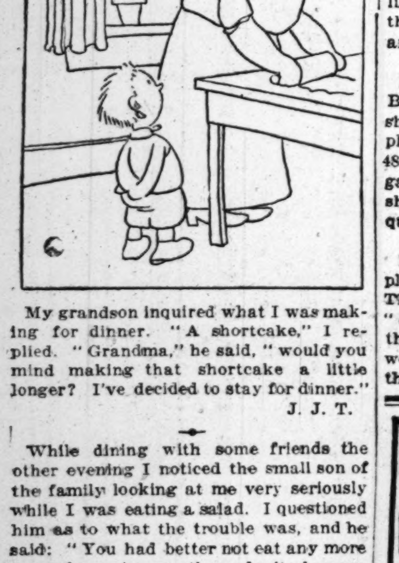
BRIGHT SAYINGS of the CHILDREN

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The stories may be sent in either by children or their parents. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.



My grandson inquired what I was making for dinner. "A shortcake," I replied. "Grandma," he said, "would you mind making that shortcake a little longer? I've decided to stay for dinner."
J. J. T.

While dining with some friends the other evening I noticed the small son of the family looking at me very seriously while I was eating a salad. I questioned him as to what the trouble was, and he said: "You had better not eat any more cucumbers, 'cause they don't become some people."
A. J.

One day her grandmother, not wishing to leave her upstairs while she went into the basement, said, "Mary, grandma is afraid to go down in the basement alone." Quick as a flash she replied: "That's awight, gran. You go right down. You're too old to have any one hurt you."

Answers to Queries.

H. B. G.: Hawthornes (Cratægus) are members of the rose family. The fruit is on the plan of the pome. There are ten or more bush honeysuckles. Lonicera Tatarica is the best known in the parks.

R. M.: The Japanese barberry makes a durable hedge. The Mahonia is good for an evergreen effect in winter. A cemetery hedge should be low and absolutely hardy. Grave myrtle can be depended upon to come up every year. The Memorial rose (Wichuriana) creeps along the ground as closely as ivy. Spirea Van Houttei or Bridal Wreath is preferable to lilac. Hydrangea paniculata planted with the Bridal Wreath provides flowers spring and fall.

F. B. T., University of Chicago: Bone meal is free from acid. An analysis shows its ammonia about 5½ per cent, phosphoric acid 22 to 25, and phosphate 48 to 54. Sheep manure is a good general garden fertilizer. Both tone meal and sheep manure are recommended to bring quick results.

P. D. L.: Make the soil fine and plant geranium seeds half an inch deep. The seeds ripen at the base of the long "crane's bill." Shake out a few or plant the whole pod. Or buy seed. Many home women raise handsome geraniums from their own plants.

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

Concerning French Doughnut.

MRS. W. asked me nearly a month ago to print a recipe for French doughnuts. The accidental neglect now enables me to favor her and at the same time be reminiscent at what seems an opportune time.

What we call a French doughnut undoubtedly originated in Germany, where it is called the "spritzkuchen," because the little wreaths or rounds are made by squirting the paste out through a pastry syringe or spritz. The paste is the same as that for puff paste, and is not easy to get just right, but a poor paste is better fried than baked.

"Spritzkuchen" Recipe.

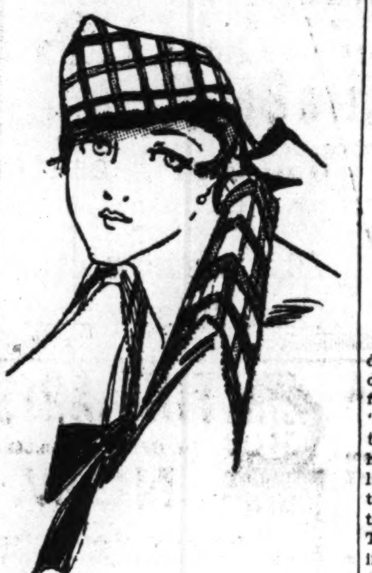
One-fifth of a pound of butter, one-half cup of water, a pinch of salt, three-tenths of a pound of flour (the German measure was 150 grams of flour), from four to six eggs, a tablespoon of sugar, a bit of baking powder, and flavoring. Melt the butter in an earthen pot and stir in the flour. When these are blended add the water a little at a time and beat hard to a thick and very smooth dough.

Cook ten minutes, stirring or beating constantly, or until it comes away from the sides of the earthen pot. Take off the fire and stir the eggs one at a time, stirring them into the hot dough. The more eggs the more likely the dough is to be light and fine. This can be dropped into hot fat, but the Germans use a star point in the pastry syringe, which makes the stream come out fluted, and they twist this as well as wreath it on to waxed paper.

The syringe is quickly lifted at the joining so that there will not be a lump there, first pressed down to make the joint firm. The paper containing enough to fry at one time is inverted in the hot fat. The paper is removed as soon as the cakes will peel off from it readily, but if before this they will be ragged. They are usually sprinkled with powdered sugar while hot.

Fashions from London

By Bessie Ascough



A Parisian novelty called a Scotch cap. With it is worn a high collar of plaid silk, navy blue, black, and white.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The hats of today are almost exaggeratedly simple in detail. It may well be that the milliners of Paris are aware their clients do not find it convenient to spend large sums of money on dress this year and that it is for this reason the new millinery models are so free from complications they can be copied at home by clever fingers.

This may account for the fact that many of the newest and best hats and toques are practically untrimmed. But I am rather of opinion we have to thank the revival of picture fashions for the welcome relief to our pockets. Picturesque frocks call for picturesque hats decked out with flowers or ribbons, and the latter can always be arranged at home at small expense.

The Scotch cap models are popular as ever. I have seen charming little caps covered entirely with dark violets, and others covered with pansies in different colors. As a rule, these caps are finished off with a band of velvet round the border, and some models—the one indicated in my sketch, for example—have loose ribbons floating at the back.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand

By Marion Harland

Initials on Bride's Linen.

"I AM a girl 20 years old and I expect to get married before long. What initials should a girl put on her linen—that is, if she doesn't care to put on both?
"A READER."

It is better to put each initial. If you do not wish to take the time and trouble of doing this, mark the linen with the first letter of your surname. If you are "Jane Emily Smith," and do not care to work "J. E. S.," put the "S" alone. I have known of girls who marked the linen for their prospective homes with their maiden names and added the initials of their new names after marriage. This is unnecessary, but you might do it, if you have abundant leisure.

"Please put this little notice in the Corner. It may help me to find my mother. I was born in Cincinnati, O., Sept. 22, 1895. In the home for the friendless, my mother left me when I was three weeks old, giving me the name of Mary Berkshire. Her birthplace was Sandan, Ky. MRS. F. J. H."

The request is unusual and pitiful. The mother, who in all these years left her child unrecognized and unsought, must be dead or unworthy of the name and offices of a parent. Still, I cannot refuse to make room for the note of the lonely hearted daughter. I hold her address.

Calico and Percale Pieces.

"I have a cow and I have given away gallons of milk.. It is the kind of milk that is one-third cream. If you care to have me do so, I will tell how to keep milk sweet and clean. Ours has been left in the sun a half day and is sweet and good the next morning. Of course, such information would be mostly for milkers, although it might possibly help others. The Helping Hand put me in the line of giving, and all credit is due to it. I will give something through the Corner some time.. I gave a bunch of pieces away that I was going to send through the Corner. If anyone can use calico or percale pieces I can find some more and I will pay postage. I should also be glad to correspond with some lonely man or woman off on a 'claim' or some other such lonely place.
"MRS. E. M."

Your letter may be called "a triple header," and works well into our miscellany of today. But how about setting milk in the sun in summer? Would not the rich yield of cream become sour in less than the half day? Let us hear again from you in explanation. The Corner is happy to have stimulated your generous impulses. We hold your address for those who may want the pieces.

Name for Glee Club.

"Will you please tell me through your Corner of a name for a class of about twenty girls (a singing class)? We are anxious to know the meaning of it also.
"GLEE CLUB."

What more suitable title could you select than "The Cecilians"? St. Cecilia was, as you know, an early Christian martyr and the patron saint of music, particularly of sacred vocal music. Pictures of her represent her as singing and accompanying herself upon some instrument—the lute, the harp, or the organ. She is written and spoken of as the patroness of vocal music.

Premium on Coins.

"Can you tell me if there is any premium on a five dollar bill issued in March, 1862, series 1, M6550. Also, a 50 cent silver piece, milled edge, date 1825, and another, date 1831? I have written to several coin collectors, but got no information, as I am not a coin collector, and do not care to invest in a number of books they have to sell. Any information that you can give me will be thankfully received. MRS. A. L. P."

Title of a Song.

"Can you help me to find the title of a song containing the following as second, third, and fourth lines:

"'And the busy nights grown still,
I think of the broad green meadows.
And the old house on the hill.'

"I can remember nothing more than this, but I want the song if it can be found.
"JOHN T. H."

Gum Stain on Cloth.

"A woman in a street car dropped a piece of half chewed gum upon my cloth jacket. How shall I get the stuff off?
"REBECCA M."

Scrape off the gum with a dull knife blade, slightly heated. Then rub a cloth wet with gasoline. Leave it to evaporate. It will take the blur and stickiness with it.

[Copyright: 1915: By Antoinette Donnelly.]

WORRY, and you'll have something to worry over! You'll have wrinkles! You cannot worry for any length of time without getting wrinkles. If you think I'm exaggerating, next time you are worrying glance suddenly into your mirror. You'll find the wrinkles etched a little deeper than you suspected! So, the best remedy that can be offered for these worry wrinkles is every time you have a worry worrying you head straight for a mirror. There isn't a woman of us who would deliberately invite a wrinkle, because every wrinkle adds a year. But more than half the women who go to beauty specialists are suffering from worry wrinkles.

The two deep lines over the nose are distinctly worry wrinkles. Some of us think we cannot do any serious thinking without drawing our eyebrows together. Some other women when they talk work their faces so hard that they sow a fine crop of wrinkles.

Cultivate repose of countenance, and repose of mind will follow. Make a daily practice, no matter how busy your life may be, of closing your eyes and relaxing the muscles of your face for five minutes—ironing it out, as it were.

KEEP THE CORNERS OF YOUR UP

And when you catch yourself in a worrying frame of mind make a bee-line for your mirror, and what's written there will make you resolve—if you are a regular woman—that you aren't going to add another year to the birthdays already legitimately accumulated.

Antoinette Donnelly's Answers.

If you have any beauty problem upon which you wish advice or need the help of an expert, write to Antoinette Donnelly, "Chicago Tribune." In the carrying out of her work Miss Donnelly will be in consultation with Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of "The Tribune." All matters relating to personal hygiene and physical culture will have his advice. Miss Donnelly will be pleased to answer you personally if you will inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

ANETA: If you have a pretty shapely white hand you can do pretty much what you like about wearing rings, but you must remember that the color scheme plays quite an important part in the choice of your rings. Rubies, for instance, should never be placed near turquoises, as both being strong in color the effect of both is destroyed. Pearls and diamonds with opals and diamonds are a lovely combination. Rubies and diamonds with pearls make another lovely scheme; turquoises and pearls are in perfect harmony, and emeralds, diamonds, and pearls look glorious together.

BESS: No matter how pretty a girl may be, a red and peeling nose is not an asset to her beauty. Before going out in the sun rub a good cold cream over your face, and if you wear short sleeves, put it on your arms also. When it has been on five minutes rub it off with a soft cloth or piece of absorbent cotton. Dust a good grade of rice powder on your face. Do not wash your face immediately upon coming in from out doors, but cleanse your face first with a good cold cream and allow it to remain on the face for at least ten minutes before washing your face in lukewarm water. I shall be glad to send you my formula for cold cream if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

ROSE: Beautifully arched eyebrows and long curling eyelashes aid materially in making the face attractive. The eyebrows can be made to grow by a little care and attention. You can train the eyebrows by brushing them carefully each night with a little eyebrow brush. Applying yellow vaseline each night will aid their growth. Be careful not to get any of the vaseline in the eye.

GEORGE: Enlarged joints are more frequently noted in men than in women. Massaging the hands each night with a good skin food is especially helpful in treating enlarged joints, not so much in actually reducing their size as in building up the other parts of the hand and so giving it a symmetrical appearance. I shall be glad to send you my formula for skin food if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

PAINT with Devoe Lead-and-Zinc Paint. No other kind will properly protect your buildings.

It is economy to use it—it's a "fewer gallons" for the job paint — it's a "wear longer" paint, and it will look well all the while it lasts.

Frills and Fancies Sale Aids Exchange

OUT in Lake Forest on June 30 Mrs. James Ward Thorne will open her home for a sale of summer frills and fancies for the benefit of the woman's exchange.

The sale will open in the morning and Mrs. Thorne is to give a buffet luncheon for the board of managers and assistants that day.

Among those helping Mrs. Thorne to make the affair a success will be Miss Grace Dixon, Mrs. Joseph Gunsaulus, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Benjamin C. Allin, Mrs. Philip C. Doane, Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter, Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, Mrs. Frederic D. Countiss, Mrs. Donald Wegg, Mrs. Hathaway Watson, Mrs. E. B. Butler, Mrs. William G. Sage, Mrs. Harrison Parker, Mrs. George Lytton, Mrs. Robert Dunham, Mrs. C. B. Lihme, and Mrs. E. I. Pierce.

There are two other such events planned for July; one to be held on July 14 at Danforth lodge, the home of Mrs. P. A. Valentine at Oconomowoc, and the other to be held July 16 at Lake Geneva, the home not having been chosen as yet.

* * *

News from the various honeymooners bids fair to outshine the inevitable passing of the June bride, for most of the prominent weddings are now things of the past, if the final Wednesday, June 30, can be excepted, with its half dozen weddings of importance.

From Hot Springs, Va., comes the news of a 150 mile horseback trip that is to be ended today by the return of Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow, who have been there since their marriage on June 1.

Mrs. Clow was formerly Miss Eleanor Hamill and gave to society one of the first al fresco weddings of the year on the lawn of Ballyatwood, Lake Forest. About ten days ago the couple, who are ardent horse lovers, left for a horseback trip to Natural Springs, Va. The return trip, which ends today at the springs, was made via Goshen pass.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Don B. Kilbourne, the latter formerly Florence Butler and a bride of June 5, also were at Hot Springs, Va., until a few days ago, playing golf, tennis, and swimming and riding as well. They went east to New York and are planning to tour the White mountains by auto before Aug. 1, when they will return home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Landes Turnbull of 4852 Sheridan road will leave the city on June 27 for Asbury Park, N. J., where they have taken a cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Townsend, formerly of Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Mendelhall, to Howard Lewis Krum of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Newcomb of La Grange announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Charles B. Arnold of Indianapolis. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

* * *

Mrs. Gorton W. Nichols announces the marriage of her daughter, Frances Martha, to Robert M. Barnes on Saturday. At home after Aug. 1 at 7104 Lowe avenue.

A. C. Strong of Sioux City, Ia., announces the marriage of his daughter, Lucile, to Frederick R. Warner of Chicago. The ceremony took place on June 19 at the North Shore Congregational church, the Rev. James P. Ainslie officiating.

Lorado Taft, Joseph Pierre Nuyttens, Carl Wertz, R. V. Brown, John E. Phillips, and N. H. Carpenter, of the Art Institute, will lead the delegation of Chicago artists who will frolic at Midway Gardens this evening for the "Artists' Night" entertainment which has been arranged in their honor. Each artist will bring a drawing or sketch of his composition to be contributed to the "Artists' booth," which will be a feature of the benefit for the Englewood hospital, now being organized by the woman's auxiliary of the hospital, to take place at Midway Gardens on Monday evening, June 28. A special committee of Englewood women has been appointed by the president, Mrs. Edgar James, to receive the artists.

Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney will open her home this evening for a talk on roses to be given by Robert Tyle before the members of the Garden club.

MISS HAZEL MARIE UBELE

MR. AND MRS. B. E. UBELE, 6830 Greenwood avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Hazel Marie, to Morton Roche Hunter of New York. No date is set for the wedding.

Anyway It's Great for the Fisherman.

BY CINDERELLA.

WHATEVER the weather may be for golf, tennis, garden parties, outdoor weddings, etc., it is certainly great for fishing. Fishermen are going and coming in all directions.

Frederick Stephenson arrived in town late in the week from Coleman Lake with a consignment of brook trout caught by himself the day before, of which all his best friends had some perfect specimens, crisply broiled, and good enough to make the most hardened gourmet take notice.

* * *

In spite of the lowering skies Saturday, Mrs. George Fisher's large luncheon at the Onwentsia club for Mrs. Gordon Selfridge was very gay and was hardly over before an adjournment was made to the Gregory Sweetser wedding.

Here the same perverse weather maintained, and the summery bridal party in white suits and organdies wished they were fur lined.

Not that weather has much to do with fur these days. It seems that in New York where it is extremely hot most of the women are enveloped in yellow or white furs and looking exceedingly weird. High boots, too, are desirable to compensate for shortness of skirts.

* * *

Mrs. Joseph Field of England has announced her intention of living permanently in Chicago. One of the loveliest of women, with a delightful voice and gracious manner, she shows evidences of many years passed in England. Joseph Field, a younger brother of the late Marshall Field, died last year, and Mrs. Field determined to break away from her own beautiful home at Birmingham to spend the winter in California with the family of Stanley Field, her son.

War conditions in England have changed and Mrs. Field has decided to have her own apartment in Chicago in the fall, and to spend the summer traveling in New England from one beautiful place to another.

* * *

Another refugee from England who never expects to return is Mrs. Niels Grön, who had a lovely place for a long terms of years at Oxford. The Gröns came away, leaving their furniture and possessions behind them, except traveling baggage, bidding farewell to all their belongings of a lifetime.

The English are so certain of extensive German air raids in England, and particularly in historic spots like Windsor, Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon, Canterbury, and London, that every householder has his printed instructions as to how to act in case of attack, from northernmost Scotland to southernmost England.

Mrs. Grön is in her Lake Forest cottage, and a lovely young daughter, Emma Louise Stone, who has been staying with Mrs. Price Collier at Brooklyn, has just joined her.

Labor Body Comes to Aid of Teachers.

THE Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday came to the aid of Chicago school teachers who are protesting a recent action of the school board relative to the election of teachers for the coming year. Under allegations of economy the board decided it need not retain its teachers for a full year, but might dismiss them whenever it wished.

Following an appeal by Miss Margaret Haley, representing the Teachers' federation, the Chicago Federation of Labor authorized its executive committee to appear before the school board at its next meeting and ask for a reconsideration of the matter. A special meeting of the Teachers' federation has been called for this afternoon, at which time a committee probably will be appointed to wait on the school board.

"The action of the school board," said Miss Haley before the labor council, "is the most uncertain, unfair, and unjust proposal which has been forced on the teachers for fifteen years. If it should be decided to give the board power to dismiss its teachers when it saw fit, the board would be in possession of a gigantic instrument with which to suppress the Teachers' federation. Any teachers who spoke their own minds and opposed what the board wanted would lose their places.

"The whole provision was slipped over so quietly that no one knew what was happening. The teachers of Chicago must be assured that they will not lose their positions because of the whim of members of the school board. It is up to us to fight for what we want and demand that the board do not stand by their resolution."

Irish Indorse President Wilson.

The forty-first annual convention of the United Irish Societies of Chicago and Cook County was held in Fitzgerald's hall, 210 South Halsted street, yesterday. Daniel Hanrahan presided. Delegates representing 102 organizations were present.

Expressions of approval of the course pursued by President Wilson in the present diplomatic situation were contained in resolutions unanimously adopted at the meeting and a copy ordered sent to the nation's executive.

A resolution warning Irish-Americans to maintain strict neutrality in their speech and acts; another congratulating the Irish leaders on their successive victories in their fight for "home rule," and a third commending The Chicago Citizen, an Irish publication, and declaring it to be the official organ of the organizations, were also adopted.

After the adoption of the resolutions the annual election of officers for the coming year was held. The following were chosen.

Corresponding secretary—W. H. Durkin.
Recording secretary—Timothy Healy.
Treasurer—Edward B. Lynch.
Chaplain—The Rev. W. J. McNamee.
Directors—Frank J. Ryan, Philip E. Nulty, P. J. Lynch, P. F. Conway, P. J. Flannery, Michael O'Connor, and Roger O'Donnell.

Elks Thanked by Wilson.

James J. Finlan of Chicago, secretary of the Illinois State Federation of Elks, has received from J. P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, a letter in which Mr. Tumulty, in the name of the president, thanks the members of the state order for resolutions pledging loyalty to the president. The resolutions were adopted at a recent convention of the Elks in East St. Louis, Ill.

Doris Blake Says

Have you a perplexing love affair? Do you need the advice of a sympathetic, capable woman? Write to Doris Blake, care "Chicago Tribune." Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope if you wish a personal reply.

"The loss of illusion is the death of love."

He's Pretty, But Bashful.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 18 and noted to be pretty. I am in love with a gentleman of 20 years. He has never asked me to go out with him, but he has been to a couple of parties that I ran, and there he seemed to care for me. He is bashful, but very pretty. Although he has never asked me to go out with him, I love him just the same, and cannot forget him. Will you please advise me what to do? A. H. J."

Why don't you invite him to call on you sometime? If he cares anything about getting better acquainted he will accept your invitation.

For Graduation Gift.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 20 years of age, and have been keeping company with a girl one year my junior, who has moved out of town. She is to graduate from high school in June. Now shall I send her some kind of remembrance? If so, what would you suggest? H. W. E."

Send her a pretty little basket of flowers, or a book by her favorite author. I am sure that either gift would please her.

Five Thousand at Revival Meeting.

More than 5,000 persons last evening attended the opening of the home campmeeting in the big tent at Armitage and Kimball avenues.

The tent, which seats nearly 5,000, was packed and hundreds stood on the outside near the tent where they could hear the speaker, the Rev. Paul Rader, pastor of Moody church. A band, led by H. A. James, a convert in one of the "Billy" Sunday meetings, and a chorus choir, led by A. W. McGee, furnished the special music.

Twenty-five churches on the northwest side of the city are coöperating in the meetings, which will continue every night for five weeks. The tent is a larger one than the one used in the Torrey revival meetings held several years ago, and is the largest tent, it is said, ever used in Chicago for a similar purpose.

The Rev. Mr. Rader will preach every noon except Saturday at the former Inter Ocean building, on Monroe street, near Dearborn street, and every evening at the tent.

Hold War Memorial Services.

Two memorial services for those who lost their lives in connection with the European war were held in Chicago churches yesterday afternoon.

A service was held by the Congregation Beth Jacob, Forty-fourth street and St. Lawrence avenues, at 2 o'clock, by Rabbi A. Cohen.

At the La Salle Avenue Baptist church, North La Salle street, near Division street, a special service was held at 2 o'clock in memory of Chicago Persians who lost their lives in the sinking of the Lusitania. Several Persians were missing after the Lusitania disaster, and it is believed that all were drowned. They were on their way to Urimia to help relatives who were suffering on account of the war. The Rev. Joseph B. Rogers and the Rev. H. O. Alamshah were the speakers at the service.

Moraine Guests to Give Play.

Guests of the Moraine hotel in Highland Park will take part in a comedy, "Which Is Which?" to be staged in the hotel tomorrow night for the benefit of Arden Shore, a north shore camp for poor children. The leading part will be interpreted by Dudley Putnam, a former Highland Park alderman.

Willard Hall Noonday Meetings.

Willard hall noonday meetings this week will be in charge of the Burning Bush mission, with the Rev. E. L. Harvey as speaker, assisted by the Rev. and Mrs. Aaron Mokstadt, returned missionaries from India. The song service preceding the meetings will be led by an orchestra of young ladies.

Jewelers Say "Advertise"

At the Convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' Association in Philadelphia last month, the assertion was made that "the jeweler's success is in advertising."

It is true, and it might have further been added that his opportunity is in advertising locally lines that manufacturers advertise nationally.

FORCE ISSUE ON PHONE SEIZURE

Ald. Merriam, Kennedy, and Allies to Demand No Further Dallying.

COMMITTEE TO MEET.

The disposition of the Automatic Telephone plant may be decided today. Radical members of the city council intend to force an issue on the proposed seizure of the property.

The gas, oil, and electric light committee will hold a special meeting this morning at 10:30 o'clock to consider the two ordinances forfeiting the franchise and equipment of the company. If the committee delays action or votes to file the ordinances, some of the members, headed by Ald. Charles E. Merriam, propose to make a minority report to the city council tonight.

For Immediate Confiscation.

This report will recommend the immediate confiscation of the telephone property. Ald. John C. Kennedy plans to move the suspension of the rules for the purpose of passing the forfeiture ordinances.

The conservative members of the gas-oil committee want to delay action till the opinion requested by Mayor Thompson from Walter L. Fisher is received.

Ald. Sitts will ask Mr. Fisher to be present at this morning's meeting. It is possible he will decline to give the opinion requested by the mayor.

"I have not decided yet what course I shall pursue," said Mr. Fisher yesterday. "It depends largely on the attitude of the gas-oil committee."

Labor Opposes Fisher.

The Chicago Federation of Labor adopted a resolution protesting against the intervention of Mr. Fisher, saying he stands for the big business interests.

"The banks are also trying to influence the administration by threatening to boycott city bonds if the forfeiture ordinances are passed," said Secretary E. N. Nockels. "The labor unions are ready to buy the city bonds if they are issued in small denominations."

FOUND GROANING IN HOTEL; POLICE SUSPECT POISON.

John Sloan's Young Partner in North Side Hotel Sought by City Authorities.

A man supposed to be John Sloan registered at Michael Kavanaugh's hotel 1600 Wells street, Saturday night, accompanied by a younger man who did not register. The young man left about 9 yesterday morning and Sloan was found groaning and unconscious in his room a half hour later. He died in a few hours at the Alexian Brothers' hospital and the Hudson avenue police believe the man may have been a victim of poison.

YOUNG'S ART GALLERIES, which were opened in Chicago a dozen years ago as the first galleries west of New York dealing exclusively in American works of art, have made a wonderful success. Nearly every prominent public and private collection in the central west contain paintings from his galleries.

Mr. Young is now holding a summer exhibition of works by prominent American artists in his new shop on the 9th floor of the Stevens Building, and for this week is exhibiting in that attractive arcade a few very choice paintings, such as "The Rim of the Canyon," by E. H. Potthast; "Moonlight," by Geo. H. Bogert; "Wood Nymph," by Lillian Genth; "Sunlit Hillside," by J. E. Bundy, and two of Charles Warren Eaton's Pine tree pictures.

Mr. Young says: "This time of of the year is a dull one in the fine arts trade, but I have never before had so many new patrons come into my gallery to buy, nor so many old patrons call without my making any special effort to have them do so. I attribute this happy condition to the splendid location and fine facilities of the Stevens Building, and will certainly have to arrange for more space this fall."

GUNS BRIGHTEN SPIRITS AFTER HOSPITAL TOUR

R. R. McCormick Tells of Effect of Noise of Battle on Feelings.

IN RUSSIAN TRENCHES.

BY ROBERT R. M'CORMICK.
[War Correspondent of The Tribune.]

[Copyright: 1915: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Great Russian Headquarters, May 12.—In my diary of April 11 is written the name of a Russian general who gave us a day of days because of his friendship for America. Thank heaven, we rose early that day.

Our way lay straight west over the road the Germans had marched to attack Warsaw and again on the retreat.

They came within eight miles of the city and were expecting to crown a king when the Russian guard arrived—but that is history, not reminiscence.

Down this road we came bumping in the German ruts and wondering whether the aeroplane flying high above would expend a shell upon so small an object as an automobile. It did not, and we arrived at ——, the headquarters of the commanding general.

Here we met Mr. Goutschkoff, former chairman of the duma, and his wife, a delightful pair of warriors. Mr. Goutschkoff gained experience fighting with the Boers and his wife is a Red Cross veteran of the Japanese and Balkan wars. They showed us the corps, division, and the field hospitals, splendid examples of medical efficiency.

Hospital in Church.

The corps hospital, in a whitewashed house, was complete to operating table and chloroform. The division hospital had been installed in a church, but was now in tents, bricks from the shell demolished structure serving as a floor. Polish boys, high school boys, we should call them, acted as orderlies and women, true to their heaven sent mission, were patiently suffering in mind for the wounded in body.

A light tramway had been constructed from the division hospital to the corps headquarters to save the wounded the bumping over the roads, an indication of the care given to Russian wounded and also of their number.

Polish peasants were being fed with the soldiers' food—poor victims of a war not theirs.

Hospital sights are very depressing, and I was glad when I had finished our investigation.

What is the strange psychology that causes the mind depressed by the sight of wounded men to be cheered by the sound of the cannon that wounded them, the popping corks of the wine of death?

What is it causes the drunkard to gladden at the sight of liquor, the drug victim to smile at the poisonous needle? Is it that, born to die, we have an affinity for what destroys and draw back only when too late?

Brighten at Guns.

Whatever the explanation, our party brightened as the guns began to sound above the carriage wheels which bore us on the third stage of our journey.

A shell hole blocked the road before the general's door, a chance visitor which had killed a sentry at the rear one day while the general was on the firing line.

The general himself was in the garden, a kindly man who welcomed us with a short speech as representatives of the great American nation, in which he had spent delightful hours and which he delighted to honor. The division was ours to command.

A cavalry drill was arranged and a revue of infantry. He was about to bombard a German sap. Yes, and if we wanted to very much we could enter the trenches. But we must be careful. He would never forgive himself if we should be hurt while his guests. Then interested questions as to the success of the San Francisco exposition, and before we knew it we were among a sotnia of Kossack cavalry. Called sotnia from the number sot—100 men.

The Cossacks are humpy looking men with round fur caps and sheepskin coats. They never wash or shave. Also they have more wives than teeth.

Yes, I have been to Buffalo Bill's and seen them, too. Apparently Buffalo Bill has got them all. At least I have not seen any of that kind in Russia.

At Best in the Saddle.

The Russians know something about this reputation. When I first came to headquarters the grand duke asked me as a pleasantry to pick out the Cossack officers. This was puzzling, as no one present could come within my preconceived opinion of them, least of all the three blonde, close cropped young men who always smiled so affably at my opinion.

When the soldiers were dismounted there was nothing to indicate the Cossack, unless it was that the horses seemed too nervous to drill. But when they mounted and swung into line! Sons of Castor and Pollux! Nothing but international polo can equal it.

They wheeled, and they countermarched, and they charged.

They formed a skirmish line on foot, and they leaped back on their mounts. I cannot describe it, but the cinema can—cinema, the modern war correspondent.

My admiration for the horses was so unbounded that an officer loaned me his mount, a velvet mouthed animal with a trot that one could either sit or rise to; and thus we came to a regiment of infantry drawn up for review.

This regiment contained 3,060 men as we saw it. It had already lost 6,000 killed and wounded. I wondered how many of the original number remained.

The general greeted his men heartily.

"Good morning, boys," said the general.

General and Men Love.

I had already learned that the general loved his men. The tone of the men's reply showed that they loved their general.

And how they stood at attention! Developing that cohesion of mind that will hold them together when the next great trial comes.

I had a good chance to look them over as we rode up and down the line. I saw that the officers set good examples in bearing to their men. In particular I noticed a red bearded captain holding a great curved sword, and I thought of a story John McCutcheon brought home from the campaign in Belgium, and grinned right in the review—almost.

The Russian quick step is three and one-half miles an hour. The stride step is slow and long. It gives the sense of the inevitable, and of those hordes which have been so often advertised at the expense of the remarkable organization and military preparation through which Russia, alone of the allies, was able to cope with Germany at the outbreak of the war.

Continue to Battery.

Still on horseback, we continued to the battery that was to shell the sap. I have seen batteries well hidden in straw stacks and in woods and dug into the ground, but this one was like a bug in a rug. Fifteen feet away not a gun could be seen except along the line to the rear, upon which the sighting point was established.

In this glade we set the moving picture machine to make a scenario of a Russian battery in action, but our picture was short; the second shell landed in the sap.

We in the peaceful glade had seen what appeared to be a fire drill. Yet it had brought death to men and widowhood to women.

Now we were to visit the place where the wine of death is spilled. A hard gallop over a natural bridle path, a visit to a battery of heavy artillery of the type the French have recently copied, a lighter and faster shooting type than the German or English, another little ride, and we are dismounting before a platoon of infantry at the edge of a wood.

An embarrassed round faced boy with sergeant's stripes and a cross of St. George on his chest steps forward and shouts a report to the general, quite drowning the reports of rifles, which have been growing louder as we approached.

An agile middle aged colonel steps out of the woods like Robin Hood and, after introductions, we advance on foot.

Was on Far Away Border.

The colonel is explaining that the outbreak of the war found him in a garrison on the Afghanistan border as we reach the communication trenches and Thompson shouts from the rear:

"I suppose that this is the wine cellar, colonel," stealing my stuff.

Cellar of the wine of death it is and even as we later proceed to the firing trench shuffling feet and tender hearts bear to the rear all that was mortal of a soldier of the czar.

Ivan Ivanovitch had survived the fifty days' butchery from Lodz to Warsaw and back to the Rawka to fall before a sniper's bullet.

Brave, patient, uncomplaining Ivan! He has pushed the czar's borders from the Baltic to the Pacific, and now his steady walk is driving it to the Mediterranean sea, this time to remain.

A large army has preceded him where he has gone; a larger one will follow before the war is over.

But now to lunch.

The trench winds continually to prevent enfilading fire and to limit the effect of a fortunately placed shell. Around one of the curves we find a cave opening to the rear. In the cave is a table and on the table all kinds of good things to eat. Caviare, sardines, cheese, canned lobster, cake, more caviare, radishes, cold meat, and to drink tea, much tea, weak tea, sweet tea, only tea. Like other Europeans, the Russians do not drink water. How often have I longed to turn on the faucet and get one real cold drink of water!

Eat to Tune of Rifles.

We eat heartily to the smattering fire of rifles and the occasional burst of a nearby shell. Soon music comes to wait on appetite; a soldier with an accordion plays the lays of Russian peasantry. From elsewhere in the ground appear two mustached soldiers, face each other, and begin to dance.

The "lady" partner is bespangled with a cross of honor won in light housekeeping with a bayonet (on outpost duty). "She" shows a nice proportion of embarrassment and coquetry to her partner, who has this post of distinction because he is one of the few men of the company who have lived through the whole war to date.

I linger over the meal. It is my great hour; to them only a break in the monotony of trench warfare.

Luncheon over, we advance again—our party reduced by the general's order to himself, the colonel, Thompson, Prince Toundortoff, Count, and me; ah, yes, there also is our good friend Col. "Billy."

Into the Firing Trench.

We pass through a labyrinth of communication and supporting trenches filled with curious soldiers thronging to see the strangers and so into the firing trench.

This is a splendid affair, with a shrapnel proof head cover and loopholes about two feet apart. By means of a step cut in the bank a second line of men can fire above the roof. The Germans are firing freely, but the Russians with admirable discipline are not returning a shot or "rubber necking."

Through the loopholes little can be seen, as it is not safe to look from one for more than a moment. A periscope is therefore produced and I am enabled to take a deliberate look over the battlefield.

Snipers Known by Puffs.

I see nothing. Yes, I see an occasional puff as of vapor, where the snipers are working, then by focusing a field glass into the periscope I detect about a block away the wire entanglements of the German army and behind that a line in the earth where lies the firing trench.

Crack—bluck!

I have been too deliberate. A good glass has detected the periscope and a sharpshooter has hoped to find a weak spot where the officer's head is. "Fooled again" I think with unreasonable spite as I move on.

Now Thompson has the machine up and is grinding away at a real battle scene. The Germans are firing quite fast, the crack of their rifles, the bluck of the bullets in the parapet, and the strange crack-whistle of those flying overhead being continuous.

Our general, however, has not been on the stage. He smiles quietly and says "boom" when a shell explodes near, and "boom" as a bullet whistles by. The soldiers are stolid and keep well away from the loopholes.

Must Stay in Trench.

Thompson wants to climb out of the trench to take the smoke puffs across the way, but meets a smiling refusal. So he has to turn his camera and take the bullet torn trees behind to show he is at the front.

The "show" over, we review the rest of the regiments in the trenches standing beside their loopholes, as on parade. One young giant is so much on parade that a well fed stomach half blocks the passage. The colonel pokes it playfully and the recruit straightens up with a delightful and embarrassed grin, very anxious to please the regiment's father. Where else is found this particular relationship between officer and man?

Again we zigzag through the approaches, the drunken staggerings of the wine of death.

The regimental volunteer meets us, a 12 year old typical kind. His face is wet with honest sweat, from carrying our presents, two empty shrapnel cases and fuses. He is freckled and sunburnt. He has a speech to make, but has forgotten it. And there is not an American boy alive who does not envy him. How "Skinnay" would run like everything "to come on over."

To horse, and the reserved battalion roars a hearty farewell. A hospitable battery fires a salute and as an echo resound the shells exploding in the German trenches.

Ten miles of glorious sunset back to dinner and a real surprise — drinking water—not iced, but boiled and cooled.

The regimental band plays through the meal and the officers stand as "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" swells through the darkening forest.

The guest from far off Illinois tries to utter a word of thanks, but compromises with a vigorous use of his handkerchief. A strange fog is around the flickering candles. I would like to have companions like these in the event that—the event that——

I look through the shattered window and as in confirmation of my thought see the sun set, flashing like a battle flag from across wire entanglements.

However, this was the reception given to an American by the Fifty-fifth division of Russian infantry.

NEW DEFENSE OF SUBMARINE WAR

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—[Special.]—The charge that a British merchantman rammed and sank the submarine U-29 and the importance attached to the incident by Berlin have aroused the apprehension of administration officials that Germany does not intend to yield full compliance with the existing rules of warfare on commerce, as suggested by President Wilson.

The dispatches from Berlin transmitting the German admiralty's charge that the U-29 was sunk by "a British tank steamer flying the Swedish flag," and the official and unofficial comment thereon, are interpreted here as foreshadowing a move by the German government to reiterate with greater forcefulness all the contentions upon which it justifies its submarine warfare and its warnings to neutrals to avoid the naval war zone it has proclaimed.

Defense of Lusitania Act.

In defense of the sinking of the Lusitania Germany, in the last note to the United States, said:

"The imperial government furthermore has the honor to direct the particular attention of the American government to the fact that the British admiralty, by a secret instruction of February of this year, advised the British merchant marine not only to seek protection behind neutral flags and markings, but even when so disguised to attack German submarines by ramming. In view of these facts, which are satisfactorily known to it, the imperial German government is unable to consider English merchant vessels any longer 'undefended territory' in the zone of maritime war designated by the admiralty staff of the imperial German navy, and the German commanders are consequently no longer in a position to observe the rules of capture otherwise usual and with which they invariably complied before this."

British Denial Indefinite.

The British admiralty has issued a denial of the German charge in regard to the U-29 which is regarded here as unfortunately indefinite. The British statement says the submarine was sunk by "one of his majesty's ships." According to the British embassy this means that the submarine was sunk by a British warship.

The president and his advisers regard the German charges in regard to the sinking of the U-29 as irrelevant to the question at issue between Berlin and Washington.

SERBIANS OCCUPY DURAZZO, SAYS REPORT FROM ATHENS.

Essad Pasha, Provisional President of Albania, Is Said to Have Fled to Italy.

LONDON, June 20.—A Reuter dispatch from Athens says it is reported there the Serbians have occupied Durazzo, Albania. Essad Pasha, provisional president of Albania and former commander of the Turkish forces at Scutari, is said to have fled to Italy.

[Serbian troops have been operating in Albania some time and the Serbian war office has announced the occupation of considerable territory in that state, with Durazzo as their ultimate objective. Italy has not formally declared war on Turkey, which may explain the reported flight of Essad Pasha to Italy.]

GREEK KING STILL IN PERIL, BUT DOCTOR IS HOPEFUL.

AMSTERDAM, June 20.—Prof. Friedrich Kraus, the Berlin specialist, who returned home Saturday from the sick bed of the king of Greece, gave an interview to the Vossische Zeitung.

To Sequestrate Cereal Crops.

LONDON, June 20, 1:08 a. m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company from Zurich says: "The Hungarian government has decided to sequestrate the entire cereal crops of the new harvest with the exception of maize."

LEMBERG FATE MARKS CRISIS OF THE ALLIES

Teutons Hope to Paralyze Russians, Then Send Armies Into West.

DRAW NEARER GOAL.

BULLETIN.

VIENNA, June 20, via London, June 21, 4:40 a. m.—The Russians have been in general retreat since 3 o'clock this morning along their entire front after having been forced out of their position on the Verezyca river, a short distance to the west of Lemberg.

LONDON, June 20.—After seven weeks' battering across Galicia, during which the Russians have been thrown back more than 150 miles, the Austro-Germans are today as close to Lemberg as were the Germans to Paris last fall.

The Teutonic allies, judging by the expenditure of life and ammunition in Galicia, have pinned their whole faith to so paralyzing the Russian army as to permit of the throwing of a tremendous weight of men and metal into the western theater, there either to break through the Franco-British line or force an interminable period of sanguinary warfare.

Kaiser Directs Galician Campaign.

A dispatch from Copenhagen tonight says that the German emperor himself has taken supreme command of the Galician campaign, establishing his headquarters at Pless, in southeastern Silesia, as near to the front as practicable.

It is argued further that even should Lemberg fall, the Russians can drop back to equally formidable positions, utilizing the rivers and swamps and other advantages of the terrain, and it is the British contention that they could thus hold out for months, England and France in the meantime sending to their aid men and munitions if necessary.

Teutons Draw Nearer Lemberg.

Dispatches from the east today indicate that the Austro-German armies are gradually extending their grip on Galicia and drawing the lines closer about Lemberg. The forces northwest of the city apparently are continuing their advance, while Gen. von Linsingen is gaining ground in his march from Korarno, 20 miles south of the capital.

Today's official statement in Berlin reports a distinct advance by the Teutonic forces both north and south. North of Lemberg the Austro-Germans, after a stubborn encounter yesterday, captured a succession of Russian trenches extending along a twenty-four mile front.

Three towns between Rawruska and Lemberg have been stormed, and the Russians have been thrown behind the high road leading from Rawruska to Zolkiew. Zolkiew is less than twenty miles almost due north of Lemberg.

Teutons Storm Russian Defenses.

BERLIN, June 20.—The armies under Gen. von Mackensen are continuing their advance upon Lemberg, the Galician capital, after capturing Grodek, and have taken Russian trenches along a front of almost twenty-four miles to the northwest of the city, where the Muscovites are making a desperate stand, according to a statement issued today at the headquarters of the German army staff.

"Early yesterday morning German troops commenced an attack on strongly intrenched enemy lines," the statement says. "After fierce fighting lasting until after noon, enemy trenches, one behind the other, almost along the entire front extending over a distance of twenty-four miles north of Janow, which is eleven miles northwest of Lemberg, Bisputa and Obedynski, and southeast of Rawa Ruska, thirty-two miles northwest of Lemberg, had been stormed.

"In the evening the enemy was thrown back behind the high road to Zolkiew, north of Lemberg and Rawa Ruska."

ALLIES REPORT RENEWED GAINS ON WEST FRONT.

LONDON, June 20.—Conflicting claims are made in the Paris and Berlin statements in regard to the fighting in the west. Berlin admits, however, that the allies are on the offensive. The Paris statement says:

"In the sector to the north of Arras, as masters of the Fond de Buval, we have delivered an attack toward the east, in the direction of Souchez, and advanced.

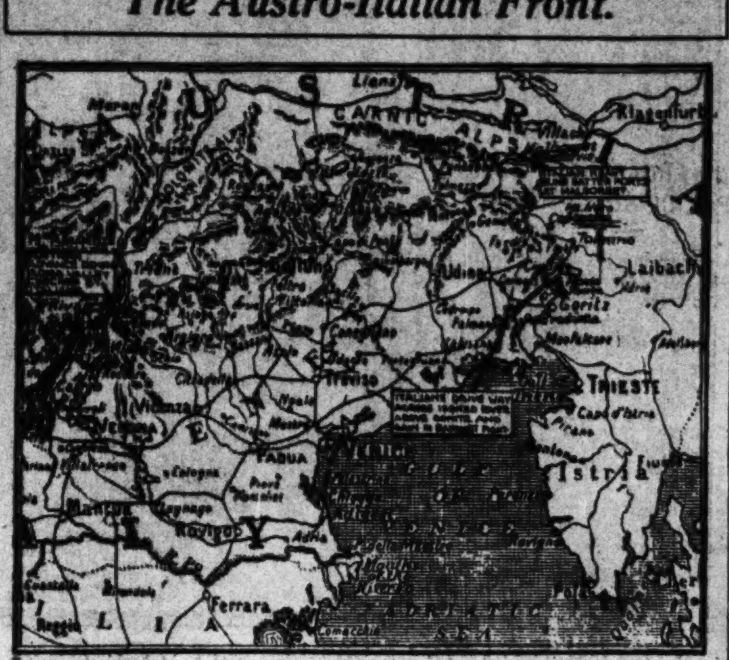
The Austro-Italian Front.



Progress of War During the Week

ON THE EASTERN FRONT.

By far the most important developments of the week occurred along the Galician battle lines, the Austro-Germans continuing their drive against the Russian left wing armies almost to the gates of Lemberg. Early in the week the Russians showed some signs of rallying after their long retreat from the Carpathian and Dunajec river front by administering some costly checks to their opponents along the lower San river front, but their offensive failed when the line further to the southeast along the Dniester gave way before the Teuton onslaughts.

Predictions came from Berlin and Vienna that the Germanic allies expect to reenter the Galician capital by July 1 and the reports from Petrograd indicated that Grand Duke Nicholas was making his last stand before Lemberg and might be forced back to his own frontiers before that time. Instead of pressing their advance directly east from Przemysl, the Austro-Germans early in the week concentrated their heaviest attacks from the south and southwest of Lemberg. Later successes along the San river, however, permitted the center armies to advance, and Saturday Berlin and Vienna reported the capture of Grodek, only a day's march west of Lemberg.

Lack of ammunition on the part of the Russians and the effectiveness of the heavy artillery fire of the Austrian and German guns, for which Grand Duke Nicholas has no counter offensive, were given in London as the reason for the series of disasters that had overtaken the Slav forces in Galicia.

On the rest of the eastern front the fighting was not severe during the week, though there were more signs of activity around Warsaw on the Bzura-Rawka front than for some time. The Russians have been unable to press back the German advance into the Baltic provinces, and Berlin claimed that in the Shavli district they were able to repulse all attacks by the czar's forces.

During the week Berlin and Vienna reported that their armies in Galicia since June 1 had captured 122,000 men and fifty-three guns, 187 machine guns, and fifty-eight munition wagons, together with much other war material.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

Coördinating with their hard pressed allies in the east, the French, British, and Belgians renewed their offensive on the line from Arras to the sea, the chief points of attack being at Westende, northeast of Nieuport, on the Lorette-Souchez front, at Festubert and La Bassee, and at Ypres and Armentieres.

The most important gains were made by the French at Souchez and in the labyrinth along the Lorette hills. Here the French report the taking of important positions which endanger the Teutons' lines and which, if they were lost, would facilitate the allies' advance on Lens. The French attack was delivered after the German positions had withstood a rain of 300,000 shells. In their counter attack the Germans are reported to have thrown eleven divisions, numbering 200,000 men, into action.

At Festubert and La Bassee the British are reported to have met with a serious check, being thrown back with heavy losses. Further to the north, however, before Ypres, the British succeeded in regaining some of the lost ground in the vicinity of Hooge, taking the first line trenches for a distance of 1,000 yards and making their position more secure on this critical salient.

On the Alsace front the French also took the offensive during the week in the valley of the Fecht river that netted a slight advance and the taking of the villages of Altenhof and Steinbruck.

On the whole, the week on the western front has failed to shake the hold of the Germans on their line from Alsace to the sea at any point where the allies might hope to break through. All the lines are holding firm except in small sectors on the western front, while the smashing tactics of Gen. Mackensen are being driven home against the Russians in Galicia.

ON AUSTRO-ITALIAN FRONT

The week brought to a close Italy's first month of participation in the great conflict. Rome announced that its armies were occupying three times the territory of Austria that was offered them by Vienna as a price of their remaining neutral, as a result of operations so far. In spite of this optimistic declaration the progress of King Emmanuel's forces has hardly come up to the expectation of the entente powers.

The most immediate effect of Italy's entry into the war has been to act as a spur on the Austro-German forces to bring the issues in Galicia to a decision before the new enemy's offensive from the south gained headway.

The Austrians continued to impede the rapid progress of the Italians on all fronts, being greatly aided by the natural barriers of the mountainous country in which the initial operations are being carried on. So far the Italian offensive has acted as a screen to the mobilization and preparation that is going on back of the lines.

Along the Isonzo front Goritz and Tolmino (Tolmein) still are impeding a general advance, the capture of the former town being essential before the Italians can advance into the Istrian peninsula toward Triest. During the week the operations for the capture of this Austrian stronghold developed into the first large engagement of the war, Rome reporting successes daily, but none of a decisive character.

On the Trentino frontier the Italians have reported steady, but slow progress toward Trent. The Adige valley is the weakest point of defense for the Italians and it is along this center highway of the Trentino salient that Austria is sending heavy forces, according to reports by Italian aviators during the week. Italian artillery was reported to be bombarding Roveredo, south of Trent, and the column operating in the Sugana valley made progress toward the north of Trent.

ALONG THE DARDANELLES.

News of the fighting on the Gallipoli peninsula was fragmentary during the week, most of it coming from Constantinople, with London and Paris maintaining a significant silence. Judging from what information has come to hand, the offensive of the French and British has subsided, and the allies are attempting to maintain the position so far gained, with the Turks attacking and slowly forcing them back.

The fiercest fighting has been centered around Avi Barnu, and Constantinople reports that the British losses have been heavy. London reported during the week that all Turkish attacks had been repulsed.

Apparently there has been another instance of misjudging the resistance of the Turks along the Dardanelles, and the allies are awaiting additional forces before renewing the attempted advance toward Constantinople. Italy has been expected to take a hand in the capture of the sultan's capital, though up to the present it is not officially at war with Turkey.

BRITISH AT DARDANELLES REPULSED WITH BIG LOSSES.

Turkish Statement Says Enemy Is Being Driven Back Gradually by Defenders.

BERLIN, June 20.—The correspondent of the Associated Press in the Dardanelles has transmitted the following in an undated dispatch:

"British losses at Avi Burnu thus far are estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. The Turkish losses are somewhat lower, although the Turks are constantly on the offensive and they make bayonet attacks almost every night.

"Field Marshal Liman von Sanders, the German commander, is highly optimistic regarding the outcome of the operations. He declared that not only are the British unable to make progress but they are losing ground daily.

"With the British fleet unable to assist in the land operations because of the submarine menace, the British hold on Avi Burnu apparently is not as secure as it was."

MOSCOW ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS CAUSE $20,000,000 LOSS.

Hundreds of Stores, Factories, and Other Houses Destroyed by Fire Set by Looters.

PETROGRAD, June 20.—Moscow suffered damage to the amount of $20,000,000 during the recent anti-German demonstrations, in which nearly 500 stores and factories and more than 200 private lodgings were totally wrecked. The number of fatalities is unknown.

The infuriated mobs turned the city into wild disorder. From music stores, pianos, and other musical instruments were hurled into the streets, until the piles of wreckage made progress through these thoroughfares impossible. The rioters, heated with liquor which they found in the demolished wine stores, became reckless in their pillaging, setting fire to and destroying many stores and apartments the owners of which were Russians. Of the total number of buildings destroyed, only 113 belong to Austro-German subjects.

ITALIANS PUSH ENEMIES BACK; BAYONETS WIN

BRIDGE RAGING RIVER.

ROME, June 20.—An official statement from main headquarters of the Italian army, most of which is devoted to details of the two days' struggle for the heights on the left bank of the Isonzo river near Plava, says that the Italians took the last of these heights remaining in the hands of the Austrians on June 17 and that, while the Italian losses were heavy, the results attained were important.

The communication says that on the Isonzo, which the Italians "passed by main force," the Austrian positions have been taken one after another by assault.

"Artillery duels and engagements between small bodies occupied several points on the front on June 19," it says. "In Carnia the enemy made fresh attacks on Freifofel and attempted to approach the head of the Valonia pass. They were repulsed in each case.

Build Bridges Under Fire.

"New details have been received of the struggle which continued two days and a night for the heights on the left bank of the Isonzo river, commanding Plava village, which is situated at the bottom of a defile inclosed by steep, wooded slopes, between which the river runs, deep and rapid.

"The bridge crossing the Isonzo at this point had been destroyed by the enemy. With patient efforts and boldness we threw bridges across during the night and at dawn on the 16th our troops began an attack.

"Numerous heavy guns, even twelve inch guns, were concealed in commanding positions which were difficult for our artillery to reach. Nevertheless, supported by the fire of our batteries, our troops succeeded by repeated bayonet charges in debouching on the enemy's first line toward evening. During the night the enemy tried several times with sudden dashes to deprive us of the ground conquered, but always they were thrown back.

Driven Back with Bayonets.

"On the seventeenth our troops completed their success by carrying the heights still in the hands of the enemy. The latter then concentrated on them with violent artillery and machine gun fire, which was followed up by another counter attack by fresh troops. The enemy was decimated and driven back at the point of the bayonet. We made more than 150 prisoners, including four officers, and captured a quantity of rifles, munitions, and one machine gun. Our losses were serious, but the results obtained were important.

"On the Isonzo, which was passed by main force, the enemy's positions have been taken by assault. Attempts to assume the offensive by numerous seasoned troops have been constantly repulsed. On the heights of Plava our infantry, well supported by artillery, has given a fine example of tenacity and bravery."

GERMANY CALLS 400,000 TRAINED MEN TO COLORS.

LONDON, June 21, 3 a. m.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Rotterdam telegraphs that Germany is calling to the colors some 400,000 young men who heretofore have been employed in the cities and on the railways. The presence of these men, he says, has been remarked by neutral travelers in Germany, and the wonder has been expressed that they were not already in the active army. Their places are being taken by older men and by girls. They are in the best condition, having been trained, and are ready to march at any moment.

OLDFIELD SETS NEW RECORD AS 40,000 WATCH

AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES.

WANTED—DRIVER TO EXCEED 111.5 miles per hour in elimination tests Tuesday. Apply in person to Speedway Park association, Maywood, Ill.

BY REED L. PARKER.

Barney Oldfield drove his 300 horse power front drive Christie to a new American record and within 4 2-5 seconds of a world record for cars of unlimited piston displacement at Speedway park yesterday afternoon by negotiating a lap in 1:04 2-5, an average of 111.5 miles an hour. Oldfield's mark betters Dario Resta's sensational performance of a week ago by one second. Resta drove a lap with his 300 inch Peugeot in 1:05 2-5.

Forty thousand persons saw Oldfield, De Lloyd Thompson, his aviating partner, and eighteen of the best drivers of America and Europe at the speed carnival, which lasted nearly four hours.

The day was far from ideal for speed work, a nasty wind making fast driving extremely difficult. Overhead the sky was clear for the first time in a week and every driver at the track seemed to feel the influence of a pleasant day.

Three Stage Great Race.

Early arrivals were treated to a real brush between Burman, Louis Chevrolet, and Billy Carlson. The trio, driving at their best speed, ran neck and neck for more than fifty miles, averaging ninety-three miles an hour. They concluded their practice with a blanket finish which made it impossible to determine whether the Peugeot of Burman, the Maxwell of Carlson, or the Delage of Chevrolet was the fastest. Burman seemed to have the edge. The brush whetted the appetite of the crowd, and when De Lloyd Thompson appeared on the track with his aeroplane a splendid reception was given him.

Thompson arose into the air at 3:10 o'clock, having first declared his intention of breaking Art Smith's record for consecutive loops. He ascended 3,500 feet and commenced to tumble. After making twenty-five complete revolutions in the air sediment in the gasoline line leading from the tank to the motor of his machine caused the engine to miss. Fearing to risk another loop, he descended to the track. Mechanicians cleaned out the line and he again ascended. After making twenty-eight consecutive loops he again came to earth, satisfied with a record of fifty-three loops in an afternoon.

Oldfield Escapes Spill.

Oldfield started his record breaking attempts immediately after Thompson landed. On his first trial with the freak car his engine failed to hit properly and a lap in 1:06 2-5 was the best he could do. Discouraged by the action of the motor, he at first decided to abandon his attempt. After being urged by his friends, however, he started on the lap which gave him the new mark. After crossing the finish line a left rear tire threw its tread. Oldfield, who had been driving with one hand, barely caught his mount in time to prevent a nasty skid. Stoker Fred Wagner, who flagged him, only escaped being struck by a lightninglike jump to one side.

Thompson flew from the track to Cicero field after Barney's trial. He and Oldfield left last night for Tacoma, Wash., where they are billed for July 4. Oldfield will drive a 450 cubic inch Peugeot in the speedway race there on that date. He could not get a mount for the Chicago race.

Cooper in Near Accident.

Earl Cooper furnished the thrill for spectators seated in the bleachers along the back stretch. While traveling high on the bank coming out to the straightaway his Stutz blew a right front tire. The car immediately started to climb towards the outer rail, which is thirty-six feet from the ground at that place. He righted the car too quickly and it shot for the inside retailing wall. By dexterous work he brought it up straight with the track and returned to the pits none the worse for his experience.

"Had that happened on any other track in the world I'd be dead now," said Cooper when he drove his car into the garage. "I have found that the only way to handle a car when you blow a tire on this course is to accelerate more and wait for the straightaways to do your breaking. I certainly would have hated to have had this happen on any of the turns at Indianapolis."

All the drivers out for practice yesterday earned about $500 each for their afternoon's work. They receive 40 per cent of the gross receipts.

Park Directors Set Record.

Oldfield was not the only record breaker at the track. Director Edwards of the Speedway Park association Saturday night decided to build a free parking space back of the main grand stand of planks. At 6 o'clock yesterday morning Chris Wiehe, secretary of the Hines Lumber company, had fourteen automobiles picking up men attached to his main lumber yards. At 5 o'clock last night 500,000 feet of planking was loaded on thirty freight cars and by 6 o'clock this morning it will be on the grounds ready for a force of 500 carpenters to nail in place. The arrangement will furnish accommodations to 10,000 cars.

Work will be started this morning on a new grand stand to seat 8,000 persons at the north end of the present main stand. It was decided the demand for tickets was getting out of all proportion to the accommodations. The new stand will be erected of steel to conform to the general plan of the stand along the home stretch.

CHOOSE REDFIELD AS COACH.

Hanover, N. H., June 20.—[Special.]—Richard W. Redfield, '15, of Evanston, Ill., who played end on the Dartmouth eleven last fall, was named as coach of the Dartmouth freshman team for this year by the Dartmouth athletic council at a meeting today. Redfield's appointment was unexpected by the student body. He managed the baseball team this spring.

GOLFERS TO HAVE BUSY WEEK; END GARFIELD ROUND

Oscar Lind defeated Steve Ryan, 3 and 2.

D. Pritchard defeated F. Murphy, 1 up.

This will be the busiest week in local golf circles to date. Tomorrow the two day event for members of the Women's Western Golf association will start at the Windsor Golf club. Events for women also are carded at Edgewater, Calumet, Glen View, Glen Oak, and Westmoreland, and the divot cutters of the Chicago Press club will complete at Glen Oak.

On Wednesday the Ridge Country club will hold its annual one day invitation tournament and the Western Advertising Golfers' association will hold a special tournament in honor of the visiting ad men at Glen Oak.

The junior tournament of the Chicago District Golf association will be staged on Thursday at Exmoor and the Coal Trade golfers will hold their regular monthly event at Westward Ho. On Friday the twelfth annual competition for the Pater Filius cup will be held at the Midlothian Country club. It is open to fathers and sons of clubs associated with the Western Golf association.

COLLEENS HOLD TUG OF WAR GAME

A tug of war contest between two groups of laughing colleens from the old sod featured the Sunday sport program at New Gaelic park. West Sides and South Sides they were called, and the spectators were treated to a rare exhibition for four minutes. That was the time it took the west side squad to land the referee's decision over their equally fair rivals. The winners drew four inches of rope.

Miss Mary Cahill, a recent arrival from Ireland, demonstrated that speed is not unknown over there by winning the 100 yard dash for women in :12.

In two Gaelic football games, which completed the entertainment, the Wolf Tones defeated the Emmets, 5 to 2, and the Mitchels won from the Kickhams, 4 to 3. The lineup in the tug of war contest was as follows:

South Sides—Miss M. Harrison, Miss Mary Hoban, Miss M. Gannon, Miss D. Ronan, Miss Agnes King, Miss M. Kelly, Miss T. Dalton, Miss M. Ronan, Miss T. Ryan.

West Sides—Helen Hogan, Alice Cagney, Ellen Sullivan, M. O'Sullivan, Miss B. Lynon, M. Sheehan, Miss O'Shea, Miss O'Brien, Miss Cumming.

STANFORD CREW TRAINS IN TWO SUNDAY SESSIONS.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—For the second time in the history of training for the intercollegiate regatta, one of the college crews in training here had Sunday practice, when Coach Guerena of the Leland Stanford crew took his men on the river both morning and afternoon.

The men in the Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Syracuse camps either went to church or took long walks.

Following the announcement that the Cornell crews would not enter the regatta at Seattle, Wash., on July 16, it was understood that a similar decision had been reached by Columbia and Syracuse. Pennsylvania oarsmen have accepted the invitation.

BLANKS FOR SCOTS' GAMES.

Entry blanks have been issued for the outdoor track and field meet to be held in connection with the Scottish picnic at Kolze's park on July 5 under the auspices of the Clan Mac Duff No. 16 and Clan Campbell No. 28. The following events will be held, and they are open to every athlete in good standing with the A. A. U.: 100 and 220 yard dashes, quarter, half, and mile runs, and running, hop, step, and jump. In addition there will be soccer football games and Scotch contests. Entries for the athletic contests close with Robert Black, 2719 Jackson boulevard, on June 28.

REAL ESTATE—VACANT, NORTHWEST.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Iver Lawson, the local professional, yesterday won the miss and out race, the feature of the races at the Riverview velodrome. Gordon Walker was second and Lloyd Thomas third. Twenty-two riders started and the conditions of the match called for the last man on each lap to be called from the track. This system prevailed until only five riders were left.

When the bell sounded for the last lap Iver Lawson, Gordon Walker and Lloyd Thomas struggled for premier honors. They finished in the order named. Charley Piercey was fourth. Verri, Wohlrab, Grebs and Diefenbacher found the pace too hot and were ruled off the course. Summaries:

2-3 mile, amateur, handicap—Won by Adams, East Orange, scratch; L. Kuehl, Chicago C. C., 45 yards, second; G. Klasen, Danish-American C. C., 40 yards, third; F. Samlow, Chicago C. C., 50 yards, fourth. Time, 1:19 1-5.

3 mile open, amateur—Won by E. Davini, Italo-American C. C.; E. Kockler, Riverview C. C., second; E. Adams, East Orange, third; F. Guidotti, Italo-American C. C., fourth. Time, 6:38.

1-3 mile professional, handicap—Won by Young, 50 yards; Krebs, 40 yards, second; Senhouse, 60 yards, third; Crebs, 40 yards, fourth. Time, :34 3-5.

Miss and out professional—Won by Lawson; Walker, second; Thomas, third; Piercey, fourth. Time, 4:58 for 2½ miles.

Second heat—Won by Drobach; Ryan, second; Root, third. Time, 7:49.

Third heat—Won by Drobach; Root, second; Ryan, third. Time, 7:32 2-5. Drobach won with 9 points; Root second with 5 points, and Ryan third with 4.

ANGLERS BREAK CLUB RECORDS

Records for casting in the Washington park amateur casting club went smash yesterday when the most creditable competition held by the club resulted in several new marks. L. E. De Garmo, with two new records, was the first man in two events. Thirty-five competed. Score:

One-quarter ounce accuracy bait—Won by L. E. De Garmo, average, 99 7-10 [new record]; R. B. Heetfield, second, 99 4-10; D. R. Linder, third, 99 2-10.

Light tackle distance fly, average five casts—Won by C. A. Colley, 99 8-5, longest single cast, 102 feet; De Garmo, second, 91 4-5, longest cast, 93 feet; Heetfield, third, 86 2-5, longest cast, 92 feet.

One-quarter ounce distance bait, average five casts—Won by O. J. Powell, 120 feet, longest single cast, 124 feet; De Garmo, second, 102 4-5, longest cast, 186 feet; H. Sorensen, third, 67 4-5, longest cast, 106 feet.

FOUR CHAMPIONS ENTERED IN DETROIT FREE-FOR-ALL.

Detroit, Mich., June 20.—Four world's champion pacers—Directum I., 1:58; Frank Bogash Jr., 1:59½; William, 2:00, and Anna Bradford, 2:00¾—are entered in the $5,000 free for all, which is an added feature of the Blue Ribbon grand circuit meeting here July 26 to 30.

The contest is to consist of three heats, the purse being divided for each heat, and there is an extra $500 for lowering the world's record. The event is scheduled for July 27, the Chamber of Commerce stake of $5,000 for 2:07 pacers being advanced to July 26, while the M. & M., the $10,000 trotting classic, is planned for July 28.

FAST PACER CHANGES HANDS

Lexington, Ky., June 20.—[Special.]—Ed Willis, acting for S. J. Weber of Baton Rouge has sold to T. S. Miller of Newark, N. J., the fast pacer Sprinting Blaise, after a trial in 2:08¾. John H. Dickerson will leave on Monday for the North Randall track with W. B. Dickerman's racing string of eight trotters. He will also take Etewah, 2:03¼, and the 3 year olds Allen Watts and Rose Watts, which are to be turned over to Ed Geers.

POLICE CENSORS FOR BOUT.

Bradford Beats Union Giants.

Bradford, Ill., June 20.—The Bradford Stars defeated the Chicago Union Giants, 14 to 7, in game featured by heavy hitting.

WOMAN SHOOTER WINS MATCH AT CHICAGO TRAPS

After Dave Thomas, local amateur, had won two events and tied for honors in the third contest at the weekly shoot of the Chicago Gun club, Mrs. A. H. Winkler, one of the best women shots in the west, challenged Thomas to a special match at fifty targets from twenty-one yards. She won the match by a score of 39 to 37.

Mrs. Winkler broke the clay pigeons with the experience of a veteran and her victory over Thomas was naturally popular. Shooting from such a rise, Mrs. Winkler's score was considered far above the ordinary.

Thomas won the first event at 100 targets from 16 yards with 94. H. C. Wolfe landed in second place with a total of 91, and P. H. Clarke was third with 90. Thomas then captured the second event prize at fifty targets from sixteen yards with a score of 49. He tied with George Eck and H. J. Foster for first place in the third event at twenty-five targets from sixteen yards with a score of 22. Scores:

100 targets, 16 yards—D. E. Thomas, 94; H. C. Wolfe, 91; P. H. Clarke, 90; C. R. Seelig, 89; George Eck, 87; S. W. Doran, 85; L. A. Bell, 84; J. Mandernack, 83; Mrs. A. H. Winkler, 81; J. W. 50 targets, 16 yards—D. E. Thomas, 49; L. A. Bell, 47; H. J. Foster, 47; H. C. Wolfe, 46; P. H. Clarke, 45; J. W. Keller, 44; George Eck, 43; S. W. Doran, 42; Mrs. A. H. Winkler, 41; O. Kausche, 41; P. Miller, 40; H. Deitmeier, 39; H. C. Miller, 39; J. Mandernack, 37; W. Severns, 36; H. Snodgrass, 30; C. Rush, 23.

25 targets, 16 yards—D. E. Thomas, 22; George Eck, 22; H. J. Foster, 22; J. Mandernack, 21; C. R. Seelig, 21; J. W. Keller, 21; L. A. Bell, 21; H. C. Wolfe, 20; P. H. Clarke, 19; Mrs. A. H. Winkler, 18; O. Kausche, 18; H. Snodgrass, 17; H. C. Miller, 17; W. Severns, 16.

LOCAL WOMEN CONSIDER SHOOT DEFI FROM EAST.

Markswomen of Chicago are considering the challenge issued by the Nemours Trapshooting club of Wilmington, Del., for a telegraph match, to be held during the summer.

The challenge, which came from the eastern club, was sent to the Lincoln Park Gun club, but the local women shooters, most of whom are members of the Chicago club, believe the challenge should have been sent to the members of the various local gun clubs.

A meeting will be held during the week to consider the conditions of the challenge. According to Mrs. L. M. Fetherston, the match, if accepted, will be held prior to the Grand American in Grant park in August.

INVADER AGAIN WINS TIME PRIZE IN RACE FROM MICHIGAN CITY

SAFES.

BY JACK PROCTOR.

L. J. Lambin's little twenty-one foot raceabout Invader, winner of Saturday's annual cruising race to Michigan City, scored another decisive victory yesterday when it defeated ten other boats in a return contest from the Indiana port to the home harbor. The race, which was open to boats of the Lincoln Park Yacht club, was hotly contested and furnished better sport for the crews than the long drawn out race of the previous day.

D. W. MacDonald's Larrikin was the first boat to reach the north shore harbor, but the time allowance of Invader gave it the time prize hung up by J. F. McGuire. The northwest wind blew at the rate of twenty miles an hour and gave the boats a close haul from start to finish. Summaries:

Pairings for Today.

Women's doubles, final, 3 p. m.—Miss Carrie B. Neely and Miss Katherine Waldo vs. Mrs. Malcolm McNeil and Mrs. W. S. Miller.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Playing a tennis which was practically unbeatable, Walter T. Hayes and Ralph Burdick yesterday annexed the men's doubles championship in the Chicago championship tourney at the Wanderers' club. They defeated M. G. Ketchum and Harold Gifford, 6—3, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4.

Before this match was played Mrs. Malcolm McNeil, who won the women's title in singles, and her partner, Mrs. W. S. Miller, defeated Miss Amanda Falker and Mrs. H. F. Colson in the semi-final round of the women's doubles, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2. As a result Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Miller will meet Miss Carrie B. Neely and Miss Katherine Waldo in the finals today.

Great Tennis in Title Match.

The match between the Hayes-Burdick and Gifford-Ketchum teams was featured by some of the best tennis ever seen on local courts. Hayes and Burdick took the first set in comparatively easy fashion, 6—3. In this set Hayes played a brilliant game. He played close to the net and killed the opposing team's lobs so that Ketchum and Gifford were unable to gain by this style of attack.

Burdick came to the front in the second set. At the net he returned deep to the base line or cross courted his opponents.

Losers Take Third Set.

The ultimately defeated pair displayed a brand of tennis in the third set which the veteran Hayes and his partner were unable to meet. Ketchum's service and Gifford's net play proved the effective combination, 6—2.

In the fourth and deciding set Hayes and Burdick showed superior, despite the plucky game of their opponents.

Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Miller played too strong tennis for Miss Falker and Mrs. Colson. The match today between Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Miller and Miss Neely and Miss Waldo should be an interesting contest.

Summary of Play.

Men's doubles, final—Hayes and Burdick defeated Ketchum and Gifford, 6—3, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4.

Women's doubles, semi-final round — Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. Miller defeated Miss Falker and Mrs. Colson, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2.

Jess Willard's Car Hits Pittsburgh Boy

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 20.—[Special.]—Jess Willard, who is to appear with the 101 Ranch in McKeesport tomorrow, was being driven from the show ground in that city to a swimming pool this afternoon when the automobile struck Walter Baker, 12 years old. The chauffeur stopped the car and the champion, leaping out, picked up the victim and ordered the chauffeur to hurry to a physician's office. Dr. A. C. Rankin found young Baker was suffering from minor bruises and scratches only. Willard took the boy home in the car.

WANTED—SCORING MACHINE TO RETARD Pullman car workers.
BRICKLAYERS' SOCCER TEAM.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Pullman retained the championship of the Association Football League of Chicago by defeating Hyde Park Blues in the final game of the schedule, 4 to 1, at Pullman yesterday afternoon. Second place went to the Bricklayers, who gave Pullman one of its two defeats, the Calumets also doing the trick.

The Blues filled in with Barlow and Weston and made a fairly good showing in the first half with the wind behind them. Through the second half Pullman had the better of the play. Lineup:

Pullman [4].		Hyde Park Blues [1].

ENTER FOR TENNIS TOURNEY.

With twenty-four of the best men and women tennis players entered, play in the annual tournament of the Chicago Beach Hotel club will start on Saturday and continue until July 4. Among some of the prominent players entered are: Miss Carrie B. Neely, Miss Katherine Waldo, Mrs. Malcolm McNeil, Walter T. Hayes, Ralph Burdick, Heath Byford, A. L. Green Jr., Harold Gifford, John C. Neely Jr., and Jerry Weber. The event is an invitation affair. The complete list of entries will be announced on Thursday.

CUTLER TRAINS FOR BOUT.

Charley Cutler is training for his wrestling match with Joe Stecker of Nebraska at the Omaha ball park the night of July 5. Stecker is the 22 year old grappler picked as a comer by Frank Gotch. He weighs 205 pounds. In nearly 100 matches he has not lost a fall. He is what is known as a "leg wrestler," with a penchant for the scissors hold.

NOTES OF THE PUGILISTS.

Joe Mandot, southern lightweight champion, has been matched to box twelve rounds with Johnny Griffiths in Canton, O., on the afternoon of July 5. The boxers have agreed to make 134½ pounds at 10 o'clock. Tommy Walsh, manager of Mandot, closed the deal yesterday. Mandot will receive a guarantee of $2,000 with a privilege of 30 per cent of the receipts.

Steve Ketchel, local lightweight, left last night for Denver, Colo., where he is matched to box ten rounds with Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, before the Colorado A. C. on June 30. The winner may be matched to meet Champion Freddie Welsh over the same route on a later date.

BARTER AND EXCHANGE.

FOR SALE—OR WHAT HAVE YOU?—AT great sacrifice, full line of baseball bats, assorted sizes, weights, and colors, in perfect condition, except for perforations at business ends. Useful for pounding patterns into hot waffles or turning round steak into tenderloin. Will exchange for line of optical goods. W. ROBINSON, Mgr. Brooklyn B. B. C., Ebbets field, Gowanus Bay, N. Y.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Those enterprising Cubs contracted for more space for Chicago top column, next to pure reading, in all the newspapers of the country yesterday by defeating Brooklyn's Robins, 6 to 1, in the final game of the series.

Three home runs by Schulte, Saier, and Phelan put the thing in black and white, signed, sealed, and delivered, in the early innings. These four column displays were good for two-thirds of Chicago's tallies, but they failed to convince Manager Robinson or Pitcher Aitchison that the Cubs can't maul southpaws. The visiting slabman stuck to his job and stopped the Cubs in the last half of the combat.

Two Homers in First.

Schulte and Saier hit their winning drives into the perpendicular color section over right field in the first inning and netted three runs with them. Phelan put his round trip advertisement farther back between 7 and 8, otherwise left and center, in the fourth edition. This was in addition to a single column line which started a double rotary in the second.

Pierce performed against the Robins, most of whom are right handed batsmen, and held them to three singles in eight innings. He was delivering clean copy, without a punch in it except at wide intervals, and was beginning to look like a de luxe edition until the last paragraph. Then he missed what would have been a double killing by a mental lapse that would furnish the plot for a new busher sketch in the movies. This spoiled his display, making it look like a classified holdover on charge account.

Saier Duplicates Schulte's Drive.

Two Cub accounts were closed in the first inning before Schulte spilled printers' ink all over right field with a punch that landed among the paid admissions out there. After he had trotted around the circuit amid applause McLarry scratched an infield safety. Saier duplicated Schulte's work as closely as if he had made a carbon copy of it, and drove McLarry home ahead of him.

Those three tallies would have been sufficient, but the Cubs added two in the second. Phelan singled with one out. Pierce hit a sloppy roller to Aitchison, who made three grabs before he could pick it up. A pass to Good filled the bases. Fisher seized this chance to rap a single into left, scoring Phelan and Pierce. Good was stopped on third, tried to score on Schulte's rap to O'Mara, but found the last form closed. Fisher and Schulte tried a double steal and the former met Good's fate at the plate.

Phelan Hits for Circuit.

Bresnahan opened the fourth with a single, but was flagged at second when a hit and run play miscued. Phelan then burned a straight line in the air to the fence in left center and made the round trip, standing up before the ball came back. The Cubs went to press there and made good on it.

In eight innings Pierce was touched for three singles and two passes, besides winging one Robin. He was in a jam only once. A single, a pass, and a wild pitch got together in the second, putting runners on third and second. But there were two out and Getz popped.

Pierce Has Mental Lapse.

Going into the ninth it looked as if there would be nothing to do except set "This space reserved for Brooklyn runs." But Cutshaw hoisted a tall fly over right and Good lost it close to the fence. Wheat pulled a single to right and Good held Cutshaw at third. A pass to Zimmerman filled the bags with nobody out. Miller slapped a sharp bounder to Pierce, who had a cinch double play by way of the plate, but passed it up and tossed the ball leisurely to Phelan. This skeleton double play resulted in forcing Wheat out, but let Cutshaw score.

After most of the Cubs and everybody in the ball park had asked Pierce what was on his mind besides his hair, the southpaw proceeded to retire the side without furnishing any more copy.

Cincinnati, O., June 20.—Only twenty-four men faced Dale in the first eight innings, but he weakened in the ninth and was forced to give way to Benton, who stopped Philadelphia's batting streak just in time. Cincinnati won the final game of the series, 2 to 1. Demaree was hit opportunely but not hard. Score:

CARDS AGAIN BEAT BRAVES.

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—St. Louis made it four straight and moved into second place by defeating the world's champion Braves, 8 to 2. Crutcher started for Boston, but was relieved in the fifth after yielding seven hits, including three triples and a double, which, combined with Boston's two errors and a hit batsman, netted St. Louis six runs. After the fifth inning Tyler held St. Louis hitless. Score:

Two O'Leary Hikers Reach Aurora.

Veteran Dan O'Leary and J. Tainer were the only two members of the O'Leary hiking club to reach Aurora yesterday. Starting from Madison street and Ashland avenue at 7:15 they reached their destination at 4 o'clock. Miss Annie Jennings, Miss Carrie Peterson and Miss Millie Wagner accompanied the walkers as far as the Harlem Golf course.

Too Late to Classify.

Nothing to do until Wednesday.

West side fans will have a rest until the St. Louis Cardinals arrive on Wednesday for a series of four games, winding up the home stay of the Cubs.

The spectators stood up in the first half of the seventh inning yesterday, indicating one of two things. Either they had their wires crossed and thought it was the last half or they were pulling for Brooklyn to win.

McLarry stole a base hit from Miller in the seventh inning by stabbing a burning liner while running at top speed toward second. Cutshaw got even with McLarry by stealing a hit from him in the eighth. The visitor had to scoop the ball with one hand back of first, but he did it.

The only hit off Aitchison in the last four rounds was made by Schulte with one gone in the fifth. He stole second, but was left there when McLarry and Saier popped out. Not a Cub reached first base thereafter.

The Cubs will journey to Waukegan today to exhibit themselves before the natives of that thriving city. They will return tonight and make another trip northward to Kenosha tomorrow for another exhibition game.

Half of Chicago's hits and two of the three home runs were made by left handed batsmen. Pretty soon rival pilots will permit it to percolate through their petrified periscopes that too many left handers foil their purpose.

This Space for Whales.

Baltimore, Md., June 20.—[Special.]—The Whales have worked their way from seventh to third place. They are right on the heels of St. Louis and only three games from the top. Every member of the team feels confident they will return home in first position.

George McConnell will face the Terrapins tomorrow. The Knabe crew appears to be weak on spit balls. Quin or Bender will be the opponent.

Manager Knabe has filed his protest with President Gilmore on the game the Whales won yesterday. He claims Smith automatically put himself out when he ran out of line. Tinker says the rules provide that there must be a play on the runner at the time, and Umpire Johnstone says Smith was safe when he came back and touched the plate.

Johnny Farrell, who has not been playing his game at second, showed vast improvement in the initial game here and said he felt better than at any time this season. Tinker was thinking of giving him a rest until Zeider broke down, making it necessary to keep Johnny on the job.

Otto Knabe's team is far weaker than it was last season. With the exception of Duncan he seems to have a weak outfield. Silk Kavanaugh, the Chicago boy, is expected to join the Terrapins at once.

WHALE MANAGER PLANS TO TACKLE SHORTSTOP JOB

WANTED—IMMEDIATELY, HIGH CLASS infielder, shortstop preferred. Salary no object. Good opportunity for right man. Address JOE TINKER, Manager Chicago Whales, Baltimore, Md.

BY SAM WELLER.

Baltimore, Md., June 20.—[Special.]—Joe Tinker will be back on the job at short tomorrow when the Whales and Terrapins clash in the second battle of the series. The breakdown of Rollie Zeider makes it necessary for the manager to fill in the gap unless the showing Jimmie Smith made on Saturday wins him another trial. Tinker has a bum finger on his throwing hand. The digit was knocked out of place when he lost a fly ball in the sun and the pesky pill clashed with the end of his little finger and nearly telescoped it.

Rollie Zeider's breakdown may be permanent, thus leaving the Whales in rather a distressed condition for an infielder. The manager is liable to find himself unable to play the game at any moment on account of the stone which an X-ray photograph disclosed in the lower part of his left kidney. He is having trouble at all times with this ailment and with his injured hand it may be necessary at any moment to send Smith to the short field.

Smith May Hold Job.

Jimmie Smith may make good, however. He was benched recently, owing to his poor playing and weak hitting. He was displaying keen nervousness, but when he was dropped into the game on Saturday he played brilliantly, getting three putouts and four assists without a bobble. As the lead off batter he poled two singles, walked once, and fanned the fourth time, giving him a good record for the day.

Manager Tinker had a long talk with Smith. His worst fault at bat is his wild swinging at bad balls. He appears to make up his mind to swing on the ball as soon as it leaves the pitcher's hand, and follows this idea no matter whether the ball is a foot outside, in the dirt, or over his head. Tinker has ordered him to take a strike or two and thereby get his eye on the ball.

In his first time at bat yesterday Jimmy obeyed orders and drew a pass. This seemed to encourage him, and the next two times up he drove out singles. It may be he has finally settled down and will prove a find after all.

Zeider in Bad Shape.

Zeider's condition is pitiful. No one seems to be able to diagnose his case. In nearly every city Rollie has sought the advice of expert physicians. No two of them seem to give the same explanation. Some say the muscles of the back are at fault. Others say he is afflicted with sciatic rheumatism. Others blame the trouble to a spinal affection. He now proposes to have an X ray photograph taken to see if that will disclose anything.

When he left Baltimore for Chicago Rollie was unable to straighten up. He walked out of the hotel bent over like a man of 90. No matter whether he is ever able to return to the game again, it is certain he will not rejoin the team on this eastern trip, making it necessary for Manager Tinker to look around for another infielder.

FANS MAKE BET; PINCHED; STAKEHOLDER ALSO TAKEN.

Ross Martin, 3306 East Eighty-eighth street, and Ben Ferguson, 8216 Muskegon avenue, were watching a baseball game yesterday on a vacant lot in South Chicago.

"I'll bet you the Calumets win," said Martin.

"I'll bet the Wagners win," said Ferguson.

Both young men placed a dollar bill in the hands of Arthur Gruni, 3023 Seventy-ninth place, who agreed to act as stakeholder.

"You are under arrest," said a voice from behind, as a hand fell on the shoulder of each of the three young men. The hands belonged to Mike Kane and Vincent Skiba of the South Chicago police.

The three young men were locked up on a charge of gambling on the public streets. Their case will be heard today.

YOUNG FAN HURT AT GAME.

Michael Hays, 9 years old, 3822 Parnell avenue, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon while watching a ball game at the Max Beutner's playground. A baseball bat slipped out of the hands of another boy and struck him on the head. It was believed his skull was fractured and he was taken in a semi-conscious condition to the Provident hospital. John Doyle, from whose hands the bat slipped, was questioned by the police, but not held.

Winning the running broad jump, 880 yard run, twelve pound shot put, and tying for second place in the running high jump, A. Cattorini carried off the honors in the annual track and field championships of the Sinai Social center Saturday at Ogden park. H. Klawans was the chief point winner in the junior division. He won the 50 and 100 yard dashes and running broad jump. In the senior events, M. Mills, who won the century and furlong dashes, was the second individual point winner.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Cleveland, O., June 20.—[Special.]—Chicago's rampant White Sox leaped away out in front in the pennant race today by capturing both games of a double header against Cleveland's alleged Indians while Boston was idle and Detroit was being licked by the Browns. Comiskey's boys gained a game on the Red Sox and a game and a half on the Tigers, and tonight are perched far above all others. The score of the first combat was 7 to 1 and the second count was 3 to 0.

Many blows to distant parts of the field won the first game in easy fashion with Joe Benz on the mound hurling in steady and true form. The second was more of a pitchers' contest, with Tokio Jim Scott working against the somewhat famous Guy Morton. Scottie was far above his rival, who gave way near the end to a harmless pinch hitter and allowed Oscar Harstad to finish the slabbing.

Coumbe Battered from Slab.

Fritz Coumbe, the tall and slim southpaw, tried to oppose Benz in the first game, but the Sox were whaling his stuff just as if they had a real signal tipping bureau working. He left in great distress in a mad third round rumpus and a husky named Jim Walker took his place. Jim stuck to the finish while the Sox lammed out a lot more long drives to the concrete wall.

Winning a double header after taking a rough and exciting night ride through the Allegheny mountains and arriving here in a rather wearied condition is a worthy feat in itself, but to turn the trick in such bangup style made the Sox look like sure champions. They never showed any more pep and spirit than in the long afternoon entertainment.

One reason for the added spirit was the change in climate. During the night they passed out of the hot eastern belt and into the cool middle west, and the change was most refreshing.

Fournier Sick; Four Hits.

Jack Fournier, our worthy clouter, got seasick in the night while riding around the horseshoe curve, and he found it impossible to retain his breakfast this morning. It was feared the big French boy would be unable to perform at the matinée, but he insisted on starting, and in the first game he made three singles, one home run, and walked once in five trips to the plate, which was some hitting for a fellow with an empty stomach. In the second contest he failed to land one on safe ground, but he wound up the day with a record of four blows in seven times at bat.

Eddie Collins was even better in batting prowess. He poled three singles in the first game and got a homer and a single in the second, his record for the afternoon being six blows in eight times at bat. Buck Weaver lammed out a pair of triples in the opener and a pair of singles in the closing battle, and added to his day's delight by stealing home for the third run of the second game.

Homer Gives Indians Tally.

The lone tally made by the Indians during the afternoon was in the first game, when Elmer Smith lifted a high fly over the right fence. Soon after Jack Fournier duplicated the feat, only Jack's homer was a drive that came down on the housetops across the street.

In both games the defensive playing of the Sox was superb, at times even sparkling. Only one error was charged against the Rowland troupe all afternoon and that happened in the first game, when Buck Weaver dropped a high pop fly back of second base. Weaver, Blackburne, and Eddie Collins did some great infielding, and Jack Fournier, though seasick, handled everything thrown at him with neat dispatch, getting fourteen put outs at first base in the opener and fifteen in the second affair.

It was the gallant pitching of Jim Scott, however, that won the applause of the fans. One fellow reached second base on Jim in the first inning, one got to the middle bag in the second, and one touched that station in the seventh. In five of the nine rounds he set the enemy down three in a row and always showed reserve power if any one got on the bases.

Bargain Draws 10,000 Fans.

Although the Cleveland fans are in no mood for enthusiasm, there were more than 10,000 of them out to see the double header. They were rather harsh in their remarks about some of the Indians, but always cheered when any one did anything worth while.

Coumbe never had a chance to beat the aspiring Chicagoans in the first game. His wildness helped the Sox to a run in the second round when he walked Schalk after one was out. Blackburne singled and Benz was hit by a pitched ball, filling the sacks. A passed ball let Schalk get home, but the others died on the bases.

In the third inning Coumbe was driven to the coop when E. Collins and Fournier opened with singles. J. Collins bunted and was safe on Coumbe's wide toss, then Roth drove to right center for two bases, sending in E. Collins and Fournier. J. Collins tried to score, but was relayed out at the plate. Schalk hit sharply to center, sending Roth home. Then Coumbe was relieved by Walker, who stopped that fuss, but was badly treated later.

More Runs for Sox.

Felsch's walk, Weaver's sacrifice, and Fournier's hit produced a tally in the fourth. Weaver's triple and E. Collins' infield hit made one in the sixth, and Fournier's drive over the wall produced the final count in the ninth.

In the second game the Sox started with a run in the first, when, with two out, E. Collins stung a red hot liner over second. Young Willie Southworth, the new outfielder, couldn't get his body in front of the drive and it skipped to the far corner of center field for a home run.

Felsch's triple in the third, followed by a passed ball, accounted for the second run, and Weaver scored the third one when he, Eddie Collins, and Roth executed a triple steal in the sixth after two were out, Weaver getting over the plate before he was tagged.

One and One 'Ads' Two.

Cleveland, O., June 20.—[Special.]—The Sox will rest tomorrow, the date being left open. Another double header will be played on Wednesday, and that will leave Friday open for another day of rest.

Eddie Collins has organized a golfing party for tomorrow. Buck Weaver and Joe Benz have promised to compete.

Eddie Cicotte was permitted to run over to Detroit to spend today and tomorrow. He will report ready for service on Tuesday if needed.

Willie Southworth, the young outfielder, was recently transferred from the Cleveland association team to the Indians. He received much applause for his batting in the first game, but the crowd was roasting him for his punk fielding before the game ended.

One brave fan watched the games from the top of a telephone pole outside the park in right center. Those who had heard of the Sox method of stealing signals believed the brave fan was a Sox spy up there with a pair of field glasses.

It looked a bit bad for Joe Benz in one inning, the seventh, when Smith led off with his homer over the right wall. Wamagans fouled out. Then O'Neill hit sharply over second and Leibold caromed a single off Benz's shins. Southworth singled to center, filling the bases, but Blackburne snatched Turner's hot one and shot to Schalk, forcing O'Neill at home. Then Chapman ended it with a pop to E. Collins.

ARMY TROUNCES GUNTHERS TEAM BY 6 TO 2 SCORE

Merrilat, Recently of West Point, Features; Kisner Scatters Swats.

PATENTS.

PERSONAL—INFORMATION WANTED REgarding system used by U. S. Army team in stealing bases. Liberal payment for correct dope. GUNTHERS.

Pinch hitting enabled the U. S. Army team to defeat the Gunthers, 6 to 2, at Weeghman's park. Lieut. Merrilat, recently from West Point, featured with a hit, a run, and two stolen bases. The army stole six bases. Kisner was steady when hardest pressed. Thoemling's double play was a Gunther feature. Score:

I. P. C. CLUB.

Two solid smashes in the ninth inning, one a two bagger by Mike Kelly and the other a single by Jack Devine, along with a pass and a force out, scored three runs and won the game for the I. P. C. against the White Giants in the City league at the latter's grounds, 3 to 2. It was the Italians' first victory and the White Giants' first defeat in the league. Both Elmer Maager and Billy Mack were in fine form, the former's work standing out above his opponent's because of his fielding. He accepted ten chances without a slip. Score:

RUBE FOSTER.

The best game of the season at Schorling park turned into a rout in the eighth inning, when the American Giants slammed Tom Johnson and forced him to pass two men with the bases full, giving the American Giants an 8 to 1 victory over the A. B. C. team of Indianapolis. Two double steals in the seventh inning gave the home team two runs that took the heart out of the visitors when two short throws were dropped. Rube Foster allowed only three hits. The same teams will play today. Score:

ERS OF TROY'S BEST PRODUCT.

GENERAL RAINS AFFECT WHEAT

COARSE GRAINS RALLY.

Continued wet weather over the entire grain belt of the country has altered conditions materially in wheat and corn. In wheat the possibility of a wet harvest with a delayed movement of new crop grain caused a sharp recovery in prices. The demand, however, came principally from the shorts. The outside demand was not extensive and the export trade has not shown any material improvement.

Harvest has started in the south and southwest and the better weather conditions in the southwest checked the buying in the last session of the week.

Foreigners are still indifferent to our wheat. Indian wheat is being offered freely and the fact that the English government controls the Indian supply is a bar to great activity in the trade. Statistics have been compiled showing a big excess of surplus wheat in the exporting countries. Broomhall estimates there will be more than 200,000,000 bu more wheat available this year than last.

English Buyers Resell.

A factor which has exerted a good deal of influence on the market has been the heavy reselling of wheat for August-September shipment by English buyers. This indicates that foreign consumers have an assurance of ample supplies. Clearances from this country and Canada continue liberal and Argentina is still shipping on a liberal scale. Australian crop reports are favorable and the Canadian outlook is excellent, except that the crop is late in some sections.

Cash premiums have advanced relative to the futures in nearly all markets, and a further big decrease is expected in the visible supply. However, primary arrivals continue heavy and there is no indication of shortage back in the country. Primary receipts were 3,647,000 bu for the week, compared to 2,046,000 bu a year ago.

Corn Prices Are Firmer.

Corn prices hardened materially as the results of the wet weather, which is creating a more bullish sentiment, but the buying was checked by the reports of fair sales of Argentine corn for July shipment. Plate corn was offered at 75½@76 for first half of July shipment from Argentina. There was about 400,000 bu of two cargoes bought around those figures. With any further gains in prices in the west as a result of unfavorable weather conditions, purchases of Plate corn would undoubtedly be larger.

Crop Conditions Bullish.

The crop generally is backward in this country as the weather has been unfavorable ever since corn was planted. Generally, however, prospects are not regarded as particularly bad, although fine weather is now urgently needed. With seasonable weather corn would soon make good gains. With a continuance of wet weather the fields will become too weedy to give the best results.

The shipping demand was fair for a time. In spite of the bad reports from the country the sales of corn to arrive have been quite liberal, the movement being quite liberal. Receipts for the week in the west were 3,196,000 bu against 4,014,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were moderate. Liverpool prices continue to hold steady, but the consumptive demand is abroad and ample supplies are expected from Argentina.

Cash Oats Are Strong.

Oats have followed the other markets. There has been a better demand for export than for the other grains, but business has been of a limited kind most of the time. Cash prices have advanced relative to the futures, and the standard oats in store have brought as high as 3¼c premium over the July. Crop news is favorable in the main.

Provisions have been irregular. The demand for cash stuff has been fair. Shipments are liberal. Hog receipts are only fair for the season and there is a fair demand for products for shipment. With other products high the buying demand is fair on the breaks. Receipts in the west for the week were 430,900 compared to 475,000 a year ago. Hog prices generally have been firm.

BOSTON COPPER NEWS

Greene-Cananea turned out its first copper on Friday, according to a telegram from the property. Two blast furnaces have been operating since midweek, while a reverberatory furnace will blow in tomorrow. Southern Pacific has been repairing its extension to Cananea, and will have this work completed by Tuesday.

In addition to the big increase in earnings of Utah Apex through the sensational advance in the price of lead, the company is profiting by the high price for electrolytic copper, of which ordinarily its production is insignificant. At present, however, Utah Apex is shipping about 100 tons of ore running 3 per cent to 3½ per cent copper from its Pistro tunnel on the 200 level. This is netting about $10,000 a month. the 300 level. This is netting about $10,000 a Steel is on the way for the new rock house at Mohawk, the foundations having been completed last week. The daily rock tonnage average of this mine is now 2,000.

MARSHALL FIELD CO. REVIEW

"Wholesale and retail distribution of dry goods shows unseasonable volume owing to the continued cool weather. Sales for future delivery by our traveling representatives are slightly ahead of those of the corresponding week a year ago. Fewer retailers have visited the market than during the same period last year. Collections are fair."

American Piano Company.

M. R.—The American Piano company was severely affected by the depression in 1914, but it earned and paid the 7 per cent dividend on its $3,838,600 of preferred stock. No dividends have been paid on common. Gross sales showed an increase every year from the formation of the company in 1908 to 1913. In the latter year sales amounted to $3,440,000 and net earnings to $393,065. Surplus after dividend was $122,963. In 1914 sales dropped to $2,682,000 and net earnings to $311,227. Total profit and loss surplus is $833,776. There are no bonds, but there is a contingent liability of $49,200 a year on bonds of the Chickering Investment company. The interest on these bonds is guaranteed, but not the principal. On this showing the preferred stock is not a conservative savings investment. The McCrory stores have been profitable for years. They recently issued new stock for the purpose of financing extensions of the business. The possibilities of the new stock evidently are to some extent unknown, and it could not be considered a conservative investment at present.

Southern Pacific.

C. J. C.—The Southern Pacific railway is suffering from the general business depression and it is affected also by the competition of the Panama canal. Its gross earnings for the ten months from June 30 last to April 30 showed a decrease of $8,682,540, or nearly 8 per cent, as compared with the year before. And this decrease followed a year of poor earnings. In the twelve months, 1913-'14, the gross decreased $4,250,000 compared with the preceding year. The earnings last year equaled 7½ per cent on the stock. Present indications are that the 6 per cent dividend will be earned in the year ending this month with a fraction of 1 per cent to spare. An improvement in general business will better the position of the company, but in the meantime the stock cannot be considered a conservative savings investment.

Distillers Securities.

P. P. B., Berwyn, Ill.—The Distillers Securities company has outstanding 308,183 shares, all of one class, of $100 par value each. From 1903 to 1907 it paid from 4 to 5½ per cent a year in dividends; from 1908 to 1912, 2 per cent, and nothing since. The company got deeply into debt two years ago and the present management has been devoting its energies, with success, to reducing the debt and accumulating working capital. The company has just sold 63,500 shares of United States Industrial Alcohol common stock at a price which netted it about $1,000,000 profit. This sum will practically wipe out the Distillers company's current liabilities.

Brief Answers.

J. M., Lake Geneva, Wis.—Stock of the Comstock Tunnel company is highly speculative. The company never has paid dividends and is supposed to have paid no bond interest for years. The bonds are not foreclosed because held by large owners of stock. The stock, of $2 par value, is now quoted at about 14 cents.

A. K., Canadian, Tex.—The Pyrene Manufacturing company has outstanding $1,000,000 of capital stock, all of one class. It paid 4 per cent in 1913 and began paying 1½ per cent quarterly in 1914. The company makes no reports of earnings or other details of its finances.

AGENCY PROBLEM UP TO RISK MEN

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

The Chicago Life Underwriters' association will hold a special meeting tomorrow noon during the lunch hour at the Hotel La Salle to discuss the resolution that was laid over from the previous meeting pertaining to the employment of agents that devote only a part of their time to soliciting life insurance. The idea of the special committee that has been going into this subject is to put the association on record.

There is considerable difference of opinion among the members as to whether the organization should take any definite stand on the subject, owing to the various systems on which the offices are operated. One or two insurance agencies in Chicago will not employ any agent that does not give his whole time to soliciting.

Committee Reports Resolution.

The special committee of the association that has been wrestling with the subject has brought in the following resolution with the recommendation that it pass:

"Resolved, That it is the sentiment of this association that no one shall be appointed as an agent by any company, manager, or agent, to solicit business in Chicago who does not intend within a reasonable time to become a full time solicitor of life insurance."

The resolution has aroused considerable opposition among agencies that believe there is a legitimate part time man. Some declare that a large part of the life insurance business is originated through so-called pluggers or helpers who keep their eyes and ears open for prospects to tip off to the regular agents. Many part time men solicit insurance evenings or at odd hours when they are not at their regular task.

Company Heads Present Views.

The main opposition to the part timer is directed against the man who secures a license to solicit with the intention only of getting a commission on his own policy or a few relatives or some business associate. This constitutes a legalized rebate and is generally frowned upon.

President Isaac Miller Hamilton of the Federal Life of Chicago, in speaking of the part time subject, said that there are well managed companies that believe in hiring part time agents, and he does not thing that the Life Underwriters' association should invade the province of company management. President George R. McLeran of the association is in favor of the organization taking a definite stand against part time agents. He believes that the so-called life insurance broker or expert is a menace to the business and he warns the public against men of this nature, who, he says, merely twist policies from one company to another in order to get a commission. He claims that the advice they give is not disinterested, but is purely selfish.

Important Notice From Mexico

VENUSTIANO CARRANZA, First Chief of the Constitutionalist Army in charge of the Executive Power and Leader of the Revolution, by virtue of the extraordinary faculties with which I am invested, and considering the difficulties in means of communication that prevail in certain sections of the Country, I have been pleased to decree as follows:—

1st. It is extended for two months, that is to say, up to June 29th of this year, the assignated term by Article 3rd of the Decree of January the 29th, 1915, which refers to all those concerned in CONTRACTS, CONCESSIONS and PERMITS to which such disposition refers to, must be presented to the Secretary of the Treasury and of Public Credit for the revision and revalidation, as the case may be. On such places as are now out of the control of this Government, the prorogation as the principal term will take effect beginning on the date of occupation of said places by the Constitutionalist Army.

2nd. The aforesaid CONTRACTS, CONCESSIONS and PERMITS which were not presented to the Secretary of the Treasury and of Public Credit for its revision and revalidation, as the case may be, on or before the end of such term and prorogation, will be declared null and void, and the Government will proceed in accordance with the rules stipulated on the said Contracts, Concessions and Permits in case of caducity.

Signed and sealed under my hand in the City of Vera Cruz, on the 20th day of April, 1915.

CONSTITUTION AND REFORMS.
V. CARRANZA.

40 ACRES FREE
One day only, Friday, June 25

WILL SACRIFICE FARM LAND TO EARLY INVESTOR.

Free only to the first nine buyers who sign contracts.

The terrible war in Europe has made money hard to get and forced us to sacrifice a portion of our wonderfully rich, deep loam Oneida County, Wisconsin, farm lands. The finest agricultural and dairy lands in this country. They are located on the borders of beautiful lakes.

The forty acres which we will absolutely give away do not border on lakes. The land which you will purchase does.

This is without a doubt the most advantageous opportunity every presented to you, but you must take advantage of it at once. On Friday, June 25.

Come to our office as soon as possible and make arrangements to join our excursion. You cannot afford to miss this chance of a lifetime.

Besides forty acres free, the property you will buy will be sold to you at the greatest bargain prices you ever heard of and on exceptionally easy terms.

Women's Fiber Silk Sweater Coats, $5, $9.75 and $12.50

Out-of-the-Ordinary Both in Value and Variety

Thoroughly well fashioned in the smartest of lines and splendidly fitting—that may be said of each and every silk sweater coat offered here today.

And we speak within bounds when we emphasize these as the most unusual values, we believe, to be found in sweater coats of this character.

The Fibre Silk Sweater Coats at $5

The Fibre Silk Sweater Coats at $9.75

Summer Negligees—An Exquisite Showing at $1.95, $2.95 and $3.95

HEALTH RESORTS

MUDLAVIA TREATMENT

Has the Endorsement of Eminent Physicians.

Dr. George F. Butler, physician and author, Emeritus Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery, gives high praise to Mudlavia.

"The Mudlavia Treatment soothes and restores the nervous, tired and overworked who need rest and rebuilding away from daily worries. This famous treatment is fundamentally a drawing-out process, opening up the skin pores, but is mild, gentle and progressive. It simply replaces natural normal operations where they have been interrupted by disease of any kind, or mistakes of living, or the weakening of the body through false diet, overwork, lack of exercise, or old age."

"I think well of all your service, but I have told many people that I think your medical policy best worth the money of anything at Mudlavia." Ask for names of benefited patients from your own locality.
